Union Paid for Racing Rackets Probe Charges

ONTARIO TO PROSECUTE SUNDAY NEWSPAPERS

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Kelso Roberts of Ontario announced today he is launching a prosecution against the Toronto Telegram under the Lord's Day Act for publication of a Sunday newspaper last Sunday.

Mr. Roberts also told the Ontario Legislature he is consenting to prosecutions against Toronto's two other daily newspapers—the morning Globe and Mail and the evening Star—as well as the CBC and radio station CKEY .

CAN'T RECALL

Frank W. Brewster, west coast Teamsters' boss, today told a U.S. Senate committee probing union racketeering, that he "can't remember" whether the son of his race horse trainer travelled by air at the union's expense or whether his jockey's expenses were paid out of such funds. Probe now is in fourth week. (AP wirephoto.)

Brewster Promises To Check Records

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets investigating committee today received documentary evidence it said showed teamsters union funds were used to pay expenses of Frank Brewster's race horse jockey, trainer, horse vans and a union organizer who exercised Brewster's horses.

Brewster, west coast teamsters' boss, neither confirmed nor denied the payments. He said he couldn't recall such payments from union funds but promised "I will check into them."

Union Paid for Lodgings

Kennedy said that among other things they disclosed union funds were spent for lodgings for Brewster's jockey, Richard Cavallero; his trainer, Mel Eisen, and a union organizer named Terry McNulty.

This came from records of a motel Kennedy said was two miles from Tanforan race track and four miles from Bay Meadows track.

Brewster said while McNulty was paid as a union organizer, he wasn't working on union time when he exercised Brewster's horses during dawn hours.

Kennedy asked why the union paid for McNulty's expenses while staying at a motel so close to the tracks.

"Well, it was close to a big highway, where he could check up on trucks, see if they were organized," Brewster said, adding: "It's a natural place for an organizer to stay in rather than in the heart of a city."

Some of the union people, Brewster added, had to check about labor conditions of gate men, parking lot employees and others around the tracks.

TWO AIR TRIPS

Among other documents Kennedy produced were two he said indicated that Bobby Eisen, identified by Brewster as the son of his former horse trainer, made two air trips, one costing $46.09 and the other $55.22, at union expense.

Brewster's comment was "I can't remember." He has more or less conceded that he has got his personal funds and teamsters fund mixed up.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem., Ark.) told Brewster the inquiry had been handicapped by the destruction of union records he had sought to subpoena, making it necessary to go to bank records and other sources for information.

STRONG SUSPICIONS

"It raises some very strong suspicions as to what the records would show if we had them," McClellan said. "Would you agree to that?"

"It isn't good," Brewster replied.

The testimony marked the start of the fourth week and 13th day of public hearings by the committee.

In advance of the session, Kennedy told reporters the questioning of Brewster might have a "vital" bearing on a later inquiry involving Dave Beck, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

CLAIMS LOAN REPAID

Beck said in a television interview Sunday that he had borrowed $300,000 to $400,000 of union funds some years ago without interest, and paid back "every cent" of it.

Kennedy said the committee was investigating the loans to Beck long before the union president mentioned them on television.

He said he plans to check income tax returns of both Beck and Brewster.

UNEF Can Stay In Gaza---Egypt

Ben-Gurion Warns Israel Will Fight If Denied Gulf of Aqaba Shipping

(UP and AP Dispatches)

Egypt has assured the United States that it has no present plans to send troops into the Gaza Strip, along whose borders Israeli sources reported new minor violence today.

Cairo dispatches also reported that Egypt has assured the United Nations it has no intention of pushing the UN Emergency Force out of the disputed strip.

At the same time, Cairo has outlined its views on future Egyptian operation of the Suez Canal, now open to ships up to 1,000 tons, in a memorandum handed to representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union, India and the UN.

The three moves eased the tension in the Mid-East, where officials feared the minor Gaza border incidents might mushroom into major trouble.

In New York today Premier David Ben-Gurion was quoted in an interview as saying that if President Nasser denies Israel passage into the Gulf of Aqaba his country will go to war. Newsweek magazine's Tel Aviv correspondent quoted Ben-Gurion as saying: "If Nasser tries to block the Gulf of Aqaba, we will meet him not at the peace table, but elsewhere with our armies."

2 RCN Ships Limp Into Halifax; Collided While Seeking Lost Plane

HALIFAX (BUP) — Two Royal Canadian Navy ships limped into Halifax harbor today after colliding while searching for a missing Avenger aircraft.

The 1,300-ton coastal escort vessel Portage was the first to make port, arriving shortly after noon under her own steam. The 2,360-ton frigate Lauzon followed 30 minutes later under tow from the tug St. John.

The collision took place early today about 50 miles southeast of Halifax. The ships were two of seven called out Monday night to help in the search.

Reports from the scene indicated that the Portage, the smaller of the two ships, rammed the Lauzon in the side. No one was seriously injured in the collision though an able seaman on the Lauzon suffered a bruised hand. Weather conditions at the time were favorable, with visibility good, the wind light and the sea calm.

A preliminary inspection of both ships was carried out this afternoon at HMCS dockyard in Halifax. A naval spokesman said the Portage received severe damage to her stem while her forepeak was broken open and several compartments flooded. The Lauzon was holed on her starboard side about one-third of the way from her stern with a number of compartments aft flooded.

The skipper of the Lauzon is Lieut.-Cmdr. James C. Carter of Montreal and the commander of the Portage is Lieut.-Cmdr. Kenneth R. Crombie of West Vancouver.

The LESTER PATRICK Story

(After more than half a century connected with ice hockey, both in Canada and the U.S., Victoria's Lester Patrick has decided to make a permanent retirement from the game. In a 10-part series, Archie Wills, former sports editor and former managing editor of the Times, tells the human story of Lester through the days of his greatest fame until the present. This is the third installment.

By ARCHIE WILLS

SECRET AMBITION

Lester got his first taste of real hockey competition when he was 18 and Canada and himself had embarked on a new century, the 20th, which was to be, according to some prognosticators, Canada's Century. It also turned out to be a very eventful one for young Patrick.

The Montreal Juniors had won their league title and had qualified to meet the Ottawa champions for national laurels.

They were to meet in Ottawa and the home team had been established 3-to-1 favorites.

Archie Wills

Lester had settled into his favorite position, rover, which was the key spot in seven-man hockey. The rover was both a defence man and a forward and was a playmaker. Even at this early age, when Lester was still a tall, skinny kid, he was a good skater, an excellent stickhandler and could lay a pass on his forward's sticks without either having to take a second look. Never packing a board-rattling shot, Lester was the master of the feint and once inside the defence, he was deadly.

"I never wasted a shot; it was always dead on," says Lester, when he thinks how many shots are wasted these days.

It was at this time that he let his father in on the secret which he had nursed for several years.

He was making good progress both in hockey and in business, having been promoted to manager of one of his father's five wood and coal offices.

But, he still wanted to be something else.

A cowboy!

When Father Patrick was advised of the secret, he inwardly revelled in his son's ambition and said:

Pt. Ellice Span Closes June 17 For 3 Months

Point Ellice Bridge will be closed June 17 when demolition work starts to make way for a new $500,000 span.

The closure will be for at least three months during which time traffic will be diverted over Johnson Street Bridge.

City engineer James Garnett today made a first-hand underwater inspection of the piers under Johnson Street Bridge to make sure it will be strong enough to bear the extra traffic.

Mr. Garnett, who descended to a depth of 18 feet to examine the Johnson Street Bridge piers said he discovered a few small cavities but nothing serious had come to his attention.

He will dive again to examine the piers more fully. He said he did not know whether repairs would be made to the few erosions noted.

REPAIRS CHEAP

While the damage below waterline is not considered serious, repairs could be effected cheaply while the underwater cement specialist firm of Intrusion Prepakt Ltd. is working here.

Steel for the bridge is being prefabricated at present by Dominion Bridge Ltd. in Vancouver, the firm holding the construction contract. Latest estimate of cost for the span is $560,089, reduced by about $170,000 in federal grants and CNR assistance.

First work on the new Point Ellice span will be construction of two small piers on the west end of the existing span.

One-Way Street Opponents Start Special Survey

A group of Douglas Street merchants will make an independent door-to-door survey today to determine whether property owners on the city's main street oppose or support the Faustman one-way street plan.

The action means city council Wednesday will be faced with two surveys, the other undertaken by public works officials for works chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney.

The new survey will be conducted on Douglas Street only while Ald. Mooney's survey will take in Government Street property-owners.

Question being asked by the merchants is: "Do you favor at this time the making of any part of Douglas Street a one-way street for north-bound traffic, anywhere south of the roundabout?"

Firms sponsoring the survey are Eddy's Ltd., Hudson's Bay Company, Victoria City Motels Ltd., Paul's Drive-In, Angus Marine and Stewart-Warner. All oppose the one-way plan.

Dr. Adams Jaunty as Defence Hammers at Key Crown Witness

LONDON (Reuters)—A key Crown witness in the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams swayed and nearly fainted today under 2½ hours of relentless cross-examination.

Helen Stronach was one of the four nurses employed by wealthy widow, Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, whom Adams is accused of murdering. She testified in the second day of the trial at Old Bailey, London's central criminal court.

Defence counsel Geoffrey Lawrence went through the nurses' records of the case entry by entry. Twice he accused Miss Stronach's memory of "playing tricks" and persuaded her to change some of her testimony.

Lawrence questioned her entry on Nov. 2, 1950—11 days before the elderly widow's death—saying Mrs. Morrell was "semi-conscious and rambling." He made Miss Stronach read from her own notes what the widow had eaten for lunch that day.

There was a stir in the court as she read out: "Partridge, celery, pudding and brandy and soda."

"Having looked at these notes, it is quite clear it was wrong to say she was semi-conscious and rambling," Lawrence said.

Miss Stronach replied: "Apparently so."

The defence also gained her admission that there was not a single entry showing she gave any morphine to the patient. He challenged as "quite inaccurate" the statement that Mrs. Morrell was "doped and half asleep" when the 58-year-old doctor paid night visits.

DIG THAT CRAZY COIN!

United States "double eagle"—a $20 gold piece stamped in 1858—was unexpected bonus for bulldozer contractor William H. Williams on Esquimalt Road job. Coin was turned up by tractor blade. Mr. Williams said one catalogue consulted estimated value of coin at $300. It was found at depth of three feet. (Times Photo.)

TCA Grounds Viscount Planes

MONTREAL (BUP) — Trans-Canada Airlines today grounded most of its Viscount turbo-prop airplanes for the second time in order to replace the bolts in the flap mechanism, president Gordon McGregor disclosed.

The move followed "further consultations" with the manufacturers, Vickers - Armstrong Ltd., who suggested the complete change as an "ultra-ultra safety measure."

The change was the result of the pioneer model's first fatal crash in England last Thursday, in which 22 persons were killed.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Thou, my Lord, silent before Thy traducers like a sheep that is dumb before its shearer, I would learn of Thee. Let my honest and open life still the wagging tongue. Help me extract from every knock a boost and to rejoice in my critics as the unpaid guardians of my soul; in Christ's name. Amen.

PM to Discuss Queen's Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today he will discuss with Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain at their Bermuda meeting prospects of a visit by the Queen to Canada.

He gave this information in the Commons as he outlined subjects which he and Mr. Macmillan plan to talk over at their conference March 25 and 26.

Police Rule Out Foul Play Theory

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Detective Inspector James Blackadder says there is no suspicion of foul play in the death of Reeve William A. MacEwen of nearby Maxville, Ont., whose body was found in his car in the Cornwall canal Monday night.

Mr. MacEwen disappeared Jan. 23 and there was a theory he had been kidnapped or slain

GREGORY DEMANDS DISMISSAL OF BOARD

Binding Specialists' Rulings Asked on Compensation Appeals

George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria) introduced a bill to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act in the legislature Monday night.

The bill, tabled without notice, would amend a section of the act dealing with appeals and would force the board to follow recommendations of specialists called in on appeals.

He stated that in several appeal cases recently the specialist's opinion had been disregarded and the original board ruling upheld.

Earlier, he demanded replacement of the entire Workmen's Compensation Board, stating:

"This board has had its chance . . . we need a new one."

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Educated Cows Moo-ooted!

Rev. P. A. Gaglardi, British Columbia's perky highways minister, has no intention of being saddled with the responsibility for horses and cattle wandering over his highways.

He made this clear Monday when Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) suggested Mr. Gaglardi's department should "do something" about horses and cattle roaming at will and causing danger to traffic.

Mr. Gaglardi looked righteously indignant as he rose to his feet.

"Surely," he said, with a half-imploring look around the House, "this department has enough trouble building highways and mending potholes without running after stray animals."

Then, his face lighting up with inspiration, he added:

"Why not turn them over to the education department"

Mr. Speaker Irwin Mixes His Governors

Speaker Tom Irwin dropped a brick at Monday's night sitting when he said:

"I have the honor to present a message from His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor F. M. Wallace . . ."

"Who is Mr. Wallace?" asked Robert Strachan, chief of the CCF clan.

Mr. Speaker hastily amended his statement. He had juggled the names and initials of the present governor, Hon. F. M. Ross, and the former governor, Hon. Clarence Wallace.

The 14 uniformed page boys who run messages in the legislature were entertained to lunch in the parliamentary restaurant Monday by the Speaker.

All are pupils at St. Louis College, Victoria, which "allowed the boys to take this work after Greater Victoria school board refused to release boys from public schools, as was done prior to 1954.

Rev. Brother G. P. Lyons retains control of the boys while they are working in the legislature and Mr. Irwin says this system works well.

"The boys we have now do the job better than those we had before. They are smart, efficient and well-behaved. Mr. Lyons watches them so closely that two were actually suspended earlier in the session because they did not live up to the standard."

The boys were given souvenir menu cards of the luncheon (at which they ate steak) and later they collected autographs from members of the House.

"It was a swell lunch," one of them said.

Two immigrants from Britain, here just four days, were in the public gallery following the proceedings with close interest.

"We want to learn all we can about British Columbia and we thought we should start with the government," said breezy, good-looking Herbert Ford, who with his young wife, Mary, flew to Victoria from Kendal, Westmorland, last week.

Merchants Hire Traffic Expert To Study New 1-Way Street Plan

City council will continue debate on redevelopment of the Fountain Circle when it meets Wednesday.

Results of a survey of property holders on Douglas and Government on the one-way street question will be considered.

Ald. M. H. Mooney told council Monday that so far 85 per cent of those queried are in favor of the one-way street plan submitted by traffic expert J. D. Faustman.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, speaking for Douglas Street merchants opposing one-way streets, says no decision should be reached until a further report is obtained from Mr. Faustman.

Mayor Scurrah told council he had been informed the Hudson's Bay Company has hired the California engineer to bring in an alternative to the one-way plan.

ONE OF SIX

(Actually, HBC officials explained today, the firm is only one of a committee of six merchants affected who have arranged the survey.)

Mayor Scurrah said HBC plans to erect a two-storey parking garage on the site of the frozen food plant now east of the store parking lot.

"It will not go in if the one-way streets go in," the mayor said.

After a lengthy traffic study, engineer Faustman recommended lats year that the Hillside-Douglas-Gorge-Government intersection be rebuilt with two traffic islands. Traffic flow would be north on Douglas from Herald to Hillside and south on Government over the same distance.

Mayor Scurrah started argument Monday by asking the whole matter be tabled until the HBC alternative plan study was completed by Mr. Faustman.

Ald. Don Smith opposed any delay.

"If we yield to government by pressure groups it's wrong," he said.

He called for a six-month trial of the one-way street plan. He thought council should have "courage" to make its own decisions.

"It isn't a question of courage. I am personally not sold on one-way streets at this time," said the mayor.

Later, when Ald. Mooney revealed a survey of homes and businesses on Douglas between Hillside and Princess supported the one-way plan, the mayor added:

"That is a different story. It may change my thinking. I want to do what is best."

He suggested tabling the issue to Wednesday, when another council meeting on school costs is slated.

As a committee-of-the-whole, council approved in principle the Faustman recommendation that Superior Street be extended across Beacon Hill Park to take civil servant traffic off the main downtown streets.

NEW LIGHTS

Also approved was the suggestion that traffic lights be installed at Bay and Blanshard, Quadra, Cook and Fernwood and at Hillside at Cook and Blanshard.

The question of business suffering through traffic regulations came up again when council debated a recommendation that parking be abolished along Government Street nightly between 4 and 6 o'clock.

This would permit four lanes of north-south traffic.

"We should move cautiously. We are not out to do damage to the downtown merchants. We must go slowly as far as drastic moves (are concerned)," said Ald. Edgelow.

Chief John Blackstock gained council approval on a compromise suggestion that parking be restricted for the rush hours on the east side of Government only. This would permit two lanes north and one lane south.

THIEF 'SHOT' HIS VICTIMS TO SLEEP

TURIN, Italy (UP) — A self-styled Don Juan confessed today he used a water pistol loaded with chloroform to put his girl friends to sleep while he robbed them.

Cristoforo Leumia, 35, told police he invited girls in night-clubs for drives, "shot" them with the pistol and then abandoned them on park benches after taking their valuables.

'Snaky, Sinuous and Big,' Caddy Returns for Summer?

Three persons believe they saw Victoria's most elusive sea creature, "Caddy," surface in the water off Dallas Road and Menzies on Sunday.

Mrs. Joan Sledlecka, her husband, Zbigniew, and their eight-year-old daughter, Josephine, said they were looking out to sea when they saw three large humps in the water. The time was 5.45 in the afternoon.

Mrs. Sledlecka said it was something "snaky, sinuous and big" in appearance.

She discounted the suggestion that she may have seen dolphins.

"I think we probably saw Caddy," she said.

. . . PATRICK

"Alright, my boy, get yourself a 60-day return ticket to the west and see how you like it."

Father Patrick wanted his son to get the experience but, he knew the wages would be $25 a month, with work from sunrise to sunset, and he expected that Lester would be fed up with that and willing to come home within the 60 days.

Lester got fed up with the work very quickly but he met Col. J. S. Denis, superintendent of irrigation for the CPR in Calgary, and switched over to a job as a rod and chain man, at $45 a month, and all found. There was an eight-hour day and you didn't work when it rained but were paid for it just the same.

When the Fall was waning Lester looked over the open-air rinks in Calgary and read an advertisement in the papers for hockey players to sign up with Brandon.

Inquiry revealed that Brandon had signed players for all positions but "point." In that day the defence was staggered similar to that in lacrosse. In front of the goalie was the "point," in front of him "cover" and ahead of him "rover."

Lester wired his father for permission to stay the winter in Brandon and see how he could make out in senior company. He had seen enough of the life of cowboys while in the Calgary area to side-track his secret boyhood ambition and now had his mind centred on being a hockey player.

A REVOLUTION

The opening game in Brandon was notable for a revolution. Lester's name was to be forever associated with the changing of defensive tactics in hockey and to be the forerunner of the many innovations which his fertile and strategic brain would produce.

Games at that time were divided into halves of 30 minutes each.

The first half was well under way and the defence men were toddling along at their general tactics of stopping the forwards. The defence men never moved out of their end. Once they had recovered the puck they pushed it ahead to the forwards and let them carry the attack.

Lester was impatient and his mental processes were stimulated when two opposing forwards closed in on him at his position at "point." He took the puck from them and, before the fans and other players realized what was happening, Lester was stickhandling his way down the ice and went in on goal for a shot.

For the necessary dramatic effect we can't say that Lester's first mission resulted in a goal, but the shot was dead on and the goalie was startled.

In the intermission the players were badgering Lester about his foolish tactics. Then spoke up Charles McWhirter, president of the Brandon Hockey Club:

"Why, can't I rush?" replied Lester. "I can't see why I can't try to do some damage before they come back at us. They didn't score against us when I was rushing. Why can't I still try?"

"That makes sense to me," said McWhirter.

Make sense it did. Before the game finished Lester had scored two goals and from that game on defence men had to be able to rush and carry the puck as well as bounce the attackers into the stands.

Brandon won the Manitoba championship and the team went east to meet the celebrated Silver Seven for the Stanley Cup, the first time Lester was to appear in that celebrated contest. In the two-game series Brandon lost but Lester was now firmly established as a star in the national winter sport.

miner, said to be wholly disabled from silicosis.

He said the board had disregarded a petition of right filed by Mr. Zucco in which he claimed a silicosis pension.

"His case has been crystalized under the Workmen's Compensation Act, yet nothing has been done about it. The obvious duty of the cabinet is to endorse this petition with those famous words 'let right be done.'"

REFEREES

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks replied that a special board of referees for silicosis cases has been set up by the WCB on the recommendation of a Toronto specialist who was called in by the government last year.

The board will be headed by a professor of the University of B.C. faculty of medicine and two other physicians.

Mr. Wicks read a letter from WCB chairman J. Edwin Eades stating that the Zucco case will be given "immediate" attention by the board of referees.

CCF Leader Robert Strachan noted that there had been during the present session "concerted protests from both sides of the House that the Workmen's Compensation Board change its approach and methods."

"In too many cases in the last few years the board has been leaning over backwards to protect itself and its funds," Mr. Strachan said.

First Narrows Dredging Approved

(From Times News Services)

The House voted approval Monday of a $1 expenditure and thus authorized the government to spend $236,229 for dredging in the First Narrows, entrance to Vancouver Harbor.

Howard Green (PC, Vancouver, Quadra), apparently puzzled by a $1 item in estimates for public works expenditure in B.C., asked for an explanation.

Finance Minister Harris said it will authorize the spending of $236,229 for the dredging. However, $236,228 was available from money authorized but unspent on other projects in B.C. during the fiscal year ending March 31. Thus only a $1 vote was needed to go ahead.

He said he was unable to answer a further question by Mr. Green as to whether this will complete a planned project to dredge the First Narrows and build a causeway at the Second Narrows, farther inside Vancouver harbor.

Action Urged on Plukker Case

Immigration Minister Pickersgill said he will check right away to see what progress is being made on the case of Calgary philharmonic orchestra conductor Henry Plukker.

He was replying to Carl Nickle (PC, Calgary South) who asked whether the immigration department has reached a final decision on Mr. Plukker's case.

Speaking as the House considered immigration department pending estimates, Mr. Nickle noted that Mr. Plukker and his wife have been in Canada for two years but so far have not been accepted as immigrants.

Mr. Plukker was a "resident by sufferance" on whose behalf the minister had intervened twice to grant the conductor one-year extensions on his stay in Canada.

Mr. Plukker now was on the latter part of his "second stay of execution" and, Mr. Nickle said, he would like to know how soon the department will decide that the conductor has "sufficiently proved" his worthiness of Canadian citizenship.

Mr. Pickersgill said he couldn't say for sure how much progress has been made on the case. He hadn't checked lately but he would right away and let Mr. Nickle know.

The House heard a suggestion from Max Campbell that many Indians leaving reservations are becoming a "generation of bums" because they don't know how to work.

As members discussed supplementary spending estimates of the citizenship and immigration department, the CCF member for The Battlefords in Saskatchewan said the Indians need to be taught to help themselves.

He also suggested that the department be split into two so the minister in charge would not be so busy. He said he thinks Citizenship Minister Pickersgill is too busy.

Mr. Campbell conceded that there has been some progress in Indian welfare in the last two years, but he was "not a bit satisfied" with it. In other directions ground has been lost.

The opposition Monday renewed its request that elderly people moving to other countries be allowed to take their old age pension rights with them.

Howard Green (PC-Vancouver Quadra) said many old people want to move south for their health or perhaps return to old family homes in Britain. But if they did, they forfeited the pension paid by the federal government to those over 70.

Mr. Green also urged an easing in the requirment that pension recipients must have lived in Canada for 20 years.

The difference between a cattle farmer and a fruit grower is his stomach, says H. W. Herridge.

You see it at conventions of the two groups, the CCF member from Kootenay West said. The cattle raisers are "fat and paunchy-looking" while 90 per cent of fruit growers are "lean and hungry-looking."

Mr. Herridge, who classed himself in the second group, was protesting the federal government's rejection of a request by British Columbia Fruit Growers for a subsidy of 25 cents a box on their 1955 crop.

He said B.C. apple growers lost 25 cents a box that year when the price didn't meet their costs.

Mr. Herridge said the government is more inclined to help wheat and cattle producers and suggested that was because Agriculture Minister Gardiner's Prairie experience inclined him that way.

Pastor Kills Thug Who Shot Police Sergeant

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. (AP)—A Methodist minister shot and killed a fleeing bank robber Monday just after the gunman had killed a state police sergeant at a highway roadblock.

In quick succession, only half an hour after a bank robbery at nearby Sellersburg, the double shooting cut down Marvin E. Walts, 49, a veteran of 19 years' state police service, and William Hassett, 25, Louisville.

Rev. Robert Gingery, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church in neighboring New Albany, was riding with Sgt. Walts, a member of his church, on Walts' day off, when the police radio sounded the manhunt alarm.

Walts was sent to a roadblock four miles north of Jeffersonville. Jeffersonville is across the Ohio River from Louisville, Ky.

At the nearby Charleston post, where Walts had been first sergeant almost 10 years, Walts' voice came over the radio from the roadblock, reporting that he had captured the bank robber. He asked for reinforcements to help bring the man in.

SLAYS BANDIT

There was a few moments' silence. Then a shaken voice came over the radio:

"This is Rev. Gingery. Marvin has been shot. I have killed the bank robber. I'm sure Marvin is dead."

Later the minister was near shock.

State police said the minister reported Walts ordered Hassett to get out of his escape car at the roadblock, about six miles south of Sellersburg, and that Hassett drew a gun and shot Walts in the head as he got out. Gingery said he then grabbed a shotgun from the state police car and shot Hassett.

Later, two women tellers identified Hassett as the young man who robbed the bank. The $1,655 loot was recovered.

First Battalion, PPCLI, now with Canada's NATO forces in Europe will be stationed at Camp Gordon Head on its return to this country late in the fall, B.C. Area Army Headquarters confirmed today.

Second Battalion, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, scheduled for a tour of duty with Canadian forces in Germany, are to leave Camp Gordon Head in October or November.

Higher Fines Set For Bad Drivers

Stiffer fines for traffic violators are provided for in a new Motor-Vehicle Act introduced in the legislature Monday night.

British Columbia is the first province to adopt a new traffic code which is expected to be made uniform across Canada, a government spokesman said.

$500 TOP

The new act will give police court magistrates more leeway in assessing fines by providing a $10 minimum and $500 maximum for all traffic offences.

At present they are held to varying minimum and maximum penalties for different violations, with $300 the top fine.

The new regulations will supersede all special municipal highway traffic laws.

It provides that right-hand turns against a red light, now legal in Victoria, will be approved throughout the province.

Passing on the right, except when the road is divided into lanes, will be prohibited throughout B.C. This regulation also is being enforced in Victoria at the present time.

Other changes in the act:

Visitors to the province will not have to register their vehicles until 14 days after their arrival, instead of 24 hours as at present.

$2 FEE

A straight $2 fee will be charged for licences for all municipal vehicles and school buses. Previously a cabinet order in council has been required to rescind all or part of the standard licence fee for these vehicles.

Powers of police magistrates to suspend the licences of juvenile delinquents are strengthened.

Magistrates are empowered to suspend the licence of out-of-province visitors who are involved in accidents. These tourists will be allowed to drive out of B.C. by a specified route.

Resident drivers whose licences are suspended may not drive again until a court judgment is reached and additional proof of financial responsibility is provided.

Rebate Ruling No Surprise To B.C. Premier

Premier Bennett said Monday he "never thought for a moment" that Ottawa would charge income tax on B.C.'s $28 tax rebate to homeowners.

He was commenting on an announcement in the Commons by Revenue Minister McCann that his department had decided the Alberta $22 dividend is taxable, but the B.C. payment is not.

Dividends from natural resources belong to the provinces and not the federal government, Mr. Bennett said.

"The great issue now is whether the people will be allowed to have a return from their own natural resources without taxation or whether this bureaucracy in Ottawa will prevent them from sharing in their rightful heritage," the premier added.

Fence Curb Suggested In Uplands

An amendment to the Uplands Regulations By-Law that would restrict certain types of fences was suggested to Oak Bay council at a recent meeting by Andrew Wright of Uplands Ltd.

He said some residents were annoyed by a type of fence around one house on Lansdowne, and recommended that no fence be over three feet high to be built on any lot within 35 feet of any street; also that no fence over seven feet high be built on any lot more than 35 feet from the street.

Complaints had been heard, he said, on "corral-type" fences being built.

TOO NEAR HOMES

Oak Bay School Addition Fought By Homeowners

Six residents of Armstrong Avenue and Cranmore Road Monday appealed to Oak Bay Council to intervene in proposed construction of an addition to Oak Bay High School adjacent to their properties.

They said "it would seem that with the large areas available near and adjacent to the present Oak Bay High School and Junior High School, some other part of these grounds could be used for the proposed school building.

"This we feel would avoid any depreciation of our property values."

QUICK WORK

Reeve Fred Norris said "what astounds me is that the school by-law passed only three weeks ago, and the board is already in a position to present plans."

Coun. Geoffrey Ellis said school trustee Richard Reeve, Esquimalt, gave him a "brush off" when he tried to obtain information by telephone on the proposed expansion.

The letter from the residents was tabled pending further information on school board plans.

In other developments, council decided to write Education Minister Leslie Peterson and Premier Bennett, complaining of unbalanced sharing of school costs.

Action followed a letter from T. R. B. Adams, executive director of Union of B.C. Municipalities which is taking the issue up with all municipalities.

5.3% BOOST

Inside staff workers in the municipality informed council they are willing to settle wage negotiations with a 5.3 per cent across-the-board increase. This was accepted.

The pavilion in Windsor Park, which has suffered more than $100 damage the last two months when used by various boys groups, will be closed after March 21 until it is learned who is causing the damage.

Five mesh windows were recently replaced, and council heard another six have been broken.

SAFETY DEVICE ISSUE

Civil Servant Only 'Courtesy' Director

Robert E. Swanson, chief inspector of railways for B.C., has no active interest in a firm which manufactures safety devices required by his department, the legislature was told Monday night.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks said Mr. Swanson was made a director of the Airchime Manufacturing Co. of Vancouver only as a "courtesy" a number of years ago because the firm had adopted a number of his inventions.

The minister read a letter from solicitors of the firm stating that Mr. Swanson had "never participated in the meetings of the company or taken an interest in its management."

NO ACCUSATIONS

Mr. Squire said after Mr. Wicks read the letter that he had made no accusations against Mr. Swanson.

"I don't doubt the sincerity of Mr. Swanson's intentions," Mr. Squire said, but added that he considered it a matter of principle that civil servants should not hold any position in private industry dealing with the government.

The Tension Returns

TWO MAJOR ISSUES ARE AT stake in the Middle East today. One is a settlement of the current Israeli-Egyptian struggle, preliminary to a long-term solution of Jewish-Arab differences. The other is the future of the United Nations Emergency Force—and the United Nations itself—arising from its success or failure in the vital test of its efficacy that is now under way.

The withdrawal of Israel's forces from Egyptian territory had appeared at last to clear the way for a peaceful settlement under United Nations jurisdiction. Israel had withdrawn "unconditionally" insofar as the U.N. evacuation resolution was concerned, but in actual fact on the understanding that Egyptian forces would not immediately be allowed in the Gaza Strip (from where they could again stage raids on Israel), and that the Gulf of Aqaba would be free to Israeli and other shipping.

Both those understandings are now imperilled. Egypt, within a matter of hours following the Jewish evacuation, had appointed an administrator for the Gaza territory and was sending forces in to police it. It appeared that the U.N. peace-keeping troops might shortly be requested to leave—a disastrous and ignominous end to hopes for establishment of an effective, permanent international force.

More ominous still was Saudi Arabia's declaration on Monday that the Gulf of Aqaba was an Arab possession, and that passage of Israeli shipping would be opposed "with every means in our power."

These developments, background-ing urgent requests by Israel for a tougher United States policy in regard to the Arabs, brings tensions again to the snapping point. In such an atmosphere shooting could very easily break out.

In one sense, however, the increased danger entails an advantage. The need for continued United Nations occupancy of positions along the Egyptian-Israeli border, and at the mouth of the Gulf of Aqaba, will be all the more obvious to the world. In the face of armies threatening to fight, a demand from President Nasser for evacuation of the United Nations force would get little support. The greater the danger of fire, the more need for firemen. Secretary General Hammarskjold's hand should be greatly strenthened in his dealings with the Egyptian dictator.

The Saudi Arabian declaration, too, should give much more weight to Senator Knowland and his bipartisan supporters in urging a stronger Egyptian policy on President Eisenhower. The vaguely worded U.S. assurances to Israel have not advanced beyond Mr. Dulles' promise to use American "influence in seeking the objectives of peace and tranquillity" in the Middle East—a sentiment with which Colonel Nasser, the Kremlin and other sources might well, in their own ways, agree.

It is essential for future security that the United Nations come out of this situation with enhanced prestige and authority. That can only happen if the Arab nations can be persuaded — diplomatically or through a show of strength—to adhere to the spirit as well as the letter of the settlement.

Mr. Bennett's Reserve Fund

THE BENNETT GOVERNMENT has set aside $36,000,000 of the taxpayers' money ostensibly to reduce the provincial debt. But as Mr. Gibbs says (reading the fine print of the Premier's budget speech) this money may not be used for debt reduction after all. And the very fact that Mr. Bennett has set it aside, with other purposes in view, indicates how the provincial debt is not declining, as he claims, but is rising.

The fund of thirty-six millions is not put into the sinking funds where it could be applied only to debt. Mr. Bennett is holding it as a kind of general reserve against emergencies and that, of itself, is a very wise thing to do.

Thus, the Premier says, he can use this money to pay for ordinary public services if his revenues should drop. In that case there would be no debt reduction from that service. But Mr. Bennett has other more immediate plans for his emergency reserve.

The Government, says Mr. Gibbs (a professional accountant) is committed to spend about $150,000,000 on such things as the PGE Railway, toll bridges, power development and school building, through the separate authorities administering these facilities. Of this sum, Mr. Gibbs, calculates, some $36,000,000 must be spent in the current year.

Since the money market is not now favorable to borrowers, Mr. Bennett is prepared, if necessary, to lend his emergency fund, or part of it, to the railway, the toll bridge administration, the Power Commission and the local school boards. There is, of course, nothing wrong in this, provided we understand that it would represent no reduction in the over-all debt of British Columbia.

Mr. Bennett is reducing the direct debt by the sound method of sinking funds. He says that the borrowings of government agencies are not debt but only "contingent liabilities." Now it appears that they are not very "contingent" after all; for the agencies apparently are coming to the Government for money.

The Government not only has guaranteed their borrowings but is ready to finance them out of its own funds.

How can Mr. Bennett still pretend that their borrowings are not debt? And if they borrow much faster than the Government reduces the direct debt how can he say that debt, properly considered, is not rising? These are the pertinent questions asked by Mr. Gibbs but not answered.

Mr. Bennett may answer that when he lends money to the government agencies they will certainly repay it some time out of their earnings in the case of the PGE, the toll bridge authority and the Power Commission, or out of local taxes in the case of the school boards. Thus he can argue that since the money is coming back to the Government some day it can be used eventually to reduce the direct debt.

But the indirect debt will not be thereby reduced. As the agencies go on borrowing from the public as well as the Government, the total debt will increase and the public must pay it, one way or another.

Mr. Bennett seems to take some pride in the fact that by spending less money than he collects he is doing his share in the struggle against that inflation which, he says, does not really exist.

This would be true only if Mr. Bennett laid aside his $36,000,000 fund and did not spend it for any purpose. He would then have a true revenue surplus like that of the Federal Government and at least a partial weapon against inflation. But if he lends his money to the agencies and they spend it on construction projects, Mr. Bennett might just as well have spent it himself so far as inflation is concerned.

The money will be used to bid for supplies of manpower and materials. It will be part of that gigantic total expenditure which the Government is now undertaking in competition with all private borrowers and spenders. It will help to push up prices. No provincial government is pushing them so hard as the government of British Columbia today.

Voice of the Multitude

When the 170 million voters prepared to mark their ballots for 500 members of Parliament and 3,000 representatives to the state legislatures, the man who assumed leadership after the assassination of Mahatma Gandhi appeared certain of victory.

Nor is it surprising to read of declining Communist strength in the subcontinent. The celebrated Soviet travelers, Mr. Bulganin and Mr. Khrushchev, virtually cut the ground from under Indian communists adhering to the Moscow line. How could the latter compete against the established leader to whom B. and K. had shown such affection?

Whatever may be the attitude of westerners toward Mr. Nehru, and his disinclination to throw his weight and influence on one side or the other of the east-west ideological argument, he is nevertheless the man with whom they will have to deal for some time to come. With the rise in importance of the Afro-Asian bloc, the significant position in which he continues should be generally recognized.

If it is not suprising that Mr. Nehru has been accorded such support in the elections, it is a major accomplishment that elections within the democratic tradition have been possible at all. Countless numbers of voters in India are illiterate. They have been able to distinguish one party or one candidate from another only by the graphic symbols placed on the ballots. India, weighed down by the inability of so many of its people to read and write, has still managed to find democratic expression at the polls. That is an achievement to win universal admiration.

Meditation Before Breakfast

TWO fascinating documents lie on my desk this morning, thanks to The New York Times. They are indeed fascinating and mouth-watering at this early hour, before breakfast—two major social documents requiring a man's grave consideration when he is not even fortified by a cup of coffee. The first document is the menu of the Pennsylvania Railway in the year 1884 which, though it must tantalize any hungry man, stagger any housewife and shame any modern railway, I propose to quote in detail for historic purposes as follows:

Hutchison

Bluepoint oysters on half shell; terrapin soup; Kennabec salmon with green peas; boiled leg of lamb, caper sauce; boiled capon, cream sauce; ribs of beef with brown potatoes; turkey, cranberry sauce; tame goose stuffed with apples; sweetbreads larded with mushrooms; salmi of quail with truffles; roast partridge, bread sauce; chicken salad; smoked buffalo tongue; pate of snipe in jelly; celery, olives; breaded sweet potatoes; pickled beets; mashed potatoes: French peas; asparagus; marrow, squash; steamed fruit pudding, cognac sauce; apple pie; mince pie; strawbery ice cream; Roman punch; macaroons; confectionery; assorted cake; Florida oranges; apples, Malaga grapes; Bent's water crackers; Roquefort, Edam cheese; coffee, tea.

THINK that over carefully and guess the price. The price for everything was one dollar.

Now, if you are strong enough, observe the second document. It is the current menu of the New York Central's Twentieth Century Limited. On this fine train you can have Genuine English Channel Sole Saute, Amandine, with Broccoli Hollandaise and Long Branch Potatoes, for $5.50. Or Individual Deep Dish Seafood Pie, a la Maison, for $5.65; or Breaded Breast of Chicken on Canadian Bacon, Garni, for $5.75. If you really decide to let yourself go you can have Grilled Lamb Chops, Spiced Crab-apples, Green Peas au Beurre, Potatoes de Jour for $6.25.

(If Mr. Bennett is listening, perchance, and still tells us that there has been no inflation I shall gladly buy him the cheapest Twentieth Century dinner. If he says that they also had inflation in our grandfather's time, I agree, but it was a different kind of inflation. For one dollar on the dining car a man could inflate himself beyond the wildest dreams of Social Credit. Now he has to deflate his purse rather drastically to get a small snack.)

BUT I cite these two menus as profound social documents not because they represent the debasement of money but because they represent the debasement of diet, a much more important matter.

They question, in short, the whole theory of our higher living standards. In some respects, quite vital respects, our living standards are obviously falling. We do not eat, on dining cars or at home, as well as our grandfathers, though eating, it seems to me, is closely related to living. The two functions are not easily separable.

Lest the well-filled reader imagine that a hungry man is too interested in food before breakfast and not enough in higher things, I hasten to add that the decline in living standards is not confined to diet, important as that may be.

IT would take too long to cite all the items in a living standard but they surely include many things not mentioned in the cost-of-living index of the able Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

You will not find there, for example, an accurate and weighted statistic known, perhaps, as Contentment or Freedom from Worry. You will not find it on the average household budget either. The statistical fact is that this particular item has declined as the living standard has risen. No one will dispute, I think, that this is the least contented and most worried age in modern times.

If the Bureau of Statistics included in its index another item labelled by an old-fashioned and obsolete noun, Happiness, the relative figure would now stand some points below zero. No inflation there. Happiness, as a general public phenomenon, seems to have priced itself out of the market and suffered a disastrous deflation.

THIS is very curious, when you come to think of it, for the age of science has provided every apparent means of happiness.

Yet the faces behind the wheels of automobiles powerful enough to drive a sawmill do not look happy to me. The faces before a television set may giggle grimly now and then at some joke invented before our grandfathers' time but mostly they are glazed in stupor.

The faces around a coffee bar at 10 o'clock in the morning (when our grandfathers were striding down a long furrow and beginning to think of a hot roast beef luncheon) are not marked by happiness. Perhaps their owners are thinking of the cost of a small luncheon sandwich; or perhaps their thoughts range further to question the whole theory of living standards now presented to us in statistics no doubt accurate but not generally edible.

TO these higher thinkers I leave the two documents quoted above and approach a breakfast which your grandfather or mine would regard as an insult. He, poor fellow, knew nothing about living standards. He just lived and somehow liked it.

That Letter—a Credit

Your open letter to this Mr. Wenner-Gren (who has negotiated a deal with the Social Credit government of British Columbia to exploit 40,000 square miles of territory up there in northern B.C., and who came here to entertain Premier Bennett and his cabinet ministers to a special dinner at the Empress Hotel) does you great credit.

I hope that all those who received such an invitation to the dinner read your open letter and that if they attended after reading it, will hang their heads in shame.

The letter does you proud Sir, and I would like to see it taken up and republished by every newspaper in this province.

As regards the deal itself between our B.C. government and this Mr. Wenner-Gren—such a deal would never have happened with any of our governments of the past—especially those of our late premiers, Mr. John Oliver and Mr. Duff Pattulo. They surely would never have taken a second look at such a proposition.

I understand that Mr. Gunderson is the leading director of the company—a director even before Premier Bennett was aware of the fact. To me this looks fishy and might stand a little investigating for the good and welfare of B.C.

Banking Changes

In his annual report the Governor of the Bank of Canada has recommended a separation of the activities of the commercial and savings departments of the Canadian Banks.

In view of this the following excerpt from the Minutes of Proceedings and Evidence No. 28 of the Banking and Commerce Committee should be of interest inasmuch as they are from a brief submitted by E. S. Woodward, a former alderman of Victoria for a number of years. At the 1934 revision of the Bank Act Mr. Woodward appeared before the Committee at Ottawa. In the 1954 revision he submitted the brief from which these excerpts are taken.

"Principal change in banking practice would be complete separation of the Currency or Current Account Department from the Investment or Savings Account Department. The Currency Department would create new money to monetize new goods through the productive-distributive process. It would also service all on-demand checking accounts. It would not create new money to make capital loans, accommodation loans, or government loans. The Investment Department would receive time deposits for investment, make capital and accommodation loans, buy and sell securities and lend to the Government. Its only source of funds would be the savings of the Canadian people. The proposed change strictly accords with the economic fact of capital formation. Incidentally, this brief takes the view that the Canadian Banking System is the best in the world.

"The criterion of value would continue to be, as it is now, the Cost-of-Living Index, or the National Index of Prices. The dollar would be kept stable in terms of the Index, by means hereinafter to be outlined."

No doubt many of your readers have heard Mr. Woodward on the air or read some of his works. If interested in money and banking reform they should go to the library and read his complete brief.

Opinion on the Indian Problem

During the last three months a great deal of propaganda has been circulated by interested parties, attacking the Indian Act of 1951. This campaign culminated with a legal hearing, involving the status of a number of residents of the Hobbema Reserve. The publicity then suddenly subsided, leaving many people in doubt as to whether the Indian Act was, in fact, a just or a tyrannical measure.

To settle these doubts, those interested are urged to consult Hansard, March 4, 1957, pp. 1827-8. The following facts will be found:

1. The new Indian Act has made it possible, for the first time, to prepare a complete list of those persons who are Indians, and of the bands to which they are entitled to belong.

2. After the initial Band Lists were prepared, they were put on display for six months, and any Indian who felt that either he or any other person on the list had been wrongly classified was given a chance to appeal.

3. A total of 1,732 persons have been confirmed as Indians, in spite of the protests from a few members of their bands.

4. Only 21 persons have been removed from the Band Lists as not eligible for Indian status. In Alberta, where most of the agitation had arisen, only four names were taken off the Band Lists. One of these was the acknowledged child of a white father, who had lived for a short time with his grandmother on a Reserve. The other three had never lived on a Reserve.

5. Where the Registrar's decision was appealed to the Courts, the Crown employed no counsel, merely filing documents for the information of the Court. When the Indians employed counsel as in the Hobbema case, the Crown paid the lawyers for the Indians on both sides of the dispute.

6. There are still four cases before the courts—the last that can arise, since the time for challenging the existing lists has expired. In two of these four cases the Registrar has ruled that fifteen families are entitled to Indian status, and this ruling is being disputed by other Indians. In the other two cases, eight families are claiming Indian status and the Registrar has ruled against the claim.

Two conclusions appear to follow from this summary. The first is that the difficult and necessary task of registering the Indian population has been completed with surprisingly little hardship. The second is that the decision of the Crown to pay the lawyers for both sides in disputed cases, while a generous gesture, was possibly an unwise policy. It does not appear to have swayed the decision in any case, and it did result in releasing on the public a flood of unsettling and sometimes misleading propaganda.

Pensioner's Bonus

For over three years our Senior Citizens' Association of British Columbia has urged the provincial government to change the regulations under which applicants for the cost of living bonus or social assistance were charged as income the amount of annuity their liquid assets would buy.

We pointed out the unfairness of continuing to charge applicants with the income their money would have bought when they first applied even when the money had been spent for legitimate living costs.

Although no publicity has been given to the fact, the regulations have been changed so that when the liquid assets have been used or partly used a recalculation can be made and many who were previously refused a cost of living bonus or did not get a full bonus may now be eligible for the bonus.

Any pensioner who was refused a bonus for the above reasons or got only a part bonus should apply to the Old-Age Pensions Board, 411 Dunsmuir Street, for a review of their case.

POW Reunion

Now seems to be the time for reunions, and I see the Prisoners of War of the Second World War, RCAF, are meeting in Vancouver. I was a POW in the First World War and if there are any other ladies who were POWs then it would be rather nice to meet?

Stick With the Queen

In the controversy over the design of Canadian postage stamps, I would suggest that we revert to having the portrait of the Queen of Canada on those stamps which are most commonly used, namely, the two's, four's and five's.

If the philatelists wish other designs, let those designs go on the fifty-cent stamps and other large denominations. After all the musk ox is not a pretty animal and Canada has a very lovely queen.

Ads in Movies

A local theatre is now showing an excellent film, but, along with it, the audience must imbibe a "short" which is pure advertising designed to sell commercial products.

Everyone who pays the high cost of admission to that theatre pays to be entertained; they do not pay to be pursued by cheap advertising. Is it not enough that we are "sold at" every time we open a magazine, look at our billboards, turn on our radio, and our television sets?

But, of course, this is a very subtle moment to introduce advertising into the movie houses: we are now most of us so used to seeing films on television bloated and bolstered by many advertisements that it seems only "normal" now to have the same menu dished out at the movie houses. The fact that in England such a practice in the cinemas is well established, is no reason for Victorians or Canadians in this respect to "keep British." It seems to me there are two new commandments which North Americans have added to the ten: (11) Thou shalt sell; and/or (as the shoe fits) (12) Thou shalt be the willing dupe of advertisers.

Education and Civil Defence

Recently we had Education Week. In the Times, B. A. Tobin commentated objectively on the state of education. In the Legislature Provincial Secretary Wesley Black, whose department controls the province's civil defence organization criticized those people who are not interested in civil defence as "letting their country down."

Education being compulsory and civil defence voluntary is an indication of the public attitude towards both. While education may appeal to the individual as a means of "getting-on," civil defence is regarded as an exercise to be avoided. That both education and civil defence are necessary adjuncts of public service would not be admitted by those who seem to think that security, prosperity and responsibility can be had at the end of a fountain pen.

Present apathy towards civil defence is engendered by civil defence concentrating on being bombed and running away. It has no relation to the consequences of invasion by highly trained parachutists and landing craft screened by submarines, which could only be dealt with by a properly trained "civil defence" acting under the professional services.

If civil defence were made part of the educational system it would dissolve not only public apathy but what is more important, it would correct the behavior of that element in our schools which regards responsibility as a crime and the Boy Scout as an object of derision. Both apathy and irresponsibility encourage that complete disregard for the ethics of public service which spell the doom of democracy.

If Mr. Wesley Black will be glad to hear of a way of crashing "public apathy towards civil defence," he will find more truth than poetry in advocating that civil defence be made compulsory as a part of national defence for all ages between 16 and 25, and as an essential of the education of a democracy in the value of public ethics.

ON THE TIMES By ART STOTT

Wrong Way on a Fluid Escalator

EXCEPT for a couple of trollers in a big cabin cruiser sturdy enough for the trip to Prince Rupert, fishermen of this community left me in splendid isolation on the other side of Trial Sunday.

I was trying out a small outboard. Outboards mystify me, fill me with delight when they're running and, because of inexperience with them, leave a lurking fear in me that at any minute they're going to konk out.

Stott

I'm not what you call the mechanical type. Whenever my car has stopped through no wish of my own, and when the engine won't respond to the starter button, I get out, lift up the hood and peer inside. That's sheer bluff. After I've peered, I slam down the lid and walk to the nearest phone to call the service station.

So when an outboard and I share the same boat alone, we treat each other with mutual distrust. You can almost feel a Gaza strip psychology in operation. The engine doesn't know what I'm going to do to it. I don't know what it's going to do to me, but, again through inexperience, I expect the worst.

THOSE EGG-BEATERS

I've been handling rowboats for the last 35 years or so. When I started and when Evinrudes were young, the water rats of Foul Bay used to join me in a wholesome scorn for these egg-beaters. If some dude screwed one to the back of his boat we had a ribald yell to send his way. "Are you taking your Evinrude for a row, Mister?" we used to ask and then we'd laugh until we fell down. Subtle humor, we had, in those days. But we were almost invariably right.

The dude would start his putter with several turns of clothes line around its flywheel and interminable jerking of the line. Eventually he'd roar away, get a mile or two beyond the kelp line, splutter out and row home.

We knew what we were talking about.

Well, there have been a lot of improvements in outboards since that time. All but the submerged tenth use them to fish off Trial in season. Even I am beginning to believe there here to stay. And since I don't want to be one of the submerged tenth all my life, I'm thinking of getting one. Hence the test run off the island on Sunday.

Actually the small engine treated me better than I deserved. For a couple of hours I cruised nicely up and down in slack water behind Trial, with never a grilse to bother me, and the machine died only when I cut the mixture too lean.

I waited until the tide was racing past the head of the island to see if there was enough power in the outboard to work against it. When the tide's really running there, you feel you're on an escalator going the wrong way. You have to move like mad to stay in the same place.

That's what the small engine and I did.

HIGHEST RESPECT

They say familiarity breeds contempt. It's a good phrase, but I doubt very much if familiarity with the tip of Trial will ever make me contemptuous. Too many of my acquaintances have been caught in the race and wound up at San Juan Island without a visa.

When the wash from the CPR boats hits the tide there, you can find yourself in waves that are short, high, curling and coming from all directions. Even when the water's as smooth as glass, it can bubble up in small whirls that leave an oar or a propeller pushing against nothing at all for a fraction of a second. Once the flow set in, the unwary can find the island slipping past them like a four-minute-miler.

If you know anything about the water there, you respect it. When the tide's running, it can be as slick as Mata Hari and twice as treacherous.

I think more people ought to know about that. Ever since I can remember, someone has come to grief, even if it's not serious, out there almost every fishing season.

Now, with more and more folk buying themselves fancy little boats and engines that are ideal for lakes, I expect more and more will be trying them out off Trial and in other dangerous waters. They shouldn't.

Leave it to the not-so-bright people like me who are familiar with the water and know they're taking calculated risks out there. We'll get into trouble occasionally, too. But it's our own fault. We should know better.

And for those who are as inept with engines as I am, there's another small point to remember. If the thing konks out, you can't just roll it to the curb and walk home. There aren't any curbs. Walking's difficult.

YOUR HEALTH By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

A Low Blood Sugar

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Since writing a column in which I said that in all my years of practice I have never seen a case of so-called low blood sugar (not due to cancer of the pancreas) in which an excellent university laboratory failed to report that the person had normal amounts of sugar in his or her blood, I have received a number of letters from persons who described typically neurotic symptoms or migraine headaches, or allergic symptoms or "storms" due to an erratic nervous system. In every case, someone had delighted the person by saying that his or her troubles were due to a low blood sugar.

Alvarez

But here is the remarkable thing: a sugarless diet was then prescribed. I think every layman intelligent enough to read this column will be able to see that what these people would need if they really were ill for lack of sugar would be a diet rich in sugar and carbohydrates such as starches from which sugars are derived. A diet without sugar would be the worst conceivable one that could be prescribed. And yet these people said they were helped by such treatment. To me, it just does not make sense.

The last letter I received from a woman with a supposed low blood sugar is the one that takes the prize. As one might guess, people with a real low blood sugar always get their symptoms when they are hungry, and their stocks of food (sugar) in the body are at their lowest ebb. But this lady says her trouble comes if she eats sugar. She then gets such a violent reaction that for months now she hasn't dared to touch any sweets. Evidently, her trouble must be due to some remarkable idiosyncrasy or hypersensitiveness like an allergy. Persons with a real low blood sugar, when they begin to feel woozy, can get quick relief by drinking a little syrup, and this shows that the diagnosis was correct.

DISTRESS AFTER MEALS

Many of the people with a false "low blood sugar" tell me they get their distress soon after meals, which shows that the diagnosis was wrong. Many tell me that at the lowest their blood sugar reading has been about 75 or 80 or even 100 milligrams. Such readings are so normal that no one could get symptoms from them. Several experts have told me that a person can get symptoms only after his blood sugar level has dropped below 50 mg. per 100 c.c. of blood. One of my correspondents describes weird symptoms which he says come when his blood sugar drops to 73 mg. He might as well try to convince me that he can get drunk on a thimbleful of beer!

LETTING OLD PARENTS STAY

A fine woman just writes to tell me that recently she was trying to get her purblind but spry old mother, aged 91, to leave her home and come to live with her (the daughter); but the old lady refused. She said she knew so well every turn in her house that she could get about easily, even without much sight; she didn't mind even firing a coal furnace!

The daughter felt she just couldn't leave her mother alone in this way, but then she read a column of mine in which I said that whenever possible the old folks should be allowed to do what they please, and that in some 85 per cent of cases they are happiest in their own apartment; so now she is satisfied to let her mother stay alone. Interesting is the mother's statement that for her there is too much confusion in her daughter's home. Even though her grandchildren are grown, they are often moving about and going here and there; also, they have more company than the old lady can stand.

Grandmothers tell me that when they were in their twenties, with three or four lively children shouting and screaming and fighting and running about the house, it didn't bother them. Now, when they go to their children's homes, although they adore their grandchildren, they cannot for long stand the noise they make, and the turmoil in which they live. They cannot stand the constant blaring of the radio or the TV set. Something has happened to their brains so that now quiet is needed.

Other grandmothers tell me that, much as they love their sons-in-law, it is hard for them to adjust to some of their behavior. One woman who used to be president of the local WCTU can't adjust to her son-in-law's habit of giving cocktail parties, or of taking two highballs before dinner. She can't get used to his Saturday night poker club, and she can't get used to his frequent taking of the Lord's name in vain. Some grandmothers cannot get used to their daughter's playing cards for money, and others can never accept the daughter's chain-smoking.

HOME GARDEN By JACK BEASTALL

Here's How to Grow Those Prize Onions

As the outdoor gardening season opens, the usual requests are received for the culture of those large onions which take first prize in the fall shows.

This is a little late to begin. The recommended sowing time is December, but with our dull weather at that time we are usually as far ahead with a mid-January sowing.

Jack Beastall

The seed requires 60 degrees for germination, reduced to 55 degrees immediately after. While Ailsa Craig is usually the prize taker, the name Ailsa Craig on a seed packet is no guarantee of large bulbs.

Selected seed of a good strain, collected from large bulbs of good shape and color, is the kind needed for the blue ribbon. Several catalogues list such a strain, or one can grow and select one's own for a few years.

The young seedlings look like hairpins, their tips in the soil and the round leaves forming a loop. During this stage they are pricked off, or transplanted, from the seed box.

Two things are essential to success. A long growing period and no check in growth at any time. For this reason, the veteran exhibitor pricks off into pots or wood veneer plant bands so that no root disturbance results from transferrence to the garden.

Growth must be kept steady and hard, which means sufficient heat to maintain growth, but cool enough to prevent spindling and withstand the move to outdoor conditions.

There should be no hurry in planting out because wind can damage the leaves and cause a growth check. Hold the plants until weather conditions are fairly settled and temperatures, especially at night, conducive to continued growth.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Some Sources Free From Bite of Tax

B. W. GORDON HOLMS

Happily for the taxpayer, some of his sources of revenue are not subject to income tax.

Such revenues as family allowances, unemployment insurance benefits, war disability pensions and workmen's compensation payments are major items.

If a taxpayer is fortunate enough to hit the jackpot in a quiz program, Ottawa does not spoil the prize.

Companies paying such annuities or pensions usually notify the person who receives them as to the amount, if any, which may be subject to tax.

Lack of Work Main Problem For Refugees

Main present problem for Hungarian refugees is lack of work, Hungarian relief co-ordinator for Vancouver Island, Albert de Mezey, told the Gyro Club here Monday.

Federal government policy, he said, is to bring in immigrants in proportion to work available.

"The moment a man is employed he has passed the first barrier of integration into our society."

Most of the men are eager to find employment, he said, and are accustomed to working under difficult conditions.

"Many of them will work in remote localities where employers have difficulty in obtaining personnel."

Free Ambulance Service Starts In C. Saanich

SAANICHTON—Free ambulance service now is available, day or night, to all residents of Central Saanich.

Reeve H. Rupert Brown stated today that an ambulance car had been acquired by public subscription and is being fully equipped for the handling of emergency cases.

The new machine is stationed at municipal headquarters, East Saanich Road and Wallace Drive, and will be maintained and operated by the Central Saanich volunteer fire department under direction of Fire Chief Victor G. Heal.

Sekanis Never Were Much, Says Judge

(From CP Dispatches)

PRINCE GEORGE—A county court judge said Monday the Sekani Indians "never did amount to much."

Cariboo Judge Castillou, a noted anthropologist, was commenting on recent newspaper reports that the Sekanis live in filth and poverty. As a results of the reports, donations were trucked here from Vancouver and flown to the Sekanis at Fort Grahame, 500 miles north of Vancouver.

"They were a nomadic tribe who never had a home, never prepared for winter, and went begging for their food," said Judge Castillou.

He said other tribes look down on the Sekani.

Full 6-Day Shopping Backed by Merchants

The Chamber of Commerce tourist trade and retail groups favor a six-day shopping week the year round.

The groups, at a joint meeting Monday felt this was preferable to a six-day shopping week for only July and August, as laid down by the new Municipal Act, now before the legislature.

Only one member, Hugh Francis, opposed the motion to abolish completely the five and a half day shopping week.

"It's a backward step," he stated. "The banks and many other businesses are now closing on Saturday."

Bruce Tingley, who proposed the motion, said retail stores are losing considerable tourist business because of the Wednesday closing.

He noted that tourist traffic on CPR boats from Seattle dropped on Wednesday because of the store closing.

Malahat Contractors 'Dragging Their Feet'

Bruch Tells Gaglardi to 'Smarten Up' Road Builders; Smith Also Critical

Esquimalt MLA Herbert Bruch charged in the legislature Monday that some contractors are "dragging their feet" in reconstruction of the Malahat highway.

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi should "smarten up" these contractors, the Social Credit member said.

Don Smith (SC-Victoria) also criticized progress on the Malahat, and claimed the work was too scattered.

Mr. Bruch reminded Mr. Gaglardi that traffic has been diverted over the Shawnigan Lake and Mill Bay roads during Malahat construction work, causing excessive wear and tear.

Department of highways surfacing crews should see that these side roads are patched up, he said.

Irked Driver Rams Pursuing RCMP Car

NANAIMO — Raymond John Kross, a Vancouver hotel owner charged with speeding, was fined $25 Monday by Magistrate Lionel Beevor-Potts and lost his licence for 10 days.

Irked at being chased by RCMP at 55 miles per hour, he stopped suddenly at the CPR wharf, then backed into the pursuing police car behind him.

Police said he was annoyed at getting a ticket because "the constables had made him miss the boat."

62-Acre Park Sought On Triangle Mountain

COLWOOD—Development of a 62-acre park on top Triangle Mountain, immediately west of here, was selected Monday night by Colwood Ratepayers' Association as a centennial project for the district.

If the property cannot be obtained from the federal government, then the group plans to build a playground as an alternative project.

Triangle Mountain, one of the highest in the Greater Victoria area, was the site of a radar installation during the Second World War, and sill has a concrete building and water line at the peak.

NOMINAL PRICE

It is understood it could be bought from the national defence department for a nominal sum.

"We would like to develop it as a tourist attraction," said Ted Botting, spokesman for the ratepayers. "It would need a road and some trails, but the view would be magnificent."

If developed as a park rather than a residential subdivision, it would always be available in case of another emergency, he said.

Ratepayers decided to join with Langford, Metchosin, Luxton and Happy Valley for the staging of consolidated centennial celebrations. Colwood representatives on the central celebration committee will be Cmdr. E. A. Jamieson, T. S. Barber and W. A. Dawson.

Pearkes Proposes Aid For Crab Fishermen

OTTAWA (CP)—A federal insurance plan for West Coast crab fishermen was suggested in the Commons Monday by Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC-Esquimalt-Saanich).

He spoke as the House approved a vote of $27,400 to meet a deficit in the federal insurance plan covering the gear of East Coast lobster fishermen.

Finance Minister Harris said he is sure Fisheries Minister Sinclair is interested in anything that can be done for West Coast crab fishermen.

CAR IN DITCH

Man, Wife Both Fined

A man and wife both were fined by Magistrate A. I. Thomas in Sooke RCMP court Monday afternoon as a result of a minor accident on West Coast Road Sunday.

Thomas James Obee, 27 Eaton, was convicted of impaired control of a vehicle, fined $150 and $6.50 costs.

His wife, Helen Marjorie Obee, was fined $25 and costs for being intoxicated in public.

Police said the two were occupants of a car which had gone off the road into a Water Board ditch.

On arrival at the scene police were unable to learn who had been driving, but Mr. Obee was seated in the driver's seat.

Nanaimo Paper Strike Settled in 6 Hours

NANAIMO (CP) — An edition of The Daily Free Press hit the streets here Monday, later than usual but in plenty of time to maintain the evening paper's tradition of 68 years of continued publication.

Publication followed the signing of a contract with typographers at 1.30 p.m., six hours after pickets had been placed around the newspaper's new office here.

The issues which provoked the strike—jurisdiction over the paper's proofreaders and adjustments in a clause covering teletypesetter operation—were settled in negotiations after the men walked out.

The newspaper agreed to give six months' notice of any intention to use teletypesetter keyboard operators in the office.

The strike affected 58 persons, with those not directly affected sent home after the posting of pickets.

JOHNNY'S BACK AGAIN

Longden Reached Top After Rough Journey

By CENTAUR

One who has been called, by an authority on the subject, "the greatest athlete in the world," was in Victoria overnight.

No Greek god-like figure such as can be seen in the boxing ring, the football field or the hockey rink, no paragon of grace and muscle as those on the tennis court or the running track he is a 100-pound, four-foot, 11-inch miracle.

Johnny Longden, it was, on all counts the greatest jockey the world has ever known, with over 5,000 wins to his credit and an unparalleled record of integrity in a field in which that virtue is easy to lose.

He has been riding racehorses for 31 years, has won for his employers more than $16,500,000 in purses and retained more than $1,000,000 in fees, and has been so badly injured that on five occasions he has been considered completely wrecked as a top flight jockey.

But here he is in Victoria, close to 50 and taking a few days off to go fishing.

"I can't stay long," he said Monday night, "I've got to be back riding at Bay Meadows next Saturday."

Asked if he remembers much about the days when he rode at the Willows and Colwood tracks in Victoria in the 30's, Johnny explains that he's had a lot of horseflesh under him since then.

Won Three National Championships

"I do remember riding here and in Vancouver but not much about it," he said. "There was a horse called Brookwood I seem to recall but it was a long time ago."

Two minutes' talk with him and you are unconscious of the fact that you tower over him by nearly a foot. He has that quiet confidence of a man who has made a fortune by his own efforts and it adds to his stature.

And make no mistake about that fortune. Through years of riding in the "bushes" on the Canadian prairies where his parents brought him from England at the age of two, Longden by hard practice, ruthless competetive spirit and abstinence, fought his way up the ladder to win the North American jockey championship three times and virtually every major stake race on the continent and a few in England and Mexico.

Today he is associated with Alberta Ranches Inc., for whom Vance, his son by an earlier marriage, is trainer.

How did he do it all? It's not much use asking Johnny; he's no talker.

Studies His Mounts in the Morning

The fact is that when he's riding, which is about 300 days a year, he eats one meal (a steak) per day, never smokes and makes only a show of toying with a cocktail on social occasions. Where other Jockeys get their first glimpse of a horse they are going to ride when they are first hoisted into the saddle, Longden gets down to the track in the morning, studies his mounts, gets "the feel" of them and knows the most they can do and how to get it out of them during the race.

And that, as has been pointed out, can be the difference between a $100,000 purse and just another horse ride.

Johnny is fully conscious of his lack of inches and pounds—and he should be; it is one of his greatest assets—but he can neatly and acidly parry any invidious reference to it.

Aboard the yacht "Campana," on which he arrived in Victoria Monday with his wife, Hazel Tarn Longden, and another horseracing great, Willie Molter, Johnny asked about the fishing here.

Someone in the party asked Johnny what he'd do if he hooked a 100 pound Tyee.

"I'll get it in the boat," he said looking the questioner up and down. "I've hooked and landed a 215-pound marlin and that's nearly as fat as you are."

Mr. Molter who has been a leading trainer in California for many years and who now handles the stock of, among others, W. B. Mayer, the film magnate, recalled that as a jockey, he, too, had ridden in B.C., specifically in Victoria back in 1924, when the track opened.

Count Fleet the Best He Ever Rode

"That proves it," Johnny said, disposing of what was obviously a long-standing argument. "Now I know you are older than I am."

There is, in fact, a doubt about Mr. Longden's age. Johnny himself claims he was born in 1910 but others say the year was 1906 and that he is 51, but he shrugs it off, has never had it officially checked.

"I know I'll keep on riding," he says, "and I don't care if I've ridden 5,000 winners or if I ride 6,000, they're all horse races to be won if we can do it."

"The Galloping Grandpa," the "Millionaire on Horseback"—he's been called those and other names—talks little about past glories.

"Yes, Count Fleet was the best horse I ever rode" (Count Fleet and Longden won racing's rare Triple Crown back in 1954), but I should have won with St. Vincent in the Capistrano the other week if the track had been fast."

"And Noor was another good one, he was better than Citation" (another Triple Crown winner).

But you can tell that he's simply not interested in what he has done.

It is the horses he will ride next week at Bay Meadows that Mr. Longden is concerned with now (apart from a few king-sized fish) and that may explain why he is the embodiment of a glittering success story.

Winnipeg Gets Jump On Vikings

By TOM ENGLISH
(Vikings' Team Captain)

WINNIPEG — This best-of-five series for the western Canada junior men's basketball title should be a good one, and if our Victoria College Vikings can find a way to stop Ed Melnyk and Ken Hartas we should have a good chance to come out on top.

Melnyk and Hartas were the big guns for Winnipeg Imperials Monday night as the Imperials bounced us 71-64 in the opening game of the series.

Although Melynk and Hartas were our main worries, the Imperials have four other men who appear capable of turning in a big game at any time, which gives Winnipeg a well-balanced ball club.

MISSING FOULS

While Imperials deserved the win, fouls played a big part in the final result. We were missing regularly from the foul strip while they rarely failed to drop in their gift tosses. And we drew 21 fouls while Imperials were being called for only 16.

Art Chiko finally broke out of the scoring slump that has plagued him in recent games and kept us in the running during the first half, when he scored 14 of his 19 points.

However, Art picked up his fourth foul early in the second half, which we started on the short end of a 37-35 score, and coach Bill Garner took him out of the game for a while.

Melnyk was almost the show early in the second half as the Imperials jumped into a commanding lead, grabbing rebounds off both backboards and potting several long shots.

Our scoring was well distributed, I followed Chiko with 17 points and Ed Kowalyk and Bob Tomlinson got 14 and 10 points, respectively.

We still think we can win this series but, as I said before, our chances greatly depend on how we can bottle up Melynk and Hartas.

We also think we can do a bit better than we did Monday. We'll find out more about our chances when we meet the Imperials in the second game tonight.

Winnipeg—Melnyk 22, Hartas 16, Sedun 9, Lockshin 10, McKenzie 10, Muth, Melonbardis 4, Block, Osochuk. Total—71.

Colwood Aces Win Buttons

Attempting the third defence of the city open golf buttons, Doug Munroe and Einar Brynjolfson lost out to Colwood Golf Club aces Bill McColl and Vic Painter, one up, at Colwood.

Winners came home with a best-ball score of 71 while the losers had a 72.

Painter and McColl defend their newly won title for the first time Sunday at Gorge Vale Golf Club when they meet Bob Morrison and Frank Scroggs of Uplands.

Cats No Longer Wall-Flowers As Canucks Heed Home Waltz

Cougars Win Berth in Playoffs

Victoria 3, Vancouver 1

By DENNY BOYD

The Hesitation Waltz ended abruptly Monday night at Memorial Arena with the Victoria Cougars dancing in the clouds and the Vancouver Canucks without a partner.

The two rival coast division clubs, who have been cutting in on each other ever since the baton descended way back in October, cleared the floor and did a solo to the tune of "There's No Tomorrow."

And when it was over, the Cougars had clipped the Canucks, 3-1, to qualify for the next turn in the danceathon that has taken 68 games for the first elimination.

There will be no encores for the Canucks. The band has gone home and the lights have been turned out.

The Cougars, as up-and-down as a country road this season, finally shook off the persistent advance of the Canucks in a game that both clubs had to win.

The Victoria club now has a five-point lead over Art Chapman's Canucks, who can do no better than cut their deficit by four points before they run out of season.

STREAK EXTENDED

In eliminating the Canucks, Cougars came up with a steel-reinforced defensive game, cheerfully accepted standout goaltending from Marcel Pelletier and ran their home winning streak to seven games.

Furtherance of that streak is the immediate aim of coach Colin Kilburn.

Declining for the first time in weeks to slip into his familiar "we'll play them one at a time" routine, Kilburn said Monday night, "Canucks bumped us out last season so this is just evening things up. The playoffs are next week; right now the important thing is to keep that winning streak going."

The Canucks, to their everlasting credit, went down with their banners flapping. They never conceded that the game was over; played offensive-minded hockey throughout and were never vindictive.

But the Canucks, with only one real forward line, just didn't have the depth of scoring power and were outgunned by Cougars' first-string line of Kilburn, Doug Anderson and Don Chiupka, each of whom contributed a goal.

Kilburn started the scoring after only 42 seconds as he zoomed in to poke home the rebound after Canuck goalie Ray Mikulan blocked a long drive from the point by Bill Davidson.

WRONG NET

Jackie McLeod broke down the right side and fired a hard drive that Pelletier blocked. The puck dropped dead in the crease but Davidson, in his anxiety to clear, poked the puck into the net off Lionel Heinrich's stick.

Eight minutes and 45 seconds into the second period, Doug Anderson scored the winner, belting a terrific wrist-shot past Mikulan after some fine shuttle passing with Kilburn and Chiupka.

Chiupka put the issue in reasonable certainty in the third period, batting down Gordy Haworth's pass with his stick, controlling it with his skate and blasting it behind Mikulan.

Pelletier, in making 30 saves, came up with his best play in the first period as he slid out to stop Carl Kaiser cold after the big defenceman, shifted to a wing berth, eluded the defence to get in close.

THREE OF A KIND, AND THE ACE

Worries about making a playoff berth finally ended for Victoria Cougars at Memorial Arena Monday night when they downed Vancouver Canucks, 3-1, erasing Canucks' chances of taking third place away from the Cougars. Firing the goals that sank the Canucks were (from left) Doug Anderson, Don Chiupka and coach Colin Kilburn. Goalie Marcel Pelletier (in front) was the ace that trumped Vancouver's best cards by stopping 30 Canuck shots. (Photo by Bill Halkett.)

Upset Bug Eats Hearty As City 'Spiel Begins

It wouldn't be surprising if skips of favored rinks were casting jittery glances over their shoulders as they stepped on the ice at Victoria Curling Club today.

Several upsets marked opening-day matches in the club's fifth annual men's bonspiel Monday, and if the trend continues, a good number of highly-regarded foursomes will also tumble from the unbeaten ranks today.

Among the favored foursomes knocked out of the running in the Dominion Hotel primary was Victoria's Tony Gutoski, who was bounced in the second round when Charlie Watson drew in with his last rock as Gutoski was lying three to score an 11-8 victory.

TWO UPSETS

Veteran Max Zabel came up with a pair of upsets, going into an extra end to oust Les Bedford in the first round and tripping Bob McIntosh, 9-6, in the second round.

Another Victorian, Ross Brown, almost sidelined two strong Duncan foursomes. He upset Harvey Hodge, 8-6, in his first game but lost a 7-6 decision to the Ed Valleau rink when skip Tony Folk made his last rock count.

Among the results considered mild upsets by some curlers were a 9-5 win by Ed Davis of Port Alberni over Gar Taylor, and Ed Wilson's 10-9 squeaker over Jack Coates of Parksville.

Visiting rinks unbeaten after two rounds were Valleau, Warren Paul and Harry Spottiswood of Alberni, and Vancouver entries skipped by Fred Tinling and Art Gooder.

Watson, Zabel, Laurie Perlette, Dr. Kirby Moysey, Fred Kerr, John Adams, Bill Gates, Gerry Walls, Glen Walkey, Wilkie Gardner and Ed Wilson were the Victoria skips unbeaten in two rounds.

Seven draws are scheduled today, with tonight's draws starting at 6, 8.30 and 11 p.m.

OLYMPIC GRANT

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—The Australian federal government and the Victorian government Monday granted the Olympic Games £450,000 ($1,008,000) to pay outstanding accounts.

Howe, Hall Heading For Top NHL Honors

MONTREAL (BUP) — Right winger Gordie Howe, equally at home scoring or setting up his Detroit teammates, headed for his fifth National Hockey League points title today with only three games remaining to play.

In games played through Sunday, NHL statistics showed Howe with 84 points, composed of 42 goals and 42 assists. This gave him a two-point lead over his left wing linemate Ted Lindsay and a three-point bulge over centre Jean Beliveau of the Montreal Canadiens, last year's top scorer.

Lindsay's total consisted of 28 goals and 54 assists for 82 points and Beliveau had 33 goals and 48 assists for 81 points.

Both Lindsay and Beliveau narrowed the gap during the past week as Howe collected two points while Lindsay went ahead three points and Beliveau five points.

New York Rangers' Andy Bathgate maintained his fourth place position picking up three assists for a total of 73 points, 26 of them goals.

Glenn Hall, Red Wings' netminder, took a slight lead in the race for the Vezina trophy which goes to the team with the lowest goals-against average. Hall had an average of 2.25 goals scored on him per game which gave him a .01 edge over the Canadiens' combination of Jacques Plante and Gerry McNeil. Plante had the best individual record with only 2.07 goals scored on him per game.

Gus Mortson of the last-place Chicago Black Hawks held his position as the most penalized player with 141 minutes in the penalty box. The Boston Bruins players had spent 955 minutes in the penalty box to remain the highest-penalized club.

DON KLOSTERMAN HURT; GRID FUTURE UNCERTAIN

CALGARY, Alta. (BUP) — Quarterback Don Klosterman of the Calgary Stampeders was listed in fair condition in Calgary Hospital today after surgery following a skiing accident on Mount Norquay Sunday.

Klosterman's back and a leg were broken when he missed a turn on a two-mile run and plunged into trees.

He came to the Stampeders of the Western Football Conference in 1955 from the Loyala University. His future football career is uncertain.

Dodger Hill Staff Returning to Form

By FRED DOWN

All this—and Johnny Podres too!

That was the reaction in the Brooklyn Dodgers' camp today after manager Walt Alston's "big three of the mound" turned in a sparkling seven-hitter in Monday night's 8-1 victory over the Detroit Tigers.

The game marked a successful spring debut for Don Newcombe, the big 27-game winner of last season, the finest showing yet by 40-year-old Sal Maglie and finally a splendid three-inning "cleanup" by Podres.

Newcombe showed no sign of the arm trouble that bothered him during the World Series and reappeared early in spring training as he yielded two harmless singles in the first two innings. The big test was whether Newk's arm would prove sound—and it did.

The world champion New York Yankees continued to get the best all-around pitching on the Grapefruit Circuit when Whitey Ford and Art Ditmar limited the Philadelphia Phillies to three hits in a 5-0 triumph.

Andy Pafko delivered his second, key late-inning homer in a few days to spark the Milwaukee Braves to a 7-3 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Someone was asking Monday night, "How do you figure these Victoria Cougars?" and the question was laughable.

You see, you don't figure this club; you just go along with them and don't ask any questions. And as it was, everything came out peachy.

It took the Cougars 68 cotton-pickin' games to prove they belonged in the playoffs and there were times during that span when it looked as if they were flogging a dead argument.

But when you can win that one that really counts, you are dealing in commerce and economics, not ancient history.

There may be a little more golf for the Cougars this week than is customary but, for the most part, it will be business as usual.

Anyone who thought the Cougars would be tapering off this week, what with their playoff reservation having been lodged with m'aitre d'hotel Al Leader, didn't see that sign posted glaringly in the Victoria dressing-room after the game.

It said, for all to see and heed, "Practice Wednesday morning."

That sort of thing can be as sobering as a cold shower.

When the game ended, one felt a release of tension that has built up for the past umpteen weeks and one was glad for the Cougars and for Colin Kilburn that they hadn't ended in the ash can in Kilburn's baptismal year as coach.

Ray Took the Long Way Home

But still you had to sympathize with Ray Mikulan as he took that long skate off the ice after the game, heading disconsolately towards a dressing room where only the water would be warm.

It was different in the Cougar powder-room as visitors filed through the crowded quarters, slapping this shoulder and rumpling that cow-lick.

Marcel Pelletier was telling about those excrutiating last four minutes and enquiring about that shot he took on goal when Mikulan had been removed temporarily in favor of an extra attacker. "How much was I off?" Pelletier asked, like a forward. "Thirty feet?"

Bill Davidson, the durable Cougar captain, was rubbing the bashed-in slope of his nose and telling how close he came to quitting hockey, and this world, once and for all.

"If those gates had been open, I would have gone right through them, out the front door and jumped into the Gorge, skates and all. Did you notice how I didn't shoot the puck into the middle of the net? Oh no, not me. I had to pick a corner."

Hudson Gave Colin the Word

Immense Gordon Hudson of the Canucks, who has bashed the feathers out of many a Cougar this season, pried his wall-to-wall shoulders through the dressing-room door and hollered at Kilburn, "Congratulations, Killie. Don't stop with us; go all the way."

A visitor approached Kilburn and asked briskly, "Well, Colin, let's have your prediction."

The newspaper men like to choke laughing at this question (Kilburn wouldn't predict what would come out of a water tap.)

"I will predict," Kilburn said in Drew Pearson tones. "That eight o'clock will arrive tomorrow at precisely 60 minutes after seven.

And the newspaper man who had been waiting weeks to say it, said, "I told you those Canucks were dead and buried."

MAY FIGHT IN VANCOUVER

Moore Tied Up By IBC Tangle

NEW YORK (UP) — Promoter Jim Norris delayed signing light-heavyweight champion Archie Moore for a June title defence today, the "deadline", and Moore immediately considered jumping to other promoters in Canada.

Norris announced, "I'll do nothing about signing Moore for a June defence until I see my attorneys about the anti-trust suit."

His attorneys will decide "within the next few days" whether signing 40-year-old Archie for a title fight would conflict with the recent federal decision that Norris' International Boxing Club has been a monopoly in its conduct of world title fights.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan will not announce the exact changes that must be made in I.B.C. operations for at least a month. That's why Norris is uncertain whether he can contract meanwhile for another title bout.

Charley Johnston, Moore's manager, declared, "Archie flew in clear from California to sign today. He was ready. Of course we'll wait a couple of days for Norris. Then if Jim decides he can't arrange a title fight, we'll defend in Canada—either at Toronto or Vancouver."

Johnston said he had attractive offers from promoters in Toronto and Vancouver for a June defence. The Toronto opponent would be Yolande Pompey, of Trinidad, B.W.I., second ranking contender. It would be a return bout. Moore knocked out Pompey in the 10th round at London in his latest defence, last June 5. Pompey might be the Vancouver opponent, although he had not been specified by the Vancouver promoter, Johnston said.

He declined to disclose the names of the Canadian promoters.

First United Comeback Fails

First United defeated Cumberland Kins, 54-40, at the First United gym Saturday night but the effort wasn't enough to bring the Vancouver Island bantam boys' basketball championship to Victoria.

Kins, who whipped the Victorians, 43-19, in the opening game of the two-game, total-point series at Cumberland, took the playoff by 10 points.

First United made a great effort to pull the title out of the fire, climbing within three points of the series lead Saturday before losing ground in the final minutes.

Archery Scores

Results:

MEN
Bob Copeman 488, Bill Carnes 482, Dusty Mair 446, Bill Hogg 436, Norm Thomas 410.

WOMEN

JUNIORS
Andy Cleland 354, Ken Salmond 302, Bill Jones 299, Rudy Roelofsen 241, Jim Mair 222.

Maple Leaf Scuttle-Butt Irks Smythe

Leaf Boss Insists Day, Meeker Safe

TORONTO (CP) — Conn Smythe says he's shocked at all the talk of head-loppings, house-cleanings and general shakeups in the Toronto Maple Leafs as a result of the team's failure to make the National Hockey League playoffs.

Smythe, president and managing director of Maple Leaf Gardens, arrived back in Toronto Monday night from Florida and found that a press conference he had held during a New York stopover had the hometown sports writers in a stir.

During the Sunday conference Smythe refered to "a year of failure" and took the responsibility himself. He didn't have a word to say against general manager Hap Day or coach Howie Meeker, but newspaper speculation ran strong in Toronto that both will have to go.

He was "amazed" at that conclusion, Smythe said Monday night.

"I stressed for the past week that nobody would lose their heads, but apparently you newspapermen don't believe me. You fellows alone evidently decided that it would be Bastille Day."

TABLE RESIGNATION

In New York a few hours earlier Smythe offered his resignation as chairman of the league board of governors, raising the possibility that he may wish to devote full time to rebuilding the Leafs. The governors tabled the offer for later discussion.

It could also mean he plans to take it easy and let somebody else guide the Leafs.

Smythe said Monday night Day's future is in his own hands. "He can make his own decisions. As for Meeker, I don't believe he ever said, or even thought, he was through."

Smythe also had a note of optimism about the future of the Leafs.

"We're finally getting quite a hockey club," he said. "Howie has been teaching them wide-open hockey and it's paying off. Next year we'll have a club that will stand them in the aisles."

Cronin Claims Offer Serious

Indians Reject Million Dollars For Strike-Out King Herb Score

SARASOTA, Fla. (UP) — General manager Joe Cronin of the Boston Red Sox confirmed today that he made a "serious cash offer" of $1,000,000 for Cleveland strikeout king Herb Score and bristled at a suggestion that the fabulous offer was a publicity stunt.

"I was an am definitely serious—certainly the offer was made in good faith," Cronin told skeptical reporters after general manager Hank Greenberg of the Indians revealed he had rejected the deal. I offered him $1,000,000 for Score and told him to take the offer to the Indians' board of directors.

"Greenberg said he'd give me a ring," Cronin went on. "I did not expect him to say anything about the offer. But, now that he has, it's true."

Greenberg's statement hit the major league training sites like a bombshell and produced reaction ranging from stunning disbelief to statements like "Bill Veeck is running the show" and "Cronin and Greenberg just dreamed that up to produce a headline." Even Boston fans, polled by the United Press, conceded $1,000,000 seems awful hard to believe."

"REASONABLE THING"

But in Tucson, Ariz., manager Kerby Farrell of the Indians told the United Press: "Mr. Greenberg did a very reasonable thing and I am glad he did. I would not trade Score for Mickey Mantle or Al Kaline."

Cronin and Greenberg had slightly different versions of exactly how the offer—four times the record amount ever paid for a major league player—was made.

"Greenberg and I sat down and tried to work out every possible combination for a deal involving a pitcher," said Cronin, said, 'I'm offering you $1,000,000 for Score. Take that to your board of directors.' We didn't shake hands. Greenberg said he'd give me a ring."

"We were discussing another deal involving a pitcher," said Greenberg. "Finally Cronin said, "I'd give a million dollars for a sure 20-game winner—a pitcher like Score.' I replied, 'Do you mean you would give me $1,000,000 for Score?' and he said, 'Yes, I think I would.' I hesitated a moment and said, 'Well, I wouldn't take it'."

Three Share Lead In Spring Tourney

M. Cave, D. Smith and Dr. Gill each fired a net 66 Sunday to finish a three-way tie for first place in the annual spring handicap tournament at Uplands Golf Club.

Mounties Beaten

RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—Bill Moran, San Diego's supposedly weak-hitting shortstop, got three singles and scored twice as the Padres defeated Vancouver, 8-3, in a Pacific Coast League exhibition game today.

Vancouver got two runs in the first and another in the third. All the scores came off Padre starter Jim (Mudcat) Grant. His reliefers, rookie Bud Clark and Eddie Erautt, each pitched three hitless innings.

Morrison and 'Birdie-Alley' Offer Formidable Challenge

When veteran Bob Morrison goes tootling off down "Birdie Alley," he could throw a stiff blockade in the way of many golfing ambitions.

Morrison, the cheerful distance-swinger from Uplands Golf Club, was one of the first low-handicappers to enter the Times Vancouver Island Open Golf Tournament and his presence will make the tournament championship just that much tougher to attain.

Familiar with every blade of grass at his home club, Uplands, will carry his familiarity as an extra club in the first round of match play and in the 36-hole final as the Uplands course will be covered twice during the six weeks of the tournament.

The last time Uplands had the tournament final, in 1953, Morrison defeated Bob Fleming to win the Island title.

That victory added another sparkle to Morrison's brilliant golf record. A former Winningdon Cup star, Morrison has won more city championships than he can remember and his easy-going style, which never bows to pressure, makes him a strong challenger and a gallery favorite in every tournament he enters.

The Uplands course has a tough front nine but the back nine, though calling for the strictest accuracy off the tee, is short and has been dubbed "Birdie Alley" by appreciative par-beaters.

Entry list for the Times Open will be restricted to the first 120 entries received. Qualifying round will be held at Gorge Vale, March 31.

Entry form and fee ($3.00) are to be mailed to Leo Derman, Gorge Vale Golf Club, no later than March 28.

Harbor Gateway Branded Mess

Victoria West Leader Calls for Clean-Up

The tourist's first view of Victoria is a "disgrace to the city," Charles Banfield, president of Victoria West Community Association, former alderman, and long-time resident, said today.

"The Empress Hotel and Parliament Buildings are all very well, but the first thing our visitors see are the acres of junk and dilapidated cooperage buildings on the industrial reserve," he said.

The Lime Bay-Mud Bay area is "nothing but a mess," Mr. Banfield complained.

He asked for beautification of the west shore of Victoria harbor as a project for Capital Improvement District Commission.

TO BE DISCUSSED

Mr. Banfield said the matter of approaching the CIDC, provincial-municipal committee for beautifying the capital area will be discussed at a special meeting of the Victoria West Community Association Friday at 8 p.m.

Also due for discussion is a spring and summer program of district improvement. Volunteers will be sought to clear the beach at Banfield Park to ready it for swimming this summer.

A resolution is expected to be submitted to Victoria City Council asking fire protection be guaranteed during the three-month closing of Point Ellice Bridge for reconstruction this summer.

(Mayor Percy Scurrah said he will meet with Reeve A. C. Wurtelle in the near future to work out a fire protection plan for Victoria West with Esquimalt. A recommendation by city fire chief Frank Briers for temporary stationing of a fire truck at the old Victoria West hall has been dropped due to the expense of hiring extra firemen.)

FOR CENTENNIAL

Fort Rodd Hill Project Backed By Businessmen

The Chamber of Commerce tourist trade and retail groups Monday threw their support behind a proposal for development of Fort Rodd Hill, with its two historic fortresses, as a centennial project.

Support came from a joint meeting which felt that Fort Rodd Hill was the only project, from a score or more proposals, that was in keeping with the purpose of centennial year.

The history of Victoria has been a continual history of short-sightedness to set aside areas and property of lasting value to its citizens," said Sam Lane, chairman of the tourist group. "Let us not make another mistake and pass up this opportunity to restore something worth while."

MEETING SET

The chamber groups plan to inspect the property Thursday. Residents of Victoria are invited to take part in the tour. Meeting place is at Colwood Inn at 4.45 p.m.

Fort Rodd Hill, owned by the Department of National Defence, is situated between Belmont and Lagoon Roads, about nine miles from the city.

Mr. Lane said the site and fortresses was comparable to anything he had seen in North America.

20 MINUTES AWAY

"I've gone to New Orleans and to the West Indies to see the very things which are situated only 20 minutes from Victoria," he said. "I never knew until now we had such an attraction in our own backyard.

Hector Alexander said the forts with the surrounding beaches, woods and parkland would be a big attraction for children.

Geoff. C. D'Arcy, a member of a committee for the restoration of the forts, said Fort Rodd not only represented British Columbia history but Canadian history.

Victoria Trustees Support Drive For Revision of School Financing

The Greater Victoria School Board Monday night backed the British Columba School Trustees' Association in seeking revision of the provincial school financing formula to relieve municipal taxpayers.

The board chairman, W. H. Golby, and trustee Richard Reeve, will attend a meeting, March 23, in the BCSTA Vancouver offices to outline Victoria's financing problems.

The association will ask increases in the provincial basic grant schedule.

"At present our hands are tied," trustee Kenneth Leeming said.

The formula states municipalities must provide a portion of school operational costs equal to 10 mills on the budget. At the same time the government will not pay for unauthorized expenditures, one of the largest of which is salary expenditures, above a rigid schedule.

A senior schools official said the formula should be amended so that urban areas should only have to pay a sum equal to 7 mills, as is required in rural areas, and the approved salary grant scale should be greatly increased.

The board will meet with the city council and probably some other Greater Victoria council representatives on Wednesday to study the new $5,153,161 local schools budget. It has increased over $500,000 from 1956, mostly due to wage increases which must be met wholly by the municipalities.

A letter from the trustees' association stated, "The executive has not been able to meet with . . . the minister of education to discuss the matter due to the inability of the minister to see his way clear for such a meeting".

TOO LATE

It was pointed out it is too late to expect relief from this session of the legislature but a study of the Public Schools Act is under way and it is important to make representations at an early date.

The Union of British Columbia Municipalities earlier suggested all British Columbia municipalities take similar steps.

Meanwhile the city of Victoria asked the board to provide statistics on the number of Victoria children attending schools in outside municipalities and the number of outside children attending Victoria schools.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow told the council earlier he had asked for these figures and they had not been delivered. He maintains Victoria ratepayers are paying more than their share of district school costs for new construction.

"This is the first opportunity we've had to meet and consider (the request)," said trustee Richard Reeve. He moved the information be supplied.

Chairman Golby said:

"The board is on sound ground when it recognizes no municipal boundaries. We have no purpose in withholding this information or conversely in giving it out to all kinds of people who want to jump on a barrel and make statements."

It was stated that the board would have to conduct a census to gather the information requested.

"Since we are not concerned with municipal boundaries we do not keep records of children crossing municipal boundaries."

'FIRST BREATH OF SPRING DAY' FRIDAY FOR SIDNEY, ANACORTES

Sidney and Anacortes Chambers of Commerce have designated Friday as "First Breath of Spring Day," to mark the opening of the ferry service between the two communities.

First ferry to arrive in Sidney from Anacortes will be greeted by Chamber of Commerce members and their wives, with a souvenir gift and a daffodil boutonniere for each passenger.

On the ferry will be a delegation from the Anacortes chamber, accompanied by a school band which will play the ferry into the landing slip.

Dashed and dotted data — + — . . . !

The controversial issue of one-way streets is once more rearing its argumentative head in the city of Victoria . . . there is a simple solution for one-way streets . . . have lots of them, but make it optional for all citizens to decide which way is the one way. . . .

. . . come to think of it, this would still fail to take care of the citizen who prefers to drive sideways. . . .

. . . editorial in yesterday's Times winds up with: "This serious question has not been answered by the premier."

. . . this is news? . . .

. . . took an alert constituent to bring it to my attention, despite the fact the advertisement has been appearing for several days. . . .

. . . I mean the advertisement for the Academy Awards contest and the line which reads:

"FIRST PRIZE—PROVINCE OF B.C."

. . . as the constituent pointed out, most of us thought this prize had already been won. . . .

. . . by Wenner-Gren. . . .

Biologists Tracking Ghost Herd

Many attempts by big game hunters and scientists to discover the whereabouts of the herd have been foiled.

Only a few men have seen the white caribou — a specie which is miniature in size and known to Indians as the "ghost" animal. It is said to roam chiefly on the mountains in the interior of Graham Island which few men have explored.

The white caribou was first reported sighted in 1892.

FOUR SHOT

Then in 1906, H. A. Collison, an Anglican minister, reported seeing four of the animals which were shot by Indians. Each animal had only one antler.

He expressed the opinion the four animals were the last of the specie, the last of a great herd. But in 1920 tracks identified as caribou were seen on the Island.

An American big game hunter spent weeks trying to sight the animals after fighting his way through thick underbrush to the mountains. He failed. Other searches also have been fruitless.

Furthermore, on the arrival of the white man on the coast, no cloven-hoofed animal was known to exist on the Queen Charlottes. The deer which is now found there, was introduced to the Islands by man.

TOUGH BUT TENDER

It will be tough eating if he manages to get a slice on that plate, but there were some tender sentiments behind the special "cake" fixed up at Victoria Curling Club to mark Bill Hyde's 87th birthday today. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

EDITOR SPEAKS

UN Scoffers Don't Have Alternative

The many who scoff at the United Nations fail to say what agency would have more success, Times associate editor Brian Tobin told the Kiwanis Club here today.

"Even without any permanent solution," it has in many cases provided the alternative to war, he said.

He pointed out the UN "is not a world government," but merely a gathering of nations, each one out primarily for its own interests, and it is the sum total of these interests which should determine action taken.

U.S. SENSITIVE

No nation likes to be defeated in the General Assembly, and the United States is particularly sensitive on this point, he said.

The U.S. feels that if defeated it will lose prestige and influence, so most of the big issues are thrashed out before they reach the assembly floor.

Today it is "unsettling" for the traditional governing nations of Europe to have to listen to Asia, but with the Communists endeavoring to get the Afro-Asian support, both sides in many cases modify their proposals to get that support.

UN WILL GO

There is a real danger that the Afro-Asian nations may not use their new power with restraint, he said, and if this comes about the great powers "will get out of the UN to save themselves."

He predicted that in years to come the UN may disappear, "but if it does, it can only be to make way for something even better."

WEDNESDAY MEETINGS

Registered Music Teachers' Association: home of Mrs. H. Lazenby, 1144 Dallas Road, 8 p.m. Prof. Boyce Gaddes, Victoria College, will speak.

Canadian Legion, Esquimalt Branch: Legion hall, 8 p.m. Election of officers.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Canadian Restaurant Association, Victoria branch, advised city council today its members have passed a resolution endorsing the adoption of a six-day shopping week on a year-round basis. The new Municipal Act gives council power to establish a six-day shopping week, rather than a five-and-a-half-day week for two months in the summer.

Cyril Morgan, no fixed address, was sentenced in city police court today to three months in Oakalla jail when he was convicted of taking a car without the owner's consent.

The car, property of William O. Adams, Nanaimo, was moved from its parking place in an E and N yard March 6, and located about 125 feet away. The accused was seen in and around the car.

It was Morgan's third conviction for that offence.

Trucker's Trial For Negligence Gets Under Way

Trial of Elven Warren Slater, 22-year-old truck driver, charged with criminal negligence in connection with the traffic death of Archdeacon Robert Little, opened in Assize Court before Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne today.

Archdeacon Little was killed when his small car collided with a truck driven by Slater on the old Island Highway about a quarter of a mile west of Parson's Bridge. The accident occurred on Sept. 25.

Victoria Man Acquitted On Bigamy Charge

He was acquitted after he testified he did not know at the time of his second marriage that his first wife, now living in Vancouver, was still alive.

His first wife left him in 1934, he said, and he did not hear from her or see her before his second marriage in 1952. The law protects an individual from an indictment of bigamy if after seven years he has reason to believe his wife is dead.

'ON ICE' FOR SIXTY YEARS

Bonspiel Watched By Oldest Curler

By DOUG PEDEN

Bill Hyde is celebrating another birthday today, but although he is marking the occasion in surroundings he loves best—the hubbub of a curling bonspiel—there's a slightly wistful look in his eyes.

For the first time in the five-year history of the event, the name of 87-year-old W. J. Hyde is missing from the list of competitors in the Victoria Curling Club's annual men's bonspiel.

Believed to be Canada's oldest active curler, Hyde curls twice weekly in regular club draws and only missed making his fifth straight bonspiel appearance when members of his proposed rink were unable to stay together during the winter.

Hyde has watched countless rocks slide down the ice since his introduction to the roaring game at Balgonie, Sask., almost 60 years ago, and his fondness for the game has increased with the years.

Biggest change he has noted in curling has been the gradual switch from knockout tactics to the draw style of game he has always preferred as more consistent artificial ice surfaces have replaced natural ice in most areas.

While conceding there are more good curlers in Canada now than ever before, Hyde still places Bob Dunbar and Frank Cassidy, who were tossing rocks in Winnipeg around the turn of the century, among the game's all-time greats.

Although he isn't taking an active part in this year's bonspiel, the man who launched the idea that eventually grew into the Victoria Curling Club, and who is one of three honorary life members of the club, missed little of Monday's opening-day action.

And it will take more than an 87th birthday to keep him from a seat behind the glass during the rest of the week-long bonspiel.

When Hyde arrived in Victoria, the only thing he didn't like about the city was its lack of a curling rink. He started a campaign for a rink in 1947, and when the curling club was opened four years ago, Victoria became his idea of the perfect place to live.

Leadership Course By Welfare Group Starts March 29

Community Welfare Council of Victoria will sponsor a leadership training course at Spencerhouse March 29, April 5 and April 12.

The course is designed to cover common problems of leadership found in all recreational organizations. It will include the ethics of leadership, the leader and the group, role-playing, aims and purpose of a group, the self-perpetuating group, and controlling discussions.

The program will be in charge of the council's recreation committee under Mrs. E. Purcell of the YWCA, Glen Hamilton of Silver Threads Service and Robert Milks, executive commissioner of the Boy Scouts here.

Registrations will be taken by Mr. Hamilton, Spencerhouse. The class will be limited to 24 persons, with meetings scheduled for 8 on the three evenings.

Single Veterans Protest Lack Of Pension Boost

Finance Minister Harris, in his budget address in Ottawa Thursday, announced that the allowance for married men would be increased from $108 to $120 per month. The allowance for single men will remain unchanged at $60 per month.

Mr. Hamilton already has sent a telegram to Dr. F. T. Fairey, MP for Victoria, protesting the policy. He said Canadian Legion branches and other veterans' organizations here were planning to discuss the pension situation at forthcoming meetings.

ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me how many gallons of water each person in Victoria uses per day? —C. B.

A.—On a 1/1 basis of population the total consumption works out at approximately 130 gallons per capita daily. It is to be observed that the figure includes the water used for industrial purposes.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Men! Here's a Real Buy! A Dozen Handkerchiefs—$1

By PENNY SAVER

A miscellanea of items scattered throughout the city caught my eye this morning as I roamed about finding bargains and interesting buys for you. First, the men in the house will be delighted to find good-sized white cotton handkerchiefs selling at $1 a dozen. That's right! An amazing price! I've never come across a buy like this before.

Nearby, I noticed heavy knit and doubleknit sweaters for fishermen or yachtsmen. Guaranteed to keep you cosy in even the briskest breeze, these sweaters come in white or navy. A close, double knit in navy has a mock turtle neckline, long sleeves and extra long line for warmth. This model is $4.95.

Another sweater in navy or white comes in a looser knit with a roll-over turtle neckline. It, too, is $4.95. In white, there is another style, similar to the two named, but with a little something added. The price of this one is $10.95. Year-round favorites, these sweaters are hand-washable.

Now, for the ladies, I've got orchids. Bebe orchids in a rich warm shade, made of soft fabric and velvet, and so realistic. A spray of six wee orchids to pin to your favorite dress or suit or hat costs just $1. Another appealing wee flower is a white carnation with petals tinged with red. The full blown flower and a dainty bud cost $1.

Large red or pink carnations are meant for evening wear, for sprinkled on them are rhinestone dew drops to catch the night's twinkling lights. These artificially-made blooms are also $1. Fifty cents more are lovely sprays of stocks in delicate pinks, blues, lilac or white. These are only a few of the gorgeous accessory flowers that have arrived in town to complement your spring and summer ensembles. Of course, very popular and available in many intriguing colors are the blown roses, synonymous with "My Fair Lady" fashions.

Rather than search the stores for the items I've mentioned here, call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where I shopped.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It's Not How Old But How Happy You Are

The important thing is not how old you are but how happy you are, how much fun you are getting out of living, how well you are! I think the middle-aged woman of today is the most attractive in history. She knows about nutrition, posture, figure control, chic dress, hair-styling and make-up.

For a couple of days I am writing to the woman of 50 or thereabouts. Mid life should provide truly adventurous living. There is less pressure, and more time to branch out into new activities.

The woman of 50 who has lived with perception will be tolerant and understanding. Her interests will be broader than her hips, and she probably will have a delightful sense of humor. She should be an artist in living and in love.

Many women make the mistake of dropping the habit of exercise long before they reach the age of 50. In the hustle of rearing a family or carving out a career or both, they give up sports and do not replace them with any other form of exercises.

There is healing power in the great outdoors and also there seems to be some special magic in using our large muscle groups regularly and strenuously. We can almost always spot the middle-aged woman who has retained the habit of daily exercise. She looks more youthful, more alive and more vivacious than her inactive sister. Her tissues are firmer. She is not a problem to herself or to anyone else.

It would be dangerous to begin exercise at 40 or 50 without first having your heart and blood pressure checked. In fact a complete physical examination is best. However, many doctors feel that exercise is extremely beneficial for the older woman if she begins slowly and builds up gradually. Of course we know how wonderful it is so far as weight distribution is concerned!

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 33 "Woman of 50," or leaflet No. 32 "Menopause," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About table settings:

Please advise if it is in poor taste to combine silver and brass or gold (simulated gold) in table settings. We prefer the warmth of brass or gold but would not like to give up the silver that we now have.

Louise Davis answers:

As a rule it would be better to be consistent, using one or the other and not combining them during one "sitting," especially with silver flatware. Combinations of forks, knives and spoons, would be somewhat jarring. Each should be used to the exclusion of the others. For an attractive formal dinner table, I advise not mixing brass, copper or the gold with your flat silver. For a luncheon, a buffet or informal dinner table you have more leeway, in which case the brass, copper or gold candlesticks might be effective because they are far enough away from the silver flatware not to clash.

Louise

Try experimenting. If the combination of metals is pleasing to the eye, do it that way occasionally without apologies to yourself or to your guests.

JOAN SHOOTS FIRST

HALIFAX (CP)—Another field long considered man's preserve has been successfully invaded by a woman.

The navy has announced that Acting Sub.-Lt. Joan Hudson has been appointed officer in charge of rifle-shooting instruction at HMCS Scotian, the Halifax naval reserve division.

A skilled markswoman, she will show seamen, stokers and other branches in the reserve navy how to handle firearms.

Toastmistresses Hold Speak-Off

A Campbell River Toastmistress was winner of the international area speech contest held at Nanaimo. She is Mrs. Don Corker, who chose "Double Talk in the Nursery" as her subject. Mrs. R. Rose of Victoria Toastmistress Club was second with "The Ladder."

Mrs. C. C. Warren, chairman, welcomed over 60 members and guests of Vancouver Island Toastmistress Clubs. Mrs. B. McEwan of the Nanaimo club gave the invocation and toastmistress of the evening was Mrs. H. P. Mickelson, Victoria.

Others taking part in the contest were Mrs. Nicole St. Clair, Alberni; Mrs. C. Yarwood, Arbutus, Victoria, and Mrs. E. D. Strongitharm, Nanaimo.

Judges were Miss Marjorie Press, Capt. Gordon Williscroft, Victoria; Ralph MacColl, J. G. Parker, Nanaimo. Tellers were Mrs. J. Stewart, Alberni; Mrs. L. May, Campbell River, and Mrs. L. Nicholls, Marina. Timers were Mrs. F. Holley, Nanaimo, and Mrs. L. Ackerman, Arbutus. Hostesses were Mrs. P. Locke and Mrs. P. Twyman, Nanaimo.

Votes of thanks were given by Miss G. Mitchell and Mrs. M. Darling, both of Victoria.

Others attending from this city were Mrs. G. Williscroft, Mrs. A. P. Rayment, Mrs. R. K. Simpson, Mrs. S. Roberts, Mrs. R. Macmillan, Mrs. E. G. Aldred, Mrs. D. Rush, Mrs. Deerman, Mrs. Hemming, Mrs. D. Brandon, Mrs. L. A. Gordon, and Mr. and Mrs. H. Ker.

Newcomers to Victoria are the Greenfield family, recently of Altrencham, Cheshire, Eng. Enjoying the grounds of the Empress Hotel are Miss Judy Greenfield and her mother, Mrs. A. G. Greenfield. The family has made their home at 853 Hampshire Road. Judy, 17, studied dress designing at Manchester Art College, and modelling at the Lucy Clayton Modelling School in England, and has hopes of continuing her interests in modelling in Victoria.

MUNICIPAL CHAPTER

Shows Education and Public Service as Main Interests

A total of $3,614.20 was spent, Miss MacNab announced, this being an increase of $1,000 over the previous year. Six bursaries of $100 each; four special bursaries of $100 each; a scholarship of $50; a Golden Jubilee scholarship of $100; a number of memorial scholarships and chapter bursaries were included in the total. Primary chapters adopted 23 schools and assisted seven more. Three libraries were bought for schools and smaller educational gifts amounted to over $300.

ASSISTS NEEDY

Mrs. L. D. Hall, in her report on services at home and abroad showed a sum of $5,128 expended. Needy families were helped; milk supplied for underprivileged children; hospital fees paid and drugs bought for needy; hampers and food parcels were distributed; gifts were given to pensioners; a TV set to the Gorge Road Hospital; orphans, cerebral palsy victims, the blind, the Hungarian refugees and Sunshine Camp were all assisted.

Treasurer's report, presented by Miss Joan French, showed $1,097.38 receipts in general funds with disbursements of $1,003.17. Primary chapter accounts showed total receipts of $11,687.14 and disbursements of $12,736.57. Special contributions amounted to $5,967.87.

Miss Peggy MacNeill, secretary, reported 15 primary chapters in Victoria, and one junior group, with a total membership of 440. Chief project in the past year had been presentation of carvings and a crucifix to the chapels of St. Michael's and St. Luke's at Veterans' Hospital. A sum of $399 had been expended on this work.

Mrs. A. Warren Smith was re-elected regent for a second year. Other officers are Mrs. A. W. E. Pitkethley, first vice-regent; Mrs. Owen Fowler, second; Miss MacNeill, secretary; Mrs. E. Fox, treasurer; Mrs. R. Hadfield, organizing secretary; Miss Christine MacNab, educational; Mrs. E. Lowthian, Echoes; Mrs. A. G. Fulmer, standard bearer; Mrs. M. Hall, services at home and abroad; Mrs. J. Heggie, assistant secretary.

TWO-YEAR LIMIT

During the meeting a resolution was passed limiting a member elected to an executive position to a period of not more than two consecutive years in that particular office.

Chairman of the nominations committee was Mrs. A. Drysdale, assisted by Mrs. H. D. Parizeau, Mrs. J. A. Dunn, Mrs. F. T. Shaw and Mrs. C. C. Riach.

Mrs. J. L. Ford welcomed and installed officers. Vote of thanks to the outgoing officers was given by Miss Connie Chrow.

The meeting commenced Monday afternoon with assembly of standards; resolution of loyalty and reports of standing committees and primary chapters. Evening session concluded with a question box conducted by Mrs. P. E. Corby, Mrs. A. H. C. Phipps and Mrs. H. L. Woolison.

Women's Auxiliary, Cerebral Palsy Clinic, Jubilee Hospital, lecture room, Wednesday, 8 p.m. . . . Guild of St. Chad's Mission Church, coffee party, Thursday, Douglas Room, Hudson's Bay Company, 11 a.m. to 1.30 p.m.

Leadership Workshop

A "leadership workshop"—sponsored by the district board of Women's Institutes of South Vancouver Island was held at Brentwood under the chairmanship of board president Mrs. E. G. Woodward. Special guests were Mrs. Stella Gummow, B.C. superintendent of women's institutes; vice-president Mrs. E. Robinson of Shirley W.I.; secretary Mrs. M. Cowan of Lake Hill institute, and directors Mrs. A. Davis, South Salt Spring, and Mrs. J. F. Lauritzen of Craigflower W.I. Others present represented institutes of south Salt Spring, South Saanich, Royal Oak, Brentwood and up-Island groups.

Through presentation of films and open discussion institute members were made familiar with various phases of institute work and procedure. R. W. Hamblett, Brentwood, explained fundamentals of bookkeeping, banking and audit requirements. Other topics included institute scholarship funds for home economics and agriculture students at University of British Columbia.

Mrs. Gummow summed up at the afternoon session, evaluating the day and offering helpful criticism and congratulations to the board. Brentwood institute members under Mrs. E. MacFarlane served lunch and tea. Entertainment was provided by a song and dance quartette from the Tsartlip Indian School.

Couple Speak Wedding Vows In Esquimalt United Church

Wearing a ballerina-length gown of clouding white net, Diann Evelyn Hoegi became the bride of Allan Richard Anderson, Saturday evening, in Esquimalt United Church.

Bodice of her gown was fashioned of nylon lace and her chapel veil of nylon tulle was trimmed with seed pearls to match her dainty pearl headdress. She carried a half crescent bouquet of pink raputre roses and white hyacinths and her only jewelry was a silver locket, gift of the groom.

The bride was attended by Miss Yvonne Harrington, bridesmaid, and her younger sister, Miss Della Mae Hoegi, junior bridesmaid. Miss Harrington wore a brocaded satin gown of pale turquoise shade and Miss Hoegi wore spring yellow nylon over taffeta. They carried bouquets of pale pink and white carnations and wore matching headdresses.

Rev. D. R. Pilkey conducted the service for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Delmar A. Hoegi, 827 Lampson Street, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Anderson, 3226 Doncaster Road. Tall baskets of spring flowers were placed in the church, and during signing of the register, Del Rogers sang "For You Alone." Mrs. Margaret Dixon was organist. The bride's father gave her in marriage.

At a reception held in the Golden Slipper ballroom, toast to the bride was proposed by Lorne Schott, uncle of the bride. A three-tier cake centred the bridal table, and was surrounded in a mist of white tulle.

For a honeymoon to Vancouver and Seattle, Mrs. Anderson donned a travelling dress of navy in sheath style, with pale blue accessories and gardenia corsage. She wore a grey and white checked coat.

Mr. and Mrs. Anderson will make their home at 486 Joffre Street.

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prize? Then Ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

What Do We Make Tar From?

Man-made tar is a special kind of wood ash. It contains the gooey resins and countless other valuable substances driven off in ordinary fire. Dark brown wood tar is made from modern trees. Black coal tar is made from coal, which is the fossil remains of ancient plant life. Tangy, sticky tar is not a glamorous stuff. But it does countless chores in our busy workaday world and the list of its useful byproducts is endless.

The crude tar itself is valuable. As a coating, it protects woods, metal and bricks from weather, water and insects. The countless byproducts gathered in the making of tar are even more valuable. For tar is a very complex substance, a brew of many compounds and chemicals made by growing plants. Hydrocarbons, acetic acid and alcohol are but a few of its ingredients.

Wood tar is extracted from the roots and stumps of certain conifer trees. Stockholm tar is made mostly from the Scotc fir and the Siberian larch. I the Carolinas, Georgia and Al bama, wood tar is made fro the swamp pine. The tar is e tracted from the wood by a pr cess of heat and distillation.

The wood is stacked into kilr or ovens and slowly heated witl out much air. Smoke, steam an vaporized substances are drive by the heat. They are trappe and led off in copper pipes. Th pipes are slightly sloped alon the sides of oblong water tank The vapors from the bakin wood condense and settle in th pipes. They settle in three lay ers, the heaviest on the bottor and the lightest on top.

The top layer is light, hydr carbon substance. The middl layer is water with acetic aci and other materials. At th bottom of the sandwich is layer of thick, gooey tar. Tur a spigot near the bottom of th tank and out it oozes. Th charred wood left in the ove may be used for charcoal.

Coal tar is usually a by product in the making of coa gas. Here the coal is also heat ed slowly without much air Heat drives off the light coa gas. It also vaporizes an drives off heavier tarry sub stances. When these vapor condense and cool they forn tar. Coal tar and wood tar ma be used in crude form. Bu much of it is sent for more pro cessing to separate its valuabl ingredients. Each compoun boils at its own temperature A number of compounds turr to vapor as the heat increase step by step. This process o refining tar is also one of hea and distilling. It is done in re torts.

When the heat is between 110 and 120 degrees Centigrade water and acetic acid are vapor ized from the tar. The heat mounts and between 120 and 235 degrees the creosote oils turn to vapor and rise from the brew. These oils may be processed further to valuable medicines and antiseptics. The ashes that remain from the processed tar form a black wood pitch. There are even jobs for these dregs of tar. The pitch can be made into briquettes, varnishes and artificial asphalt.

Boy Scout Activities

By FREEMAN KING

Third Victoria Group: The Rover crew and the Cadboro Bay crew worked for four hours at the free food stall, city market, on Saturday.

The troop held a combined meeting with the Chinese troop at the Chinese United Church Hall on Friday evening. Patrol alert stunts were run off, including knotting, lashing, first aid, compass work, tree and shrub identification and pathfinder practice. The evening finished with a fast game. Scouter George Bennett was in charge.

* * *

Chinese Cub Pack: At the regular meeting Friday evening the theme of St. Patrick of Ireland was the highlight.

* * *

Gordon Head Group: A Father and Son evening was held last Wednesday evening. 35 dads turning out. Regular Cub and Scout activities were carried out and R. Milks, executive commissioner, gave the parents a talk on the value of scouting. Three parents offered to act as leaders. The jamboree film was shown and the evening finished with refreshments served by the group committee.

* * *

District Notes: A swim meet is planned for the district; those interested should have their application forms in to district headquarters by March 31. There will be 10 competitions and teams can vary in size from four to eight.

Fifteen leaders turned out to the Green Plume Court of Honor meeting last Thursday. Scouter John McKay from Kindersley, Sask., was a visitor, and a session on tree and shrub identification was given by C. Pike, a district Scouter.

The Fairfield and Windsor Park troops held a mapping run Sunday, March 10. Sixty Scouts and their leaders assembled at John Dean Park, Mr. Newton and patrols were given their compass bearings from the parking lot which took them to the West Summit then to the north hill; from there to the top of Mt. Newton and back to the parking lot was a distance of over four miles, practically all through the thick brush. The first team to get in was the Seals of the Windsor Park troop who made the distance in one hour and 18 minutes; second were the Bats of the Fairfield troop with the time of one hour and 48 minutes.

Socreds Doubled Paved Highways, Says Gaglardi

There is more than twice as much paved highway in B.C. today as when the Social Credit government took office in 1952, Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi told the legislature Monday.

"The extensiveness of our snow removal program is tremendous," boomed the minister after hearing complaints about the condition of the Malahat highway.

"My constituents in Saanich are most happy with their road program," said John Tisdalle (SC-Saanich), "and they are also very happy with the Brentwood-Mill Bay ferry service."

White Sox Refuse To Trade Minoso

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The president of the Washington Senators said Monday Chicago White Sox manager Al Lopez has refused to trade outfielder Minnie Minoso to the Washington club.

Legislature Moves To Broaden Power Of County Courts

An act to raise the jurisdiction of County Courts—allowing them to handle cases including up to $3,000 — was given first reading in the legislature Monday night.

At present, cases involving transactions over $1,000 have to be heard in the Supreme Court.

"The effect of this will be to relieve pressure on the Supreme Court, which has more work than it can handle, a spokesman for the attorney-general's department said.

The new bill also provides for appeals from County Court decisions if the sum involved is less than $500. At present the ceiling amount is $100.

Wicks Denies Giving Too Many Overtime Permits

CCF Leader Robert Strachan Monday night attacked the provincial labor department for its "indiscriminate granting of overtime permits" to industry.

He cited clearing work at Buttle Lake where some men were working 60 hours a week last summer while other unemployed could not get jobs on the project.

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks denied the charges and said overtime permits granted by his department last summer were the result of "the greatest expansion program in the history of this province."

Fair Stable Sold

BRANTFORD, Ont. (CP)—Horses bred and raced by one of the most popular figures in Canadian thoroughbred racing history, the late James G. Fair, sold Monday for $41,900.

20% Magazine Tax Faces Court Test

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Correspondent

OTTAWA—The magazine tax imposed on Canadian editions of United States magazines, announced a year ago by Hon. Walter Harris, Minister of Finance, is to be tested in the courts, it was learned here today.

Readers' Digest's Canadian edition has not paid the tax on the due date, March 15. Accordingly, the customs and excise division of the Department of National Revenue is expected to make an assessment against the magazine and it will appeal the assessment in order to bring the new tax before the courts to test its validity.

The tax is applied to Canadian editions of non-Canadian periodicals. The rate is 20 per cent on the advertising contents of the special Canadian editions.

Readers' Digest and the Canadian edition of Time Magazine are the two publications most affected. Time Magazine is reported to have paid on the due dates.

Readers' Digest is printed in Canada and published by a Canadian company. It is believed that the Digest will argue that the new tax is discriminatory in that it levies a tax against their Canadian company and does not tax other Canadian companies such as Macleans.

C (To Put in Time)

(A) "BATTLE HYMN" (Odeon):—Every now and then in this business of reviewing the films one bumps into a "sneaker," a picture that you don't expect to be worth a continental and it turns out to be a gripping experience. One such is U-I's "Battle Hymn."

With the exception of "Giant", for which he received an Academy nomination, we usually associate Rock Hudson with pictues of a weepy hue such as "Magnificent Obsession." When his name was coupled with a title called "Battle Hymn" we expected a picture designed to provoke a flood of tears calculated to float the Ark.

Instead there was a fine story, based on truth, the story of Protestant minister Col. Dean Hess of Marietta, O., who had earned the name of "killer" during service with the U.S. Air Force in the Second World War.

WHEN THE KOREA CONFLICT breaks out Dean is at his wits end, in his own eyes a failure as a minister to a congregation "I can't seem to reach." Weighing heavily on the minister's mind is an accident that occurred during the Second World War when a bomb from his plane hit a German orphanage, killing 37 of the children. Much to the surprise and consternation of his friends and wife Martha Hyer he re-enlists, not as a chaplain but as a fighter pilot.

From here until the end the picture takes on a surprisingly mystic quality as Hess battles not only the enemy but himself. The air battles, the service life are both subjugated to this and Hudson has never appeared in a better light. He is ably supported by Anna Kashfi, who plays an orphanage directress; Dan Duryea, a happy-go-lucky sergeant; and Don DeFore, of Ozzie and Harriet fame.

BY THE TIME the picture ends with Hess being responsible for saving the lives of 400 orphans most theatre-goers will appreciate that they have witnessed an uncommonly fine picture.

Contrast Keynotes Plays by Students

University School's 'In the Zone' Highlights Drama Festival Opening

By AUDREY ST.D. JOHNSON

Three plays of extreme contrast in theme, period and pace, lead off the 17th annual Greater Victoria Schools' Drama Festival Monday night at Mount View High School.

There was the measured, weighty, but extremely colorful and well staged, "Tutankhamon, Son of Ra," the romping medieval comedy, "Petticoats Preferred," and the high-tension drama of war at sea, O'Neill's "In The Zone."

"Tutankhamon, Son of Ra," by T. B. Morris. Presented by Mount Newton Jr.-Sr. High School.

Tutankhamon	Jack Turner
Ankhensamon	Carol Steele
High Priest of Amon	Gary MacDonald
Lord Ay	Morley Cornelius
Herald	Pat Mead-Robbins
Dr. Latimer	Eddie Steele
Fanny Durrant	Ruth Hakin
Ann Somers	Clara Taylor
Ranofru	Gail McKevitt
Girl Slaves	Betty Speller, Judy Hills, Barbara Drake, Pam Martin, Ruth Lewis.

Director: Mrs. R. G. Phillips.
Stage Manager, Bill Scott.

In commenting on this entry, Mrs. Goldrick praised the excellent costumes which had great authenticity, also effective lighting and scenery. She felt the small characterizations were particularly good.

"Petticoats Preferred," by T. B. Morris. Presented by Mount View High School.

Maddelena	Dale Cole
Nita	Phillis Lange
Teresa	Sheila Brown
Angela	Linden Louis
Giovanna	Beverly Greggor
Francesa	Sharon Atkinson

Director: Frank Snowsell.
Stage Manager: Jim Sheard.

The adjudicator commended good characterizations in this comedy, also clear voices. She felt, however, the speech should have been kept a little more conversational in tone.

Tempo was a little slow at times but in general was quite lively. She felt all members of the cast had entered thoroughly into the spirit of the piece.

Smitty	Andrew Wilson
Olson	Louis Cohen
Ivan	John Moodey
Mex	Freddie Schmidt
Davis	Fred Allen
Yank	Philip Brown
Driscoll	Wilfred Lund
Cocky	Wally Witherspoon

Director; C. Berrisford.
Stage Manager: Wilfred Lund.

This was a powerful play and well done, Mrs. Goldrick praised. Accent at moments, tended to obliterate words, but not to any harmful extent.

Tension was compelling and climax and anti-climax excellently achieved. Fred Allen had carried out his characterization with outstanding skill, she considered.

In tonight's session at S. J. Willis Junior High School, four plays will be seen.

The host school will present "Treasure Hunt," a period piece; another historical play, "White Queen, Red Queen," will be presented by St. Margaret's School; "The Sentimental Scarecrow," by Central Junior High, and an excerpt from "Anastasia" by Victoria High.

Arion Male Choir Back on Boards

Fears that the Arion Male Voice Choir, Victoria's oldest musical organization, might be dying of acute TV-itis, were dispelled to a certain extent Monday night when the group, as a 20-voice chorus, made its first public appearance this season.

Singing a light program at First United Church Fellowship Hall, they were assisted by Beverley Glenday, soprano, Bernard Rain, violinist, Dorothy Francis and Lorna Mulholland, pianists.

A piano accordion quintet was also a feature of the program which was sponsored by the AOTS Club of First United Church.

Groom Kills Four, Self on Wedding Day

WEST FRANKFORT, Ill. (AP)—Wielding a claw hammer and a pistol, a 44-year-old jewelry store operator killed his three young daughters, his mother and himself Sunday—the day he was to marry his bookkeeper.

Coroner Barney Browning said Herman Behn hit his sleeping victims on the head with the hammer and shot them with a .38-calibre pistol.

GUILTY OF ROBBERY

VANCOUVER — Keith Stady, 26, of Westview, captured Sunday by rifle-toting grocery proprietor John Kum, 22, after allegedly robbing Kum's store of $19, was found guilty Monday in police court on a charge of robbery and was remanded a week for sentence.

LONG OVATION

Gould's Talent Draws Thunder Of Applause

An ovation minutes long in duration acclaimed the genius of Glenn Gould, Canadian pianist, following his performance of Beethoven's Concerto No. 4 with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra, Monday night.

No artist this season, and few in past seasons, have drawn such spontaneous thunder of applause as burst from the enraptured capacity audience as the last notes died out.

In his second appearance with the Victoria Symphony, Gould created a record for attendance at the Winter subscription series of concerts. Previous to Monday's sell-out, approximately 1,000 persons had heard the Sunday performance.

Recalled again and again, Gould, happy and responsive, rewarded the eager audience with several encores.

To save the life of a child, the hunt is on for donors of an uncommon type of blood. Three donors are required and they are traced to widely diversified characters . . . a professional boxer, a ship's stoker . . . and a murderer! How Scotland Yard and the British Red Cross trace these against the background of London's streets and docks is an exciting and interesting story. The English title is "Hundred Hours Hunt."

Which would you choose to do the job?

To drill a one-inch hole in a board, you'd choose the brace and one-inch bit.

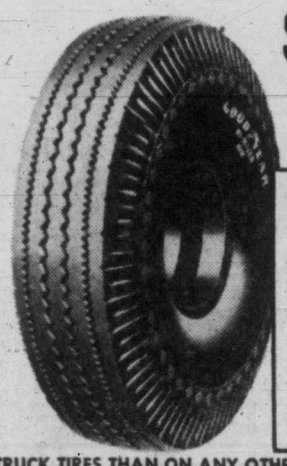
When it comes to buying tires for your light truck, which do you choose—auto or truck tires?

You should choose truck tires. They're stronger, tougher, more rugged—designed for the job. They last longer—give you more value for your money.

Best news of all . . . a Hi-Miler Rib Truck tire costs only a few dollars more than a standard 6 ply auto tire. See your Goodyear Dealer. He's a truck tire expert!

HI-MILER RIB TRUCK TIRES
by GOODYEAR
made with 3-T cord

Here's what you get in a Goodyear Hi-Miler Rib Truck Tire
1. 6 ply rating—extra tough triple-tempered 3-T cord fabric for stronger carcasses, more retreads.
2. An extra cushion between the plies—lengthens carcass life.
3. Thicker, wider, flatter tread that stands up to the pounding of truck work.
4. Larger, stronger beads—bead failures almost unheard of.



$29.95* 6 ply rating 6.00 x 16

GOODYEAR TIRES
OTHER SIZES *

6.50 x 16 (6 p.r.)	$37.70
7.50 x 16 (8 p.r.)	59.95
7.50 x 17 (8 p.r.)	64.90
7.50 x 20 (10 p.r.)	86.95
8.25 x 20 (10 p.r.)	99.95

* and your old tire at most Goodyear dealers.
Also available—6.70 x 15 (6 p.r.) new Hi-Miler Commercial Tubeless Truck Tire.

MORE TONS ARE HAULED ON GOODYEAR TRUCK TIRES THAN ON ANY OTHER KIND

6 IN MEMORIAM

MAYNE—In fond memory of "Dad" who passed away March 19, 1947.
—Ever remembered by his wife and son.

VALIANT—In loving memory of a wonderful son, Danby Gordon Valiant, died March 16, 1956.
Go thou thy way and I go mine,
Apart, yet not afar,
Only a thin veil hangs between
The pathways where we are.
"And God keep watch, 'tween thee and me."
This is my prayer:
He looks thy way. He looketh mine,
And keeps us near.
I sigh sometimes to see thy face,
But since this may not be,
I'll leave thee to the care of Him
Who cares for thee and me.
—Mom and Dad.

'THE SPRINGHILL MINE DISASTER' RELIVED ON C-6, 2 AT 10

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor

THE "EMMYS"—There's no two ways about it, we're most unhappy about some of the "Emmy" awards.

Or possibly hurt would be a better word, for most of the nominations were this column's favorite children and, in the end, it becomes not unlike a father having to choose his favorite child.

Let's start with Jack Palance. Now he was our No. 1 choice in the Best Actor category. His delineation of the boxer in Playhouse 90's "Requiem for a Heavyweight" was one of the best things done in 1956. We'll also go along with "Requiem's" writer, Rod Serling, being named best writer (this was long overdue) and the play's director Ralph Nelson and its art director Albert Heschong.

But we simply can't go along with "Requiem" as the Best Single Program. Our own choice? Kraft Theatre's "A Night to Remember"—the story of the sinking of the Titanic.

For "A Night to Remember" was more than a play. It brought a brand new look to TV. It was, indeed, a pioneering foray into live television. Up until the Kraft production it was thought that 10 or 12 characters were the most to be handled by the cameras. Kraft proved this untrue. It proved conclusively that live TV cameras were quite up to coping with hundreds of actors in intricate sequences. In fact it proved that live TV can do anything the movies can do.

★ ★ ★

TIME AND AGAIN we've stated that Sid Caesar has the best comedy show in the business, therefore we were delighted in his garnering an "Emmy." But for the life of us we couldn't see Caesar's Carl Reiner getting the nod over either Ed Wynn's supporting effort in "Requiem" or William Frawley's supporting role in "I Love Lucy."

We also think the Caesar show grabbed off more than it deserved when Pat Carroll was named over Vivian Vance of "I Love Lucy." And as for Nanette Fabray being named best comedienne for the Caesar Hour when she wasn't on it for about half of 1956—well, it's a joke that's all. Lucille Ball or Ann Sothern would have been more deserving choices, surely.

One award we're cheering about, however, is the naming of Claire Trevor as Best Actress for her part in "Dodsworth." A most competent artist for many years now she has at last received some of the recognition so long denied her.

Another award that made us cheer a bit was the naming of Paul Barnes as best art director for "Your Hit Parade." With his six dancers, sets, props, he worked miracles with the program this season past.

Although we would have liked to see Peggy Wood win for her touching "Mama" we have no argument with the award going to come-backer Loretta Young. And we feel the same way with Robert Young getting the nod over "Gunsmoke's" James Arness.

Anyway, that's that for another year.

WALLY GRAY
Has a store full of good clean, useful used furniture at very low prices. This is one of Victoria's busiest stores and folks have been saying for years: "It's the most reasonable place in town." Our window lights are on every evening and every item has a price tag so you may see some of the very good values we offer. A sign on our store says: "Out of this door come bargains galore," and truer words were never printed. It's at 2662 Douglas Street at Hillside just before the roundabout, with customer parking at the rear.

SEVENTEEN By Bernard Lansky

"Sheldon is now beginning to ask intelligent questions. . . . I could answer every one."

CARROLL RIGHTER'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20, 1957

"The Stars impel . . . They do not compel!
What you make of your life is largely up to you."

ARIES (March 21 to April 19)—Different ideas and plans of action than you have had in the past bring you some very wonderful new methods of operation, which your Arien nature will be delighted with right now. Get out of your rut and really go—now.

TAURUS (April 20 to May 20)—Financial matters really can brighten today so that you are in more secure position than when you started out this morning. Full speed ahead in income and property interests. Arrange with others what you want in future. P.M. be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21)—This is your day to get together with all friends and come to meeting of ties with devotion and loyalty now. Be as personal as you like in letting others know your desires. They'll help you get 'em.

CANCER (June 22 to July 21)—Behind-the-scenes activities are productive of very worthwhile results now. Be sure you do study improved methods that you can study, work out so confidentially that no one else can take your fine ideas. Aid those less fortunate.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21)—You now are able to get off to some very wonderful new persons, or some lofty and amazing ideas or streamlined new conditions that bring you greater success than for some time past. Accept the fact that the season has changed. Put spring in your heart now.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22)—You can find ways to please your own family more by adopting some sterling method of operation that brings a more continuous abundance, and to spare, for them. Study ways and means to delight your mate, close attachment, ardent admirer.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22)—Contacting every single other person you know, letting them be more aware of your affection for them, then discussing ways your joint projects can be made more workable produces very satisfactory results. P.M. study and do errands.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21)—Think big and you get big today. Concentrate that wonderful intentness with which you, as a Scorpio, are endowed on having more of the good things of life that are worthwhile and they are yours, sooner than you expect. Get down to earth.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21)—You are overloaded with inspiration today, be sure you procrastinate no longer, but at once put into motion, gaining the fondest dreams and cherished longings that are yours. Go after them directly with vim, vigor, vitality.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)—You now have it in your power to work all those angles, at which you are so adept, to gain a greater amount of information that has eluded you ere this, but which you need if you are to gain your secret longings. Fine for finding just what intimates desire from associating with you, also.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)—Friends and all associates will unite today to help you get what you want. Be sure you state just what is in your mind. How else are they able to accurately gauge and get you your ambitions?

PISCES (Feb. 20 to March 20)—Now you have a day when you can go directly to those officials, executives and authorities to gain their backing for whatever pet project is now yours. Be sure to follow through with suggestions they give you. Then you make big headway.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN WEDNESDAY . . .

Wednesday's child is one of those very direct and outspoken youngsters who as he or she grows up, will never be at a loss for words, or letting you know just what inside opinion he or she may have. Teach that is fine, but it's wise to couch the language used in gentler, less direct terms or there can be many persons who are sensitive alienated. Fine chart for work requiring a considerable amount of spiritual or scientific, educational work, especially in distant lands or where traveling is necessary.

WILLIS TO SUE

Offer Rejected By Fired Editor Of Anthology

An offer to settle with fired executive editor T. K. Willis of the B.C. centennial anthology for $1,500 is "unacceptable" and plans are to sue Toronto publisher McClelland & Stewart Ltd. for at least $15,000 "within a few days," lawyer P. J. Sinnott said today.

The offer to settle out of court was made in a letter received Monday over the signature of J. G. McClelland, the lawyer said.

"My client has a valid contract," said Mr. Sinnott.

Mr. Willis, who had first refused to be dismissed, has now dropped all work on the anthology, Mr. Sinnott said.

ORIGINATOR

Mr. Sinnott said Mr. Willis originated the idea of the anthology, expected to depict B.C. in 500 pages, and has done all the organizational work the past two years.

"The amount to be asked would only be commensurate with the pay an executive editor would receive for this type of work."

As well, damages would include a royalty of 3 per cent on all anthologies sold, as provided by contract.

He said sales were expected to total about 30,000, with 10,000 of these taken by the provincial government.

NO REASON

In no communication received was any reason given for the dismissal of Mr. Willis.

Executive secretary of the B.C. Centennial Committee, Larry McCance, said the firing "is a child of the publishers, as far as we are concerned. It's strictly a private matter."

He pointed out that Mr. Willis never had the power to either accept or reject manuscripts submitted, but merely passed them along to the editorial board.

There would be no slow-down or difficulty with publishing plans, he stated, as all manuscripts and other submissions now will go directly to editor-in-chief Dr. R. E. Watters.

TENDERS FOR CEDAR POLES

Sealed tenders will be received by the City Clerk, City Hall, Victoria, B.C., up until noon on Thursday, March 28, 1957, for the following:

100 only 40-ft. Class 2 Western red cedar poles in accordance with C.S.A. Spec. No. 015.2-1950.

Price to include delivery to the City Yard, Garbally Road, and poles will be subject to inspection at the yard before acceptance. Time required to deliver must be stated.

Tenders to be enclosed in a sealed envelope marked "Tender for Poles," and if the total amount of the tender exceeds $2,000.00, it must be accompanied by a certified deposit cheque or money order made payable to the City Treasurer.

The lowest or any tender will not necessarily be accepted.

G. F. SHARPE,
City Purchasing Agent.

Rogers Pass Route Defended by Gaglardi

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi emphatically denied Monday that snowslides will be a problem in Rogers Pass the route selected for the Trans-Canada Highway through the Selkirk Range.

"We are not anticipating any trouble with snow removal whatsoever," Mr. Gaglardi said. "Only one point is likely to have slides and we can get around that with a bridge."

The minister was answering criticism by CCF members who claimed the Jumbo Pass was a better route for the highway.

Mr. Gaglardi said Rogers Pass was selected on the basis of engineering reports by both his department and the federal deparmtent of public works.

Answering CCF whip Arthur Turner, Mr. Gaglardi said there had been no pressure brought to bear on his department to choose the Rogers Pass route.

A highways department engineer on a three-day reconnaissance had ruled out the Jumbo Pass because it would require a two-mile tunnel and excessively steep grades, the minister said.

$213,187 Budget For Community Chest

Community Chest board of directors increased the over-all 1957 budget by $27,178 over 1956 expenditures, Chest president R. B. Wilson has announced.

Total budget of $213,187 was approved. Most of the 20 member agencies will have more operational funds.

Total revenue is $223,140, reduced by administration and campaign expenses to $198,700.

Three new agencies will draw funds this year: Silver Threads ($7,500), SPCA ($2,000), and Muscular Dystrophy ($750).

Of the other agencies, Family and Children's Service, the largest at $60,168, receives more than $8,000 above last year's figure. Other 1957 budgets, with 1956 amounts in brackets, are:

Boy Scouts, $13,665 ($10,605); Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society, $9,250 ($7,943); Canadian National Institute for the Blind, $12,420 ($10,314); Citizens' Recreation Rooms, $1,885 ($1,745); Columbia Coast Mission, $1,000 (unchanged); Community Welfare Council, $3,282 ($3,509).

Sunshine Camp, $10,713 ($10,219); John Howard Society, $7,242 ($5,848); St. John Ambulance, $7,500 ($6,800); St. Joseph's Hospital women's auxiliary, $1,055 (unchanged); St. Vincent de Paul Society, $2,665 ($2,550); Victorian Order of Nurses, $19,399 ($17,583); YMCA, $27,275 ($23,430); YWCA, $23,618 ($21,537); Christmas Bureau, $600 ($300); Canadian Welfare Council $1,200 ($1,000).

Gaglardi's Plane 'Buzzes' Legislature

The minister took umbrage at a suggestion by Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) that he consider the matter of liability in case of accident involving non-government personnel.

(Log-books of the highways department plane showed last year Mr. Gaglardi used in frequently on weekends between Victoria and his home at Kamloops, and that friends and relatives were sometimes aboard.)

The minister said Monday, however, that in the five years he has been in office, only two hours of the plane's time has been used on these extra-curricular flights.

His wife had been aboard only when it was necessary in connection with receptions at the opening of new bridges or roads, he said.

PICAYUNE

"Why the question is so small I haven't given it any thought," Mr. Gaglardi said in reply to Mr. Nimsick's concern about liability.

"The minister can't dodge it that way," said Arthur Turner (CCF-Vancouver East). "It (an accident) only has to occur once and you'll be in trouble."

CCF members clamied that the government could be sued for "hundreds of thousands of dollars" as the result of an accident, and suggested that passengers be required to sign waivers releasing it from liability.

TRAFFIC FINES

In Esquimalt court Monday:

Wilfred A. Dieter, Work Point Barracks, $250 and licence suspension for impaired driving resulting in collision with a pole and $550 total damage.

Maxin Dick, RCN, $50 on two charges of driving without a driver's licence, $10 for failing to give name and address on request, $15 for being in possession of a driver's licence belonging to another person, $2.50 for overtime parking, $50 for consuming liquor in his car.

Jaswant S. Dodd, Langford, $250 for impaired driving; remanded to March 25 for consideration of probation report on the matter of licence suspension.

HISTORIC CITY

Frankfurt in West Germany is mentioned as a town in records as early as AD. 793.

BOWERY PHILOSOPHY—Ray Salyer, 42, one of three Bowery alcoholics who were central figures in a documentary movie "On the Bowery," has turned down a $40,000 movie contract. A jug of wine, a can of soup and his own intropections are paradise enough for him, says Salyer. "I don't want the $40,000," he said. "I don't want to come back. I just want the Bowery and to be left alone." The other two figures in the documentary have since died of drink. (AP Wirephoto).

Formal Education Thwarting Trade Training for Indians

A provincial education department official suggested before a legislature committee Monday that the formal education program for B.C. native Indians may be "scaring" them away from vocational training courses.

Jack White, director of vocational training, said formal education is "not too meaningful" for Indians.

Increased effort should be made to integrate them into the regular schools of the province.

NOT PEOPLE APART

"They should not be considered a people apart," Mr. White told the legislature labor committee.

Indian youths should be admitted to vocational training schools without grade 10 education if they are found to have the right attitude and abilities, he said.

The department is not satisfied with the number of Indian youths and girls applying for vocational courses, Mr. White said. Indian agents should make a greater attempt to make them aware of the courses and financial help available to them.

League-Trailers In Series Lead

Courtenay Glaciers dropped the first game of a best-of-three final for the Suburban Hockey League championship to hind-running Nanaimo-Ladysmith Combines, 5-4, Sunday night at Nanaimo.

Combines, last place finishers in the four-team loop, came from behind four times before Stu Johnson notched the winner at 3.57 of the overtime period while his team was playing a man short.

He beat Glacier goalie, Roy Frazier after stick handling the puck through the Courtenay defence.

Denny Plansky scored twice for Combines while Mel Gordeau got a goal and an assist and Earl Robinson gained two assists.

Provincial Jurisdiction Urged for Indian Affairs

Social Credit MLA Cyril Shelford said Monday night Indian affairs should be under provincial, not federal, jurisdiction.

"They're too far away in Ottawa," the outspoken Omineca member told the legislature. "They don't give a hang. And besides, they know the Indian doesn't have a vote."

Mr. Shelford was angered by reports of extreme poverty among the Sekani band of the Rocky Mountain Trench area and said similar conditions could be found in other areas of the province.

"There are lots of things wrong," he said, "and it's time we stood up and faced them."

SPEND MORE

He urged both the federal and provincial governments to spend more money on the welfare of B.C. Indians.

Mr. Shelford criticized the federal government for giving a $3 daily allowance to Hungarian immigrants, while granting Indians only $13 a month.

"We can't be very proud of ourselves," the member said.

Mr. Shelford urged that Indians be given the vote and equal liquor rights.

There would be less drunkenness among Indians if they were allowed to consume liquor in their own homes, he said.

DANGER TO WAY OF LIFE

Steel Executive Hits At Current Taxation

TORONTO (CP)—Current levels of taxation constitute "a very great danger" to continuance of the Canadian way of life, Stuart Armour, economic adviser to the president of the Steel Company of Canada, said Monday night in an address to the Toronto Board of Trade Club.

There is, said Mr. Armour, "far too much weakness, lethargy and ignorance with respect to taxation, even on the part of businessmen and other members of society who should know better.

"Every time we ask the state to do something for us which we can and should do ourselves—or ask the state for something which we can do without—we are inevitably surrendering to the state a little more of our hard-bought personal freedom. We are also making inevitable a higher level of taxes.

"What we badly need in Canada is agitation against taxes as violent as that which now is causing United States politicians to stop, look and listen . . .

"Marx and Engels, the parents of communism, called for the elimination of capitalism which they said could be effected by means of high taxation alone. Are we in Canada out to prove them right?"

Winnipeg Man Heads Glass Firm

H. R. Hawkins, formerly of Winnipeg, has been appointed manager of Canadian Pittsburgh Industries Ltd., 977 Fort, succeeding J. A. Finlayson, who has been moved to Vancouver.

Mr. Hawkins was with the company 10 years in Winnipeg before transfer here March 1.

Canadian Pittsburgh manufactures and distributes glass and paint throughout the country.

Glorious 12th Grand National Odds Favorite

LONDON (AP)—The three top favorites for the 11th running of the Grand National steeplechase held their positions and odds Monday night in a callover of prices at the Victoria club.

Much Obliged and Sundew held firm at 100-8 and were joined by Hart Royal who shortened slightly from 100-7.

E.S.B., the 1956 winner, was bracketed with Goosander at 100-6.

Other odds were: Kay Royal and Tutto 18-1, Sydney Jones 20-1, Gentle Moya 22-1, Felias and Rendez Vous 3rd 28-1, Armorial 3rd, Royal Tan, Red Menace, Rondina, Sandy Jane 2nd, Wyndburgh and Sam Brownthorne, all 33-1; Carye's Cottage and Athenian 40-1, Eagle Lodge 50-1.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles
Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids
Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.
In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.
Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.
And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!
In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.
All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.
This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H*. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Union Paid for Racing Rackets Probe Charges

Brewster Promises To Check Records

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa, Teamster Union bigwig, and Hyman I. Fischbach, a lawyer, were indicted today on charges of conspiring to plant a spy within the Senate committee investigating labor union racketeering.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets investigating committee today received documentary evidence it said showed teamsters union funds were used to pay expenses of Frank Brewster's race horse jockey, trainer, horse vans and a union organizer who exercised Brewster's horses.

Brewster, west coast teamsters' boss, neither confirmed nor denied the payments. He said he couldn't recall such payments from union funds but promised "I will check into them."

CAN'T RECALL

Frank W. Brewster, west coast Teamsters' boss, today told a U.S. Senate committee probing union racketeering, that he "can't remember" whether the son of his race horse trainer travelled by air at the union's expense or whether his jockey's expenses were paid out of such funds. Probe now is in fourth week. (AP wirephoto.)

Union Paid for Lodgings

Kennedy said that among other things they disclosed union funds were spent for lodgings for Brewster's jockey, Richard Cavallero; his trainer, Mel Eisen, and a union organizer named Terry McNulty.

This came from records of a motel Kennedy said was two miles from Tanforan race track and four miles from Bay Meadows track.

Brewster said while McNulty was paid as a union organizer, he wasn't working on union time when he exercised Brewster's horses during dawn hours.

Kennedy asked why the union paid for McNulty's expenses while staying at a motel so close to the tracks.

"Well, it was close to a big highway, where he could check up on trucks, see if they were organized," Brewster said, adding: "It's a natural place for an organizer to stay in rather than in the heart of a city."

Some of the union people, Brewster added, had to check about labor conditions of gate men, parking lot employees and others around the tracks.

TWO AIR TRIPS

Among other documents Kennedy produced were two he said indicated that Bobby Eisen, identified by Brewster as the son of his former horse trainer, made two air trips, one costing $46.09 and the other $55.22, at union expense.

Brewster's comment was "I can't remember." He has more or less conceded that he has got his personal funds and teamsters' funds mixed up.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem., Ark.) told Brewster the inquiry had been handicapped by the destruction of union records he had sought to subpoena, making it necessary to go to bank records and other sources for information.

"It raises some very strong suspicions as to what the records would show if we had them," McClellan said. "Would you agree to that?"

"It isn't good," Brewster replied.

The testimony marked the start of the fourth week and 13th day of public hearings by the committee.

In advance of the session, Kennedy told reporters the questioning of Brewster might have a "vital" bearing on a later inquiry involving Dave Beck, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Beck said in a television interview Sunday that he had borrowed $300,000 to $400,000 of union funds some years ago without interest, and paid back "every cent" of it.

Kennedy said he plans to check income tax returns of both Beck and Brewster.

ONTARIO TO PROSECUTE SUNDAY NEWSPAPERS

TORONTO (CP) — Attorney-General Kelso Roberts of Ontario announced today he is launching a prosecution against the Toronto Telegram under the Lord's Day Act for publication of a Sunday newspaper last Sunday.

Mr. Roberts also told the Ontario Legislature he is consenting to prosecutions against Toronto's two other daily newspapers—the morning Globe and Mail and the evening Star—as well as the CBC and radio station CKEY.

UNEF Can Stay In Gaza---Egypt

Ben-Gurion Warns Israel Will Fight If Denied Gulf of Aqaba Shipping

(UP and AP Dispatches)

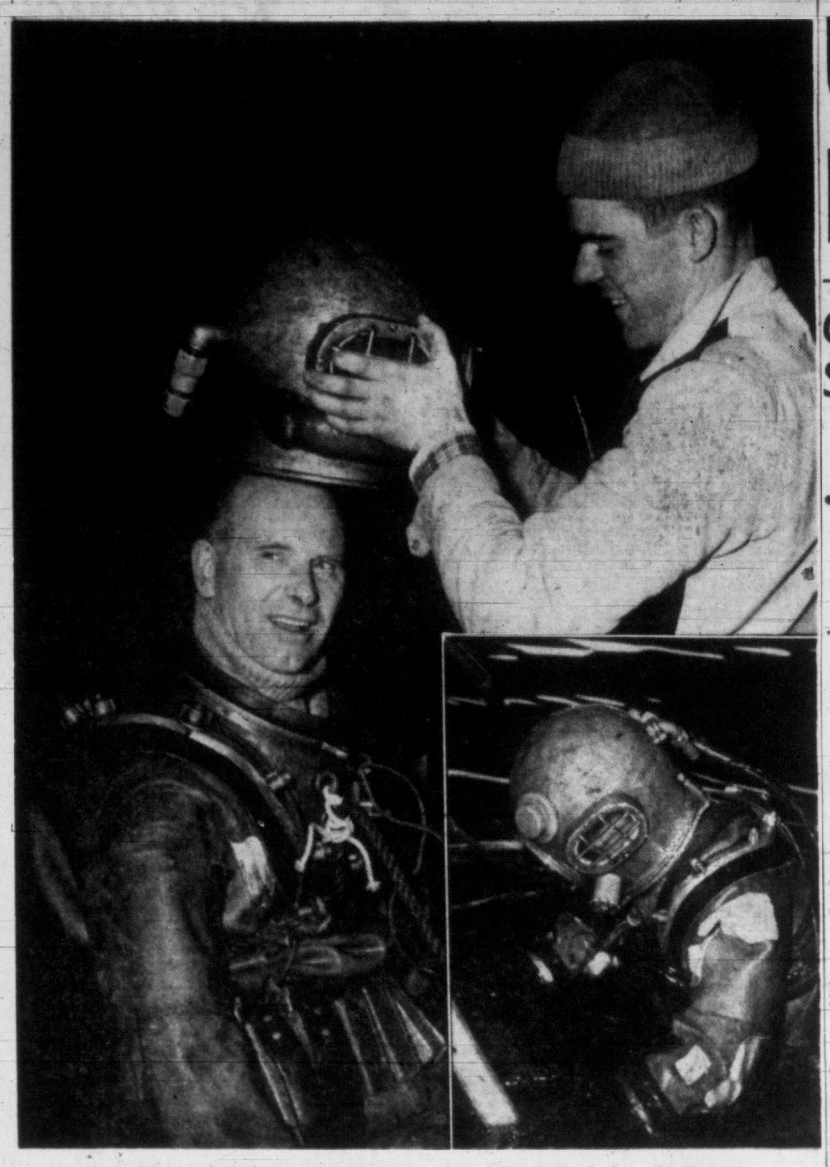
Egypt has assured the United States that it has no present plans to send troops into the Gaza Strip, along whose borders Israeli sources reported new minor violence today.

Cairo dispatches also reported that Egypt has assured the United Nations it has no intention of pushing the UN Emergency Force out of the disputed strip.

At the same time, Cairo has outlined its views on future Egyptian operation of the Suez Canal, now open to ships up to 1,000 tons, in a memorandum handed to representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union, India and the UN.

The three moves eased the tension in the Mid-East, where officials feared the minor Gaza border incidents might mushroom into major trouble.

In New York today Premier David Ben-Gurion was quoted in an interview as saying that if President Nasser denies Israel passage into the Gulf of Aqaba his country will go to war. Newsweek magazine's Tel Aviv correspondent quoted Ben-Gurion as saying: "If Nasser tries to block the Gulf of Aqaba, we will meet him not at the peace table, but elsewhere with our armies."



CITY ENGINEER TAKES A DIVE

2 RCN Ships Limp Into Halifax; Collided While Seeking Lost Plane

HALIFAX (BUP) — Two Royal Canadian Navy ships limped into Halifax harbor today after colliding while searching for a missing Avenger aircraft.

The 1,300-ton coastal escort vessel Portage was the first to make port, arriving shortly after noon under her own steam. The 2,360-ton frigate Lauzon followed 30 minutes later under tow from the tug St. John.

The collision took place early today about 50 miles southeast of Halifax. The ships were two of seven called out Monday night to help in the search.

Reports from the scene indicated that the Portage, the smaller of the two ships, rammed the Lauzon in the side. No one was seriously injured in the collision though an able seaman on the Lauzon suffered a bruised hand. Weather conditions at the time were favorable, with visibility good, the wind light and the sea calm.

A preliminary inspection of both ships was carried out this afternoon at HMCS dockyard in Halifax. A naval spokesman said the Portage received severe damage to her stem while her forepeak was broken open and several compartments flooded. The Lauzon was holed on her starboard side about one-third of the way from her stern with a number of compartments aft flooded.

The skipper of the Lauzon is Lieut.-Cmdr. James C. Carter of Montreal and the commander of the Portage is Lieut.-Cmdr. Kenneth R. Crombie of West Vancouver.

The LESTER PATRICK Story

(After more than half a century connected with ice hockey, both in Canada and the U.S., Victoria's Lester Patrick has decided to make a permanent retirement from the game. In a 10-part series, Archie Wills, former sports editor and former managing editor of the Times, tells the human story of Lester through the days of his greatest fame until the present. This is the third installment.

By ARCHIE WILLS

(Copyright, 1957, By The Victoria Daily Times)

SECRET AMBITION

Lester got his first taste of real hockey competition when he was 18 and Canada and himself had embarked on a new century, the 20th, which was to be, according to some prognosticators, Canada's Century. It also turned out to be a very eventful one for young Patrick.

The Montreal Juniors had won their league title and had qualified to meet the Ottawa champions for national laurels.

They were to meet in Ottawa and the home team had been established 3-to-1 favorites.

Archie Wills

Lester had settled into his favorite position, rover, which was the key spot in seven-man hockey. The rover was both a defence man and a forward and was a playmaker. Even at this early age, when Lester was still a tall, skinny kid, he was a good skater, an excellent stickhandler and could lay a pass on his forwards' sticks without either having to take a second look. Never packing a board-rattling shot, Lester was the master of the feint and once inside the defence, he was deadly.

"I never wasted a shot; it was always dead on," says Lester, when he thinks how many shots are wasted these days.

It was at this time that he let his father in on the secret which he had nursed for several years.

He was making good progress both in hockey and in business, having been promoted to manager of one of his father's five wood and coal offices.

But, he still wanted to be something else.

A cowboy!

When Father Patrick was advised of the secret, he inwardly revelled in his son's ambition and said:

Pt. Ellice Span Closes June 17 For 3 Months

Point Ellice Bridge will be closed June 17 when demolition work starts to make way for a new $500,000 span.

The closure will be for at least three months during which time traffic will be diverted over Johnson Street Bridge.

City engineer James Garnett today made a first-hand underwater inspection of the piers under Johnson Street Bridge to make sure it will be strong enough to bear the extra traffic.

Mr. Garnett, who descended to a depth of 18 feet to examine the Johnson Street Bridge piers said he discovered a few small cavities but nothing serious had come to his attention.

He will dive again to examine the piers more fully. He said he did not know whether repairs would be made to the few erosions noted.

REPAIRS CHEAP

While the damage below waterline is not considered serious, repairs could be effected cheaply while the underwater cement specialist firm of Intrusion Prepakt Ltd. is working here.

Steel for the bridge is being prefabricated at present by Dominion Bridge Ltd. in Vancouver, the firm holding the construction contract. Latest estimate of cost for the span is $560,089, reduced by about $170,000 in federal grants and CNR assistance.

First work on the new Point Ellice span will be construction of two small piers on the west end of the existing span.

One-Way Street Opponents Start Special Survey

A group of Douglas Street merchants will make an independent door-to-door survey today to determine whether property owners on the city's main street oppose or support the Faustman one-way street plan.

The action means city council Wednesday will be faced with two surveys, the other undertaken by public works officials for works chairman Ald. M. H. Mooney.

The new survey will be conducted on Douglas Street only while Ald. Mooney's survey will take in Government Street property-owners.

Question being asked by the merchants is: "Do you favor at this time the making of any part of Douglas Street a one-way street for north-bound traffic, anywhere south of the round-about?"

Firms sponsoring the survey are Eddy's Ltd., Hudson's Bay Company, Victoria City Motels Ltd., Paul's Drive-In, Angus Marine and Stewart-Warner. All oppose the one-way plan.

Dr. Adams Jaunty as Defence Hammers at Key Crown Witness

LONDON (Reuters)—A key Crown witness in the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams swayed and nearly fainted today under 2½ hours of relentless cross-examination.

Helen Stronach was one of the four nurses employed by wealthy widow, Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, whom Adams is accused of murdering. She testified in the second day of the trial at Old Bailey, London's central criminal court.

Defence counsel Geoffrey Lawrence went through the nurses' records of the case entry by entry. Twice he accused Miss Stronach's memory of "playing tricks" and persuaded her to change some of her testimony.

Lawrence questioned her entry on Nov. 2, 1950—11 days before the elderly widow's death—saying Mrs. Morrell was "semi-conscious and rambling." He made Miss Stronach read from her own notes what the widow had eaten for lunch that day.

There was a stir in the court as she read out: "Partridge, celery, pudding and brandy and soda."

"Having looked at these notes, it is quite clear it was wrong to say she was semi-conscious and rambling," Lawrence said.

Miss Stronach replied: "Apparently so."

The defence also gained her admission that there was not a single entry showing she gave any morphine to the patient. He challenged as "quite inaccurate" the statement that Mrs. Morrell was "doped and half asleep" when the 58-year-old doctor paid night visits.

TCA Grounds Viscount Planes

MONTREAL (BUP) — Trans-Canada Airlines today grounded most of its Viscount turbo-prop airplanes for the second time in order to replace the bolts in the flap mechanism, president Gordon McGregor disclosed.

The move followed "further consultations" with the manufacturers, Vickers - Armstrong Ltd., who suggested the complete change as an "ultra-ultra safety measure."

The change was the result of the pioneer model's first fatal crash in England last Thursday, in which 22 persons were killed.

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Thou, my Lord, silent before Thy traducers like a sheep that is dumb before its shearer, I would learn of Thee. Let my honest and open life still the wagging tongue. Help me extract from every knock a boost and to rejoice in my critics as the unpaid guardians of my soul; in Christ's name. Amen.

PM to Discuss Queen's Visit

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister St. Laurent said today he will discuss with Prime Minister Macmillan of Britain at their Bermuda meeting prospects of a visit by the Queen to Canada.

He gave this information in the Commons as he outlined subjects which he and Mr. Macmillan plan to talk over at their conference March 25 and 26.

Police Rule Out Foul Play Theory

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Detective Inspector James Blackadder says there is no suspicion of foul play in the death of Reeve William A. MacEwen of nearby Maxville, Ont., whose body was found in his car in the Cornwall canal Monday night.

Mr. MacEwen disappeared Jan. 23 and there was a theory he had been kidnapped or slain.

GREGORY DEMANDS DISMISSAL OF BOARD

Binding Specialists' Rulings Asked on Compensation Appeals

George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria) introduced a bill to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act in the legislature Monday night.

The bill, tabled without notice, would amend a section of the act dealing with appeals and would force the board to follow recommendations of specialists called in on appeals.

He stated that in several appeal cases recently the specialist's opinion had been disregarded and the original board ruling upheld.

Earlier, he demanded replacement of the entire Workmen's Compensation Board, stating:

"This board has had its chance . . . we need a new one."

He referred particularly to the board's handling of the case of Jack Zucco, 45-year-old B.C.

NORMAN CRIBBENS

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Educated Cows Moo-ooted!

Rev. P. A. Gaglardi, British Columbia's perky highways minister, has no intention of being saddled with the responsibility for horses and cattle wandering over his highways.

He made this clear Monday when Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) suggested Mr. Gaglardi's department should "do something" about horses and cattle roaming at will and causing danger to traffic.

Mr. Gaglardi looked righteously indignant as he rose to his feet.

'Surely," he said, with a half-imploring look around the House, "this department has enough trouble building highways and mending potholes without running after stray animals."

Then, his face lighting up with inspiration, he added:

"Why not turn them over to the education department"

Mr. Speaker Irwin Mixes His Governors

Speaker Tom Irwin dropped a brick at Monday's night sitting when he said:

"I have the honor to present a message from His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor F. M. Wallace . . ."

"Who is Mr. Wallace?" asked Robert Strachan, chief of the CCF clan.

Mr. Speaker hastily amended his statement. He had juggled the names and initials of the present governor, Hon. F. M. Ross, and the former governor, Hon. Clarence Wallace.

The 14 uniformed page boys who run messages in the legislature were entertained to lunch in the parliamentary restaurant Monday by the Speaker.

All are pupils at St. Louis College, Victoria, which allowed the boys to take this work after Greater Victoria school board refused to release boys from public schools, as was done prior to 1954.

Rev. Brother G. P. Lyons retains control of the boys while they are working in the legislature and Mr. Irwin says this system works well.

"The boys we have now do the job better than those we had before. They are smart, efficient and well-behaved. Mr. Lyons watches them so closely that two were actually suspended earlier in the session because they did not live up to the standard."

The boys were given souvenir menu cards of the luncheon (at which they ate steak) and later they collected autographs from members of the House.

"It was a swell lunch," one of them said.

Two immigrants from Britain, here just four days, were in the public gallery following the proceedings with close interest.

"We want to learn all we can about British Columbia and we thought we should start with the government," said breezy, good-looking Herbert Ford, who with his young wife, Mary, flew to Victoria from Kendal, Westmorland, last week.

Merchants Hire Traffic Expert To Study New 1-Way Street Plan

City council will continue debate on redevelopment of the Fountain Circle when it meets Wednesday.

Results of a survey of property holders on Douglas and Government on the one-way street question will be considered.

Ald. M. H. Mooney told council Monday that so far 85 per cent of those queried are in favor of the one-way street plan submitted by traffic expert J. D. Faustman.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, speaking for Douglas Street merchants opposing one-way streets, says no decision should be reached until a further report is obtained from Mr. Faustman.

Mayor Scurrah told council he had been informed the Hudson's Bay Company has hired the California engineer to bring in an alternative to the one-way plan.

ONE OF SIX

(Actually, HBC officials explained today, the firm is only one of a committee of six merchants affected who have arranged the survey.)

Mayor Scurrah said HBC plans to erect a two-storey parking garage on the site of the frozen food plant now east of the store parking lot.

"It will not go in if the one-way streets go in," the mayor said.

After a lengthy traffic study, engineer Faustman recommended lats year that the Hillside-Douglas-Gorge-Government intersection be rebuilt with two traffic islands. Traffic flow would be north on Douglas from Herald to Hillside and south on Government over the same distance.

Mayor Scurrah started argument Monday by asking the whole matter be tabled until the HBC alternative plan study was completed by Mr. Faustman.

Ald. Don Smith opposed any delay.

"If we yield to government by pressure groups it's wrong," he said.

He called for a six-month trial of the one-way street plan. He thought council should have "courage" to make its own decisions.

"It isn't a question of courage. I am personally not sold on one-way streets at this time," said the mayor.

Later, when Ald. Mooney revealed a survey of homes and businesses on Douglas between Hillside and Princess supported the one-way plan, the mayor added:

"That is a different story. It may change my thinking. I want to do what is best."

He suggested tabling the issue to Wednesday, when another council meeting on school costs is slated.

As a committee-of-the-whole, council approved in principle the Faustman recommendation that Superior Street be extended across Beacon Hill Park to take civil servant traffic off the main downtown streets.

NEW LIGHTS

Also approved was the suggestion that traffic lights be installed at Bay and Blanshard, Quadra, Cook and Fernwood and at Hillside at Cook and Blanshard.

The question of business suffering through traffic regulations came up again when council debated a recommendation that parking be abolished along Government Street nightly between 4 and 6 o'clock.

This would permit four lanes of north-south traffic.

"We should move cautiously. We are not out to do damage to the downtown merchants. We must go slowly as far as drastic moves (are concerned)," said Ald. Edgelow.

Chief John Blackstock gained council approval on a compromise suggestion that parking be restricted for the rush hours on the east side of Government only. This would permit two lanes north and one lane south.

THIEF 'SHOT' HIS VICTIMS TO SLEEP

TURIN, Italy (UP) — A self-styled Don Juan confessed today he used a water pistol loaded with chloroform to put his girl friends to sleep while he robbed them.

Cristoforo Leumia, 35, told police he invited girls in night-clubs for drives, "shot" them with the pistol and then abandoned them on park benches after taking their valuables.

'Snaky, Sinuous and Big,' Caddy Returns for Summer?

Three persons believe they saw Victoria's most elusive sea creature, "Caddy," surface in the water off Dallas Road and Menzies on Sunday.

Mrs. Joan Sledlecka, her husband, Zbigniew, and their eight-year-old daughter, Josephine, said they were looking out to sea when they saw three large humps in the water. The time was 5.45 in the afternoon.

Mrs. Sledlecka said it was something "snaky, sinuous and big" in appearance.

She discounted the suggestion that she may have seen dolphins.

"I think we probably saw Caddy," she said.

. . . PATRICK

"Alright, my boy, get yourself a 60-day return ticket to the west and see how you like it."

Father Patrick wanted his son to get the experience but, he knew the wages would be $25 a month, with work from sunrise to sunset, and he expected that Lester would be fed up with that and willing to come home within the 60 days.

Lester got fed up with the work very quickly but he met Col. J. S. Denis, superintendent of irrigation for the CPR in Calgary, and switched over to a job as a rod and chain man, at $45 a month, and all found. There was an eight-hour day and you didn't work when it rained but were paid for it just the same.

When the Fall was waning Lester looked over the open-air rinks in Calgary and read an advertisement in the papers for hockey players to sign up with Brandon.

Inquiry revealed that Brandon had signed players for all positions but "point." In that day the defence was staggered similar to that in lacrosse. In front of the goalie was the "point," in front of him "cover" and ahead of him "rover."

Lester wired his father for permission to stay the winter in Brandon and see how he could make out in senior company. He had seen enough of the life of cowboys while in the Calgary area to side-track his secret boyhood ambition and now had his mind centred on being a hockey player.

A REVOLUTION

The opening game in Brandon was notable for a revolution. Lester's name was to be forever associated with the changing of defensive tactics in hockey and to be the forerunner of the many innovations which his fertile and strategic brain would produce.

Games at that time were divided into halves of 30 minutes each.

The first half was well under way and the defence men were toddling along at their general tactics of stopping the forwards. The defence men never moved out of their end. Once they had recovered the puck they pushed it ahead to the forwards and let them carry the attack.

Lester was impatient and his mental processes were stimulated when two opposing forwards closed in on him at his position at "point." He took the puck from them and, before the fans and other players realized what was happening, Lester was stickhandling his way down the ice and went in on goal for a shot.

For the necessary dramatic effect we can't say that Lester's first mission resulted in a goal, but the shot was dead on and the goalie was startled.

In the intermission the players were badgering Lester about his foolish tactics. Then spoke up Charles McWhirter, president of the Brandon Hockey Club:

"Why, can't I rush?" replied Lester. "I can't see why I can't try to do some damage before they come back at us. They didn't score against us when I was rushing. Why can't I still try?"

"That makes sense to me," said McWhirter.

Make sense it did. Before the game finished Lester had scored two goals and from that game on defence men had to be able to rush and carry the puck as well as bounce the attackers into the stands.

Brandon won the Manitoba championship and the team went east to meet the celebrated Silver Seven for the Stanley Cup, the first time Lester was to appear in that celebrated contest. In the two-game series Brandon lost but Lester was now firmly established as a star in the national winter sport.

miner, said to be wholly disabled from silicosis.

He said the board had disregarded a petition of right filed by Mr. Zucco in which he claimed a silicosis pension.

"His case has been crystalized under the Workmen's Compensation Act, yet nothing has been done about it. The obvious duty of the cabinet is to endorse this petition with those famous words 'let right be done.' "

REFEREES

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks replied that a special board of referees for silicosis cases has been set up by the WCB on the recommendation of a Toronto specialist who was called in by the government last year.

The board will be headed by a professor of the University of B.C. faculty of medicine and two other physicians.

Mr. Wicks read a letter from WCB chairman J. Edwin Eades stating that the Zucco case will be given "immediate" attention by the board of referees.

CCF Leader Robert Strachan noted that there had been during the present session "concerted protests from both sides of the House that the Workmen's Compensation Board change its approach and methods."

"In too many cases in the last few years the board has been leaning over backwards to protect itself and its funds," Mr. Strachan said.

Wrong Way on a Fluid Escalator

EXCEPT for a couple of trollers in a big cabin cruiser sturdy enough for the trip to Prince Rupert, fishermen of this community left me in splendid isolation on the other side of Trial Sunday.

I was trying out a small outboard. Outboards mystify me, fill me with delight when they're running and, because of inexperience with them, leave a lurking fear in me that at any minute they're going to konk out.

Stott

I'm not what you call the mechanical type. Whenever my car has stopped through no wish of my own, and when the engine won't respond to the starter button, I get out, lift up the hood and peer inside. That's sheer bluff. After I've peered, I slam down the lid and walk to the nearest phone to call the service station.

So when an outboard and I share the same boat alone, we treat each other with mutual distrust. You can almost feel a Gaza strip psychology in operation. The engine doesn't know what I'm going to do to it. I don't know what it's going to do to me, but, again through inexperience, I expect the worst.

THOSE EGG-BEATERS

I've been handling rowboats for the last 35 years or so. When I started and when Evinrudes were young, the water rats of Foul Bay used to join me in a wholesome scorn for these egg-beaters. If some dude screwed one to the back of his boat we had a ribald yell to send his way. "Are you taking your Evinrude for a row, Mister?" we used to ask and then we'd laugh until we fell down. Subtle humor, we had, in those days. But we were almost invariably right.

The dude would start his putter with several turns of clothes line around its flywheel and interminable jerking of the line. Eventually he'd roar away, get a mile or two beyond the kelp line, splutter out and row home.

We knew what we were talking about.

Well, there have been a lot of improvements in outboards since that time. All but the submerged tenth use them to fish off Trial in season. Even I am beginning to believe there here to stay. And since I don't want to be one of the submerged tenth all my life, I'm thinking of getting one. Hence the test run off the island on Sunday.

Actually the small engine treated me better than I deserved. For a couple of hours I cruised nicely up and down in slack water behind Trial, with never a grilse to bother me, and the machine died only when I cut the mixture too lean.

I waited until the tide was racing past the head of the island to see if there was enough power in the outboard to work against it. When the tide's really running there, you feel you're on an escalator going the wrong way. You have to move like mad to stay in the same place.

That's what the small engine and I did.

HIGHEST RESPECT

They say familiarity breeds contempt. It's a good phrase, but I doubt very much if familiarity with the tip of Trial will ever make me contemptuous. Too many of my acquaintances have been caught in the race and wound up at San Juan Island without a visa.

When the wash from the CPR boats hits the tide there, you can find yourself in waves that are short, high, curling and coming from all directions. Even when the water's as smooth as glass, it can bubble up in small whirls that leave an oar or a propeller pushing against nothing at all for a fraction of a second. Once the flow set in, the unwary can find the island slipping past them like a four-minute-miler.

If you know anything about the water there, you respect it. When the tide's running, it can be as slick as Mata Hari and twice as treacherous.

I think more people ought to know about that. Ever since I can remember, someone has come to grief, even if it's not serious, out there almost every fishing season.

Now, with more and more folk buying themselves fancy little boats and engines that are ideal for lakes, I expect more and more will be trying them out off Trial and in other dangerous waters. They shouldn't.

Leave it to the not-so-bright people like me who are familiar with the water and know they're taking calculated risks out there. We'll get into trouble occasionally, too. But it's our own fault. We should know better.

And for those who are as inept with engines as I am, there's another small point to remember. If the thing konks out, you can't just roll it to the curb and walk home. There aren't any curbs. Walking's difficult.

HOME GARDEN By JACK BEASTALL

Here's How to Grow Those Prize Onions

As the outdoor gardening season opens, the usual requests are received for the culture of those large onions which take first prize in the fall shows.

Jack Beastall

This is a little late to begin. The recommended sowing time is December, but with our dull weather at that time we are usually as far ahead with a mid-January sowing.

The seed requires 60 degrees for germination, reduced to 55 degrees immediately after. While Ailsa Craig is usually the prize taker, the name Ailsa Craig on a seed packet is no guarantee of large bulbs.

Selected seed of a good strain, collected from large bulbs of good shape and color, is the kind needed for the blue ribbon. Several catalogues list such a strain, or one can grow and select one's own for a few years.

The young seedlings look like hairpins, their tips in the soil and the round leaves forming a loop. During this stage they are pricked off, or transplanted, from the seed box.

Two things are essential to success. A long growing period and no check in growth at any time. For this reason, the veteran exhibitor pricks off into pots or wood veneer plant bands so that no root disturbance results from transferrence to the garden.

Growth must be kept steady and hard, which means sufficient heat to maintain growth, but cool enough to prevent spindling and withstand the move to outdoor conditions.

There should be no hurry in planting out because wind can damage the leaves and cause a growth check. Hold the plants until weather conditions are fairly settled and temperatures, especially at night, conducive to continued growth.

Sekanis Never Were Much, Says Judge

(From CP Dispatches)

PRINCE GEORGE—A county court judge said Monday the Sekani Indians "never did amount to much."

Cariboo Judge Castillou, a noted anthropologist, was commenting on recent newspaper reports that the Sekanis live in filth and poverty. As a results of the reports, donations were trucked here from Vancouver and flown to the Sekanis at Fort Grahame, 500 miles north of Vancouver.

"They were a nomadic tribe who never had a home, never prepared for winter, and went begging for their food," said Judge Castillou.

He said other tribes look down on the Sekani.

DIES AT WHEEL

NELSON—An inquest will be held Wednesday at Grand Forks into the death of E. G. Cooper, who died Sunday while driving the volunteer fire truck to a fire. Mr. Cooper is believed to have suffered a heart attack.

Full 6-Day Shopping Backed by Merchants

The Chamber of Commerce tourist trade and retail groups favor a six-day shopping week the year round.

The groups, at a joint meeting Monday felt this was preferable to a six-day shopping week for only July and August, as laid down by the new Municipal Act, now before the legislature.

Only one member, Hugh Francis, opposed the motion to abolish completely the five and a half day shopping week.

"It's a backward step," he stated. "The banks and many other businesses are now closing on Saturday."

Bruce Tingley, who proposed the motion, said retail stores are losing considerable tourist business because of the Wednesday closing.

He noted that tourist traffic on CPR boats from Seattle dropped on Wednesday because of the store closing.

SHOT TO DEATH

YOUR HEALTH By DR. WALTER C. ALVAREZ

Dr. Walter C. Alvarez is Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic, and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Since writing a column in which I said that in all my years of practice I have never seen a case of so-called low blood sugar (not due to cancer of the pancreas) in which an excellent university laboratory failed to report that the person had normal amounts of sugar in his or her blood, I have received a number of letters from persons who described typically neurotic symptoms or migraine headaches, or allergic symptoms or "storms" due to an erratic nervous system. In every case, someone had delighted the person by saying that his or her troubles were due to a low blood sugar.

Alvarez

But here is the remarkable thing: a sugarless diet was then prescribed. I think every layman intelligent enough to read this column will be able to see that what these people would need if they really were ill for lack of sugar would be a diet rich in sugar and carbohydrates such as starches from which sugars are derived. A diet without sugar would be the worst conceivable one that could be prescribed. And yet these people said they were helped by such treatment. To me, it just does not make sense.

The last letter I received from a woman with a supposed low blood sugar is the one that takes the prize. As one might guess, people with a real low blood sugar always get their symptoms when they are hungry, and their stocks of food (sugar) in the body are at their lowest ebb. But this lady says her trouble comes if she eats sugar. She then gets such a violent reaction that for months now she hasn't dared to touch any sweets. Evidently, her trouble must be due to some remarkable idiosyncrasy or hypersensitiveness like an allergy. Persons with a real low blood sugar, when they begin to feel woozy, can get quick relief by drinking a little syrup, and this shows that the diagnosis was correct.

DISTRESS AFTER MEALS

Many of the people with a false "low blood sugar" tell me they get their distress soon after meals, which shows that the diagnosis was wrong. Many tell me that at the lowest their blood sugar reading has been about 75 or 80 or even 100 milligrams. Such readings are so normal that no one could get symptoms from them. Several experts have told me that a person can get symptoms only after his blood sugar level has dropped below 50 mg. per 100 c.c. of blood. One of my correspondents describes weird symptoms which he says come when his blood sugar drops to 75 mg. He might as well try to convince me that he can get drunk on a thimbleful of beer!

LETTING OLD PARENTS STAY

A fine woman just writes to tell me that recently she was trying to get her purblind but spry old mother, aged 91, to leave her home and come to live with her (the daughter); but the old lady refused. She said she knew so well every turn in her house that she could get about easily, even without much sight; she didn't mind even firing a coal furnace!

The daughter felt she just couldn't leave her mother alone in this way, but then she read a column of mine in which I said that whenever possible the old folks should be allowed to do what they please, and that in some 85 per cent of cases they are happiest in their own apartment; so now she is satisfied to let her mother stay alone. Interesting is the mother's statement that for her there is too much confusion in her daughter's home. Even though her grandchildren are grown, they are often moving about and going here and there; also, they have more company than the old lady can stand.

Grandmothers tell me that when they were in their twenties, with three or four lively children shouting and screaming and fighting and running about the house, it didn't bother them. Now, when they go to their children's homes, although they adore their grandchildren, they cannot for long stand the noise they make, and the turmoil in which they live. They cannot stand the constant blaring of the radio or the TV set. Something has happened to their brains so that now quiet is needed.

Other grandmothers tell me that, much as they love their sons-in-law, it is hard for them to adjust to some of their behavior. One woman who used to be president of the local WCTU can't adjust to her son-in-law's habit of giving cocktail parties, or of taking two highballs before dinner. She can't get used to his Saturday night poker club, and she can't get used to his frequent taking of the Lord's name in vain. Some grandmothers cannot get used to their daughter's playing cards for money, and others can never accept the daughter's chain-smoking.

YOUR INCOME TAX

Some Sources Free From Bite of Tax

B. W. GORDON HOLMS

Happily for the taxpayer, some of his sources of revenue are not subject to income tax.

Such revenues as family allowances, unemployment insurance benefits, war disability pensions and workmen's compensation payments are major items.

If a taxpayer is fortunate enough to hit the jackpot in a quiz program, Ottawa does not spoil the prize.

Companies paying such annuities or pensions usually notify the person who receives them as to the amount, if any, which may be subject to tax.

Free Ambulance Service Starts In C. Saanich

SAANICHTON—Free ambulance service now is available, day or night, to all residents of Central Saanich.

Reeve H. Rupert Brown stated today that an ambulance car had been acquired by public subscription and is being fully equipped for the handling of emergency cases.

The new machine is stationed at municipal headquarters, East Saanich Road and Wallace Drive, and will be maintained and operated by the Central Saanich volunteer fire department under direction of Fire Chief Victor G. Heal.

Lack of Work Main Problem For Refugees

Main present problem for Hungarian refugees is lack of work, Hungarian relief co-ordinator for Vancouver Island, Albert de Mezey, told the Gyro Club here Monday.

Federal government policy, he said, is to bring in immigrants in proportion to work available.

"The moment a man is employed he has passed the first barrier of integration into our society."

Most of the men are eager to find employment, he said, and are accustomed to working under difficult conditions.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, MARCH 19, 1957

Harbor Gateway Branded 'Mess'

Victoria West Leader Calls for Clean-Up

The tourist's first view of Victoria is a "disgrace to the city," Charles Banfield, president of Victoria West Community Association, former alderman, and long-time resident, said today.

"The Empress Hotel and Parliament Buildings are all very well, but the first thing our visitors see are the acres of junk and dilapidated cooperage buildings on the industrial reserve," he said.

The Lime Bay-Mud Bay area is "nothing but a mess," Mr. Banfield complained.

He asked for beautification of the west shore of Victoria harbor as a project for Capital Improvement District Commission.

TO BE DISCUSSED

Mr. Banfield said the matter of approaching the CIDC, provincial-municipal committee for beautifying the capital area, will be discussed at a special meeting of the Victoria West Community Association Friday at 8 p.m.

Also due for discussion is a spring and summer program of district improvement. Volunteers will be sought to clear the beach at Banfield Park to ready it for swimming this summer.

A resolution is expected to be submitted to Victoria City Council asking fire protection be guaranteed during the three-month closing of Point Ellice Bridge for reconstruction this summer.

(Mayor Percy Scurrah said he will meet with Reeve A. C. Wurtele in the near future to work out a fire protection plan for Victoria West with Esquimalt. A recommendation by city fire chief Frank Briers for temporary stationing of a fire truck at the old Victoria West hall has been dropped due to the expense of hiring extra firemen.)

FOR CENTENNIAL

Fort Rodd Hill Project Backed By Businessmen

The Chamber of Commerce tourist trade and retail groups Monday threw their support behind a proposal for development of Fort Rodd Hill, with its two historic fortresses, as a centennial project.

Support came from a joint meeting which felt that Fort Rodd Hill was the only project, from a score or more proposals, that was in keeping with the purpose of centennial year.

"The history of Victoria has been a continual history of short-sightedness to set aside areas and property of lasting value to its citizens," said Sam Lane, chairman of the tourist group. "Let us not make another mistake and pass up this opportunity to restore something worth while."

MEETING SET

The chamber groups plan to inspect the property Thursday. Residents of Victoria are invited to take part in the tour. Meeting place is at Colwood Inn at 4.45 p.m.

Fort Rodd Hill, owned by the Department of National Defence, is situated between Belmont and Lagoon Roads, about nine miles from the city.

Mr. Lane said the site and fortresses was comparable to anything he had seen in North America.

20 MINUTES AWAY

"I've gone to New Orleans and to the West Indies to see the very things which are situated only 20 minutes from Victoria," he said. "I never knew until now we had such an attraction in our own backyard.

Hector Alexander said the forts with the surrounding beaches, woods and parkland would be a big attraction for children.

Geoff C. D'Arcy, a member of a committee for the restoration of the forts, said Fort Rodd not only represented British Columbia history but Canadian history.

Victoria Trustees Support Drive For Revision of School Financing

The Greater Victoria School Board Monday night backed the British Columba School Trustees' Association in seeking revision of the provincial school financing formula to relieve municipal taxpayers.

The board chairman, W. H. Golby, and trustee Richard Reeve, will attend a meeting, March 23, in the BCSTA Vancouver offices to outline Victoria's financing problems.

The association will ask increases in the provincial basic grant schedule.

"At present our hands are tied," trustee Kenneth Leeming said.

The formula states municipalities must provide a portion of school operational costs equal to 10 mills on the budget. At the same time the government will not pay for unauthorized expenditures, one of the largest of which is salary expenditures, above a rigid schedule.

A senior schools official said the formula should be amended so that urban areas should only have to pay a sum equal to 7 mills, as is required in rural areas, and the approved salary grant scale should be greatly increased.

The board will meet with the city council and probably some other Greater Victoria council representatives on Wednesday to study the new $5,153,161 local schools budget. It has increased over $500,000 from 1956, mostly due to wage increases which must be met wholly by the municipalities.

A letter from the trustees' association stated, "'The executive has not been able to meet with . . . the minister of education to discuss the matter due to the inability of the minister to see his way clear for such a meeting".

TOO LATE

It was pointed out it is too late to expect relief from this session of the legislature but a study of the Public Schools Act is under way and it is important to make representations at an early date.

The Union of British Columbia Municipalities earlier suggested all British Columbia municipalities take similar steps.

Meanwhile the city of Victoria asked the board to provide statistics on the number of Victoria children attending schools in outside municipalities and the number of outside children attending Victoria schools.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow told the council earlier he had asked for these figures and they had not been delivered. He maintains Victoria ratepayers are paying more than their share of district school costs for new construction.

"This is the first opportunity we've had to meet and consider (the request)," said trustee Richard Reeve. He moved the information be supplied.

Chairman Golby said:

"The board is on sound ground when it recognizes no municipal boundaries. We have no purpose in withholding this information or conversely in giving it out to all kinds of people who want to jump on a barrel and make statements."

It was stated that the board would have to conduct a census to gather the information requested.

"'Since we are not concerned with municipal boundaries we do not keep records of children crossing municipal boundaries."

'FIRST BREATH OF SPRING DAY' FRIDAY FOR SIDNEY, ANACORTES

Sidney and Anacortes Chambers of Commerce have designated Friday as "First Breath of Spring Day," to mark the opening of the ferry service between the two communities.

First ferry to arrive in Sidney from Anacortes will be greeted by Chamber of Commerce members and their wives, with a souvenir gift and a daffodil boutonniere for each passenger.

On the ferry will be a delegation from the Anacortes chamber, accompanied by a school band which will play the ferry into the landing slip.

The controversial issue of one-way streets is once more rearing its argumentative head in the city of Victoria . . . there is a simple solution for one-way streets . . . have lots of them, but make it optional for all citizens to decide which way is the one way. . . .

. . . come to think of it, this would still fail to take care of the citizen who prefers to drive sideways. . . .

. . . editorial in yesterday's Times winds up with: "This serious question has not been answered by the premier."

. . . I mean the advertisement for the Academy Awards contest and the line which reads:

"FIRST PRIZE—PROVINCE OF B.C."

. . . as the constituent pointed out, most of us thought this prize had already been won. . . .

. . . by Wenner-Gren. . . .

. . . but we must all admit, Mr. Wenner-Gren probably attended the most expensive luncheon in the history of this province when he was dined by the University of British Columbia. . . .

. . . say, did you know . . . that if all radio announcers who start announcements by saying "say, did you know" or "say, ladies" were laid end to end, I, for one, would be heartily in favor. . . .

Biologists Tracking Ghost Herd

Many attempts by big game hunters and scientists to discover the whereabouts of the herd have been foiled.

Only a few men have seen the white caribou — a specie which is miniature in size and known to Indians as the "ghost" animal. It is said to roam chiefly on the mountains in the interior of Graham Island which few men have explored.

The white caribou was first reported sighted in 1892.

FOUR SHOT

Then in 1906, H. A. Collison, an Anglican minister, reported seeing four of the animals which were shot by Indians. Each animal had only one antler.

He expressed the opinion the four animals were the last of the specie, the last of a great herd. But in 1920 tracks identified as caribou were seen on the Island.

An American big game hunter spent weeks trying to sight the animals after fighting his way through thick underbrush to the mountains. He failed. Other searches also have been fruitless.

Furthermore, on the arrival of the white man on the coast, no cloven-hoofed animal was known to exist on the Queen Charlottes. The deer which is now found there, was introduced to the Islands by man.

TOUGH BUT TENDER

It will be tough eating if he manages to get a slice on that plate, but there were some tender sentiments behind the special "cake" fixed up at Victoria Curling Club to mark Bill Hyde's 87th birthday today. (Times Photo by Irving Strickland.)

EDITOR SPEAKS

UN Scoffers Don't Have Alternative

The many who scoff at the United Nations fail to say what agency would have more success, Times associate editor Brian Tobin told the Kiwanis Club here today.

"Even without any permanent solution," it has in many cases provided the alternative to war, he said.

He pointed out the UN "is not a world government," but merely a gathering of nations, each one out primarily for its own interests, and it is the sum total of these interests which should determine action taken.

U.S. SENSITIVE

No nation likes to be defeated in the General Assembly, and the United States is particularly sensitive on this point, he said.

The U.S. feels that if defeated it will lose prestige and influence, so most of the big issues are thrashed out before they reach the assembly floor.

Today it is "unsettling" for the traditional governing nations of Europe to have to listen to Asia, but with the Communists endeavoring to get the Afro-Asian support, both sides in many cases modify their proposals to get that support.

UN MAY GO

There is a real danger that the Afro-Asian nations may not use their new power with restraint, he said, and if this comes about the great powers "will get out of the UN to save themselves."

He predicted that in years to come the UN may disappear, "but if it does, it can only be to make way for something even better."

Single Veterans Protest Lack Of Pension Boost

Finance Minister Harris, in his budget address in Ottawa Thursday, announced that the allowance for married men would be increased from $108 to $120 per month. The allowance for single men will remain unchanged at $60 per month.

Mr. Hamilton already has sent a telegram to Dr. F. T. Fairey, MP for Victoria, protesting the policy. He said Canadian Legion branches and other veterans' organizations here were planning to discuss the pension situation at forthcoming meetings.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Canadian Restaurant Association, Victoria branch, advised city council today its members have passed a resolution endorsing the adoption of a six-day shopping week on a year-round basis. The new Municipal Act gives council power to establish a six-day shopping week, rather than a five-and-a-half-day week for two months in the summer.

Cyril Morgan, no fixed address, was sentenced in city police court today to three months in Oakalla jail when he was convicted of taking a car without the owner's consent.

The car, property of William O. Adams, Nanaimo, was moved from its parking place in an E and N yard March 6, and located about 125 feet away. The accused was seen in and around the car.

It was Morgan's third conviction for that offence.

Trucker's Trial For Negligence Gets Under Way

Trial of Elven Warren Slater, 22-year-old truck driver, charged with criminal negligence in connection with the traffic death of Archdeacon Robert Little, opened in Assize Court before Mr. Justice J. V. Clyne today.

Archdeacon Little was killed when his small car collided with a truck driven by Slater on the old Island Highway about a quarter of a mile west of Parson's Bridge. The accident occurred on Sept. 25.

Victoria Man Acquitted On Bigamy Charge

He was acquitted after he testified he did not know at the time of his second marriage that his first wife, now living in Vancouver, was still alive.

His first wife left him in 1934, he said, and he did not hear from her or see her before his second marriage in 1952. The law protects an individual from an indictment of bigamy if after seven years he has reason to believe his wife is dead.

Joseph McKenna, QC, acted as counsel for Robinson.

'ON ICE' FOR SIXTY YEARS

By DOUG PEDEN

Bill Hyde is celebrating another birthday today, but although he is marking the occasion in surroundings he loves best—the hubbub of a curling bonspiel—there's a slightly wistful look in his eyes.

For the first time in the five-year history of the event, the name of 87-year-old W. J. Hyde is missing from the list of competitors in the Victoria Curling Club's annual men's bonspiel.

Believed to be Canada's oldest active curler, Hyde curls twice weekly in regular club draws and only missed making his fifth straight bonspiel appearance when members of his proposed rink were unable to stay together during the winter.

Hyde has watched countless rocks slide down the ice since his introduction to the roaring game at Balgonie, Sask., almost 60 years ago, and his fondness for the game has increased with the years.

Biggest change he has noted in curling has been the gradual switch from knockout tactics to the draw style of game he has always preferred as more-consistent artificial ice surfaces have replaced natural ice in most areas.

While conceding there are more good curlers in Canada now than ever before, Hyde still places Bob Dunbar and Frank Cassidy, who were tossing rocks in Winnipeg around the turn of the century, among the game's all-time greats.

Although he isn't taking an active part in this year's bonspiel, the man who launched the idea that eventually grew into the Victoria Curling Club, and who is one of three honorary life members of the club, missed little of Monday's opening-day action.

And it will take more than an 87th birthday to keep him from a seat behind the glass during the rest of the week-long bonspiel.

When Hyde arrived in Victoria, the only thing he didn't like about the city was its lack of a curling rink. He started a campaign for a rink in 1947, and when the curling club was opened four years ago, Victoria became his idea of the perfect place to live.

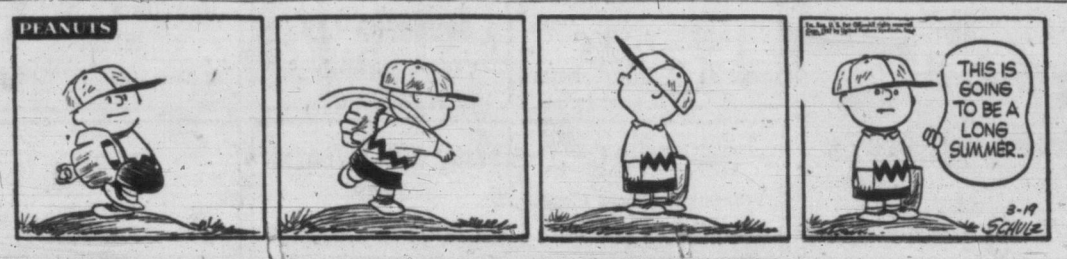
Leadership Course By Welfare Group Starts March 29

Community Welfare Council of Victoria will sponsor a leadership training course at Spencerhouse March 29, April 5 and April 12.

The course is designed to cover common problems of leadership found in all recreational organizations. It will include the ethics of leadership, the leader and the group, role-playing, aims and purpose of a group, the self-perpetuating group, and controlling discussions.

The program will be in charge of the council's recreation committee under Mrs. E. Purcell of the YWCA, Glen Hamilton of Silver Threads Service and Robert Milks, executive commissioner of the Boy Scouts here.

Registrations will be taken by Mr. Hamilton, Spencerhouse. The class will be limited to 24 persons, with meetings scheduled for 8 on the three evenings.



ASK The TIMES

Q.—Will you please tell me how many gallons of water each person in Victoria uses per day? —C. B.

A.—On a 1/1 basis of population the total consumption works out at approximately 130 gallons per capita daily. It is to be observed that the figure includes the water used for industrial purposes.

A.—13,260 feet.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along to The Times, addressed to "Ask The Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Men! Here's a Real Buy! A Dozen Handkerchiefs—$1

By PENNY SAVER

A miscellanea of items scattered throughout the city caught my eye this morning as I roamed about finding bargains and interesting buys for you. First, the men in the house will be delighted to find good-sized white cotton handkerchiefs selling at $1 a dozen. That's right! An amazing price! I've never come across a buy like this before.

Nearby, I noticed heavy knit and double-knit sweaters for fishermen or yachtsmen. Guaranteed to keep you cosy in even the briskest breeze, these sweaters come in white or navy. A close, double knit in navy has a mock turtle neckline, long sleeves and extra long line for warmth. This model is $4.95.

Another sweater in navy or white comes in a looser knit with a roll-over turtle neckline. It, too, is $4.95. In white, there is another style, similar to the two named, but with a little something added. The price of this one is $10.95. Year-round favorites, these sweaters are hand-washable.

Now, for the ladies, I've got orchids. Bebe orchids in a rich warm shade, made of soft fabric and velvet, and so realistic. A spray of six wee orchids to pin to your favorite dress or suit or hat costs just $1. Another appealing wee flower is a white carnation with petals tinged with red. The full blown flower and a dainty bud cost $1.

Large red or pink carnations are meant for evening wear, for sprinkled on them are rhinestone dew drops to catch the night's twinkling lights. These artificially-made blooms are also $1. Fifty cents more are lovely sprays of stocks in delicate pinks, blues, lilac or white. These are only a few of the gorgeous accessory flowers that have arrived in town to complement your spring and summer ensembles. Of course, very popular and available in many intriguing colors are the blown roses, synonymous with "My Fair Lady" fashions.

Rather than search the stores for the items I've mentioned here, call me at 2-3131 and I'll tell you where I shopped.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

It's Not How Old But How Happy You Are

The important thing is not how old you are but how happy you are, how much fun you are getting out of living, how well you are! I think the middle-aged woman of today is the most attractive in history. She knows about nutrition, posture, figure control, chic dress, hair-styling and make-up.

For a couple of days I am writing to the woman of 50 or thereabouts. Mid life should provide truly adventurous living. There is less pressure, and more time to branch out into new activities.

The woman of 50 who has lived with perception will be tolerant and understanding. Her interests will be broader than her hips, and she probably will have a delightful sense of humor. She should be an artist in living and in love.

Many women make the mistake of dropping the habit of exercise long before they reach the age of 50. In the hustle of rearing a family or carving out a career or both, they give up sports and do not replace them with any other form of exercises.

There is healing power in the great outdoors and also there seems to be some special magic in using our large muscle groups regularly and strenuously. We can almost always spot the middle-aged woman who has retained the habit of daily exercise. She looks more youthful, more alive and more vivacious than her inactive sister. Her tissues are firmer. She is not a problem to herself or to anyone else.

It would be dangerous to begin exercise at 40 or 50 without first having your heart and blood pressure checked. In fact a complete physical examination is best. However, many doctors feel that exercise is extremely beneficial for the older woman if she begins slowly and builds up gradually. Of course we know how wonderful it is so far as weight distribution is concerned!

If you would like to have my leaflet No. 33 "Woman of 50," or leaflet No. 32 "Menopause," send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for them to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

LOUISE DAVIS

On Etiquette

About table settings:

Please advise if it is in poor taste to combine silver and brass or gold (simulated gold) in table settings. We prefer the warmth of brass or gold but would not like to give up the silver that we now have.

Louise Davis answers:

As a rule it would be better to be consistent, using one or the other and not combining them during one "sitting," especially with silver flatware. Combinations of forks, knives and spoons, would be somewhat jarring. Each should be used to the exclusion of the others. For an attractive formal dinner table, I advise not mixing brass, copper or the gold with your flat silver. For a luncheon, a buffet or informal dinner table you have more leeway, in which case the brass, copper or gold candlesticks might be effective because they are far enough away from the silver flatware not to clash.

Louise

Try experimenting. If the combination of metals is pleasing to the eye, do it that way occasionally without apologies to yourself or to your guests.

Four Said Killed in Tacoma Blast

TACOMA, Wash. (AP)—A terrific explosion tore apart a building at a powder works southeast of here this afternoon and first reports indicated four men were killed. Windows were shattered in downtown Tacoma.

A spokesman for the Olin Mathieson Chemical Corp., which owns the plant about 18 miles from here, said the explosion occurred in a gelatin pack house about four miles from the company's office.

The victims were not immediately identified.

UNEF Can Remain In Gaza Says Egypt

(UP and AP Dispatches)

Egypt has assured the United States that it has no present plans to send troops into the Gaza Strip, along whose borders Israeli sources reported new minor violence today.

Cairo dispatches also reported that Egypt has assured the United Nations it has no intention of pushing the UN Emergency Force out of the disputed strip.

At the same time, Cairo has outlined its views on future Egyptian operation of the Suez Canal, now open to ships up to 1,000 tons, in a memorandum handed to representatives of the United States, the Soviet Union, India and the UN.

The three moves eased the tension in the Mid-East, where officials feared the minor Gaza border incidents might mushroom into major trouble.

In New York today Premier David Ben-Gurion was quoted in an interview as saying that if President Nasser denies Israel passage into the Gulf of Aqaba his country will go to war. Newsweek magazine's Tel Aviv correspondent quoted Ben-Gurion as saying: "If Nasser tries to block the Gulf of Aqaba, we will meet him not at the peace table, but elsewhere with our armies."

Pt. Ellice Span Closes June 17 For 3 Months

Engineer Testing Johnson St. Bridge

Point Ellice Bridge will be closed June 17 when demolition work starts to make way for a new $500,000 span.

The closure will be for at least three months during which time traffic will be diverted over Johnson Street Bridge.

City engineer James Garnett today made a first-hand underwater inspection of the piers under Johnson Street Bridge to make sure it will be strong enough to bear the extra traffic.

Mr. Garnett, who descended to a depth of 18 feet to examine the Johnson Street Bridge piers said he discovered a few small cavities but nothing serious had come to his attention.

He will dive again to examine the piers more fully. He said he did not know whether repairs would be made to the few erosions noted.

REPAIRS CHEAP

Steel for the bridge is being prefabricated at present by Dominion Bridge Ltd. in Vancouver, the firm holding the construction contract. Latest estimate of cost for the span is $560,089, reduced by about $170,000 in federal grants and CNR assistance.

First work on the new Point Ellice span will be construction of two small piers on the west end of the existing span.

Police Rule Out Foul Play Theory

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP)—Detective Inspector James Blackadder says there is no suspicion of foul play in the death of Reeve William A. MacEwen of nearby Maxville, Ont., whose body was found in his car in the Cornwall canal Monday night.

Mr. MacEwen disappeared Jan. 23 and there was a theory he had been kidnapped or slain.

CITY ENGINEER TAKES A DIVE

One-Way Street Opponents Start Special Survey

A group of Douglas Street merchants will make an independent door-to-door survey today to determine whether property owners on the city's main street oppose or support the Faustman one-way street plan.

The action means city council Wednesday will be faced with two surveys, the other un-

RACKETS PROBE CHARGES

Union Men Paid Racing Expenses

WASHINGTON (AP)—James R. Hoffa, Teamster Union bigwig, and Hyman I. Fischbach, a lawyer, were indicted today on charges of conspiring to plant a spy within the Senate committee investigating labor union racketeering.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate rackets investigating committee today received documentary evidence it said showed teamsters union funds were used to pay expenses of Frank Brewster's race horse jockey, trainer, horse vans and a union organizer who exercised Brewster's horses.

Brewster, west coast teamsters' boss, neither confirmed nor denied the payments. He said he couldn't recall such payments from union funds but promised "I will check into them."

Kennedy said that among other things they disclosed union funds were spent for lodgings for Brewster's jockey, Richard Cavallero; his trainer, Mel Eisen, and a union organizer named Terry McNulty.

Papers, Radio, TV Will Be Prosecuted

(From CP and BUP Dispatches)

TORONTO—Attorney-General Kelso Roberts of Ontario announced today he is launching a prosecution against the Toronto Telegram under the Lord's Day Act for publication of a Sunday newspaper last Sunday.

Mr. Roberts also told the Ontario Legislature he is consenting to prosecutions against Toronto's two other daily newspapers—the morning Globe and Mail and the evening Star—as well as the CBC and radio station CKEY.

"The Telegram Publishing Company, through one of its officials, has made complaints against several agencies whom it claims are likewise doing work on the Lord's Day and are publishing, selling, advertising and disseminating news on that day.

"In view of these formal complaints, as attorney-general, I have consented to prosecutions against the CBC, The Globe and Mail Ltd., the Toronto Star Ltd., and the Toronto Broadcasting Co. Ltd., operators of broadcasting station CKEY.

The attorney-general emphasized that the Lord's Day Act was a federal statute but required the consent of the provincial attorney-general for a prosecution.

Roberts said he had received no formal complaint prior to last Sunday when the first Sunday Telegram appeared and that the Lord's Day Alliance had only laid a formal complaint in the form of a letter to him a few minutes before he started to speak in the legislature today.

In view of this, Roberts said, his department was not acting on the Lord's Day Alliance objections but on his own desire to clarify "as soon as possible" the legal and policy position involved in publication of the Toronto Sunday Telegram.

DECISIVE TEST

This was seen as a decisive test case that could either result in a drastic overhaul of the 1906 Act or bolster its restrictive effects.

"At this time it is important for all of us in Ontario to understand what this law is and what the discretions and exemptions are and how they apply. There is also the ques-

The LESTER PATRICK Story

(After more than half a century connected with ice hockey, both in Canada and the U.S., Victoria's Lester Patrick has decided to make a permanent retirement from the game. In a 16-part series, Archie Wills, former sports editor and former managing editor of the Times, tells the human story of Lester through the days of his greatest fame until the present. This is the third installment.

By ARCHIE WILLS

(Copyright, 1957, By The Victoria Daily Times)

SECRET AMBITION

Lester got his first taste of real hockey competition when he was 18 and Canada and himself had embarked on a new century, the 20th, which was to be, according to some prognosticators, Canada's Century. It also turned out to be a very eventful one for young Patrick.

The Montreal Juniors had won their league title and had qualified to meet the Ottawa champions for national laurels.

They were to meet in Ottawa and the home team had been established 3-to-1 favorites.

Archie Wills

Lester had settled into his favorite position, rover, which was the key spot in seven-man hockey. The rover was both a defence man and a forward and was a playmaker. Even at this early age, when Lester was still a tall, skinny kid, he was a good skater, an excellent stickhandler and could lay a pass on his forwards' sticks without either having to take a second look. Never packing a board-rattling shot, Lester was the master of the feint and once inside the defence, he was deadly.

"I never wasted a shot; it was always dead on," says Lester, when he thinks how many shots are wasted these days.

It was at this time that he let his father in on the secret which he had nursed for several years.

He was making good progress both in hockey and in business, having been promoted to manager of one of his father's five wood and coal offices.

But, he still wanted to be something else.

A cowboy!

When Father Patrick was advised of the secret, he inwardly revelled in his son's ambition and said:

GREGORY DEMANDS DISMISSAL OF BOARD

Binding Specialists' Rulings Asked on Compensation Appeals

George Gregory (Liberal, Victoria) introduced a bill to amend the Workmen's Compensation Act in the legislature Monday night.

The bill, tabled without notice, would amend a section of the act dealing with appeals and would force the board to follow recommendations of specialists called in on appeals.

He stated that in several appeal cases recently, the specialist's opinion had been disregarded and the original board ruling upheld.

Earlier, he demanded replacement of the entire Workmen's Compensation Board, stating:

"This board has had its chance . . . we need a new one."

He referred particularly to the board's handling of the case of Jack Zucco, 45-year-old B.C.

IN THE LEGISLATURE

Educated Cows Moo-ooted!

Rev. P. A. Gaglardi, British Columbia's perky highways minister, has no intention of being saddled with the responsibility for horses and cattle wandering over his highways.

He made this clear Monday when Leo Nimsick (CCF-Cranbrook) suggested Mr. Gaglardi's department should "do something" about horses and cattle roaming at will and causing danger to traffic.

Mr. Gaglardi looked righteously indignant as he rose to his feet.

'Surely," he said, with a half-imploring look around the House, "this department has enough trouble building highways and mending potholes without running after stray animals."

Then, his face lighting up with inspiration, he added:

"Why not turn them over to the education department"

Mr. Speaker Irwin Mixes His Governors

Speaker Tom Irwin dropped a brick at Monday's night sitting when he said:

"I have the honor to present a message from His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor F. M. Wallace . . ."

"Who is Mr. Wallace?" asked Robert Strachan, chief of the CCF clan.

Mr. Speaker hastily amended his statement. He had juggled the names and initials of the present governor, Hon. F. M. Ross, and the former governor, Hon. Clarence Wallace.

The 14 uniformed page boys who run messages in the legislature were entertained to lunch in the parliamentary restaurant Monday by the Speaker.

All are pupils at St. Louis College, Victoria, which allowed the boys to take this work after Greater Victoria school board refused to release boys from public schools, as was done prior to 1954.

Rev. Brother G. P. Lyons retains control of the boys while they are working in the legislature and Mr. Irwin says this system works well.

"The boys we have now do the job better than those we had before. They are smart, efficient and well-behaved. Mr. Lyons watches them so closely that two were actually suspended earlier in the session because they did not live up to the standard."

The boys were given souvenir menu cards of the luncheon (at which they ate steak) and later they collected autographs from members of the House.

"It was a swell lunch," one of them said.

Two immigrants from Britain, here just four days, were in the public gallery following the proceedings with close interest.

"We want to learn all we can about British Columbia and we thought we should start with the government," said breezy, good-looking Herbert Ford, who with his young wife, Mary, flew to Victoria from Kendal, Westmorland, last week.

Merchants Hire Traffic Expert To Study New 1-Way Street Plan

City council will continue debate on redevelopment of the Fountain Circle when it meets Wednesday.

Results of a survey of property holders on Douglas and Government on the one-way street question will be considered.

Ald. M. H. Mooney told council Monday that so far 85 per cent of those queried are in favor of the one-way street plan submitted by traffic expert J. D. Faustman.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, speaking for Douglas Street merchants opposing one-way streets, says no decision should be reached until a further report is obtained from Mr. Faustman.

Mayor Scurrah told council he had been informed the Hudson's Bay Company has hired the California engineer to bring in an alternative to the one-way plan.

ONE OF SIX

(Actually, HBC officials explained today, the firm is only one of a committee of six merchants affected who have arranged the survey.)

Mayor Scurrah said HBC plans to erect a two-storey parking garage on the site of the frozen food plant now east of the store parking lot.

"It will not go in if the one-way streets go in," the mayor said.

After a lengthy traffic study, engineer Faustman recommended lats year that the Hillside-Douglas-Gorge-Government intersection be rebuilt with two traffic islands. Traffic flow would be north on Douglas from Herald to Hillside and south on Government over the same distance.

Mayor Scurrah started argument Monday by asking the whole matter be tabled until the HBC alternative plan study was completed by Mr. Faustman.

Ald. Don Smith opposed any delay.

"If we yield to government by pressure groups it's wrong," he said.

He called for a six-month trial of the one-way street plan. He thought council should have "courage" to make its own decisions.

"It isn't a question of courage. I am personally not sold on one-way streets at this time," said the mayor.

Later, when Ald. Mooney revealed a survey of homes and businesses on Douglas between Hillside and Princess supported the one-way plan, the mayor added:

"That is a different story. It may change my thinking. I want to do what is best."

He suggested tabling the issue to Wednesday, when another council meeting on school costs is slated.

As a committee-of-the-whole, council approved in principle the Faustman recommendation that Superior Street be extended across Beacon Hill Park to take civil servant traffic off the main downtown streets.

NEW LIGHTS

Also approved was the suggestion that traffic lights be installed at Bay and Blanshard, Quadra, Cook and Fernwood and at Hillside at Cook and Blanshard.

The question of business suffering through traffic regulations came up again when council debated a recommendation that parking be abolished along Government Street nightly between 4 and 6 o'clock.

This would permit four lanes of north-south traffic.

"We should move cautiously. We are not out to do damage to the downtown merchants. We must go slowly as far as drastic moves (are concerned)," said Ald. Edgelow.

Chief John Blackstock gained council approval on a compromise suggestion that parking be restricted for the rush hours on the east side of Government only. This would permit two lanes north and one lane south.

THIEF 'SHOT' HIS VICTIMS TO SLEEP

TURIN, Italy (UP) — A self-styled Don Juan confessed today he used a water pistol loaded with chloroform to put his girl friends to sleep while he robbed them.

Cristoforo Leumia, 35, told police he invited girls in nightclubs for drives, "shot" them with the pistol and then abandoned them on park benches after taking their valuables.

'Snaky, Sinuous and Big,' Caddy Returns for Summer?

Three persons believe they saw Victoria's most elusive sea creature, "Caddy," surface in the water off Dallas Road and Menzies on Sunday.

Mrs. Joan Sledlecka, her husband, Zbigniew, and their eight-year-old daughter, Josephine, said they were looking out to sea when they saw three large humps in the water. The time was 5.45 in the afternoon.

Mrs. Sledlecka said it was something "snaky, sinuous and big" in appearance.

She discounted the suggestion that she may have seen dolphins.

"I think we probably saw Caddy," she said.

. . . PATRICK

"Alright, my boy, get yourself a 60-day return ticket to the west and see how you like it."

Father Patrick wanted his son to get the experience but, he knew the wages would be $25 a month, with work from sunrise to sunset, and he expected that Lester would be fed up with that and willing to come home within the 60 days.

Lester got fed up with the work very quickly but he met Col. J. S. Denis, superintendent of irrigation for the CPR in Calgary, and switched over to a job as a rod and chain man, at $45 a month, and all found. There was an eight-hour day and you didn't work when it rained but were paid for it just the same.

When the Fall was waning Lester looked over the open-air rinks in Calgary and read an advertisement in the papers for hockey players to sign up with Brandon.

Inquiry revealed that Brandon had signed players for all positions but "point." In that day the defence was staggered similar to that in lacrosse. In front of the goalie was the "point," in front of him "cover" and ahead of him "rover."

Lester wired his father for permission to stay the winter in Brandon and see how he could make out in senior company. He had seen enough of the life of cowboys while in the Calgary area to side-track his secret boyhood ambition and now had his mind centred on being a hockey player.

A REVOLUTION

The opening game in Brandon was notable for a revolution. Lester's name was to be forever associated with the changing of defensive tactics in hockey and to be the forerunner of the many innovations which his fertile and strategic brain would produce.

Games at that time were divided into halves of 30 minutes each.

The first half was well under way and the defence men were toddling along at their general tactics of stopping the forwards. The defence men never moved out of their end. Once they had recovered the puck they pushed it ahead to the forwards and let them carry the attack.

Lester was impatient and his mental processes were stimulated when two opposing forwards closed in on him at his position at "point." He took the puck from them and, before the fans and other players realized what was happening, Lester was stickhandling his way down the ice and went in on goal for a shot.

For the necessary dramatic effect we can't say that Lester's first mission resulted in a goal, but the shot was dead on and the goalie was startled.

In the intermission the players were badgering Lester about his foolish tactics. Then spoke up Charles McWhirter, president of the Brandon Hockey Club:

"Why, can't I rush?" replied Lester. "I can't see why I can't try to do some damage before they come back at us. They didn't score against us when I was rushing. Why can't I still try?"

"That makes sense to me," said McWhirter.

Make sense it did. Before the game finished Lester had scored two goals and from that game on defence men had to be able to rush and carry the puck as well as bounce the attackers into the stands.

Brandon won the Manitoba championship and the team went east to meet the celebrated Silver Seven for the Stanley Cup, the first time Lester was to appear in that celebrated contest. In the two-game series Brandon lost but Lester was now firmly established as a star in the national winter sport.

miner, said to be wholly disabled from silicosis.

He said the board had disregarded a petition of right filed by Mr. Zucco in which he claimed a silicosis pension.

"His case has been crystalized under the Workmen's Compensation Act, yet nothing has been done about it. The obvious duty of the cabinet is to endorse this petition with those famous words 'let right be done.'"

REFEREES

Labor Minister Lyle Wicks replied that a special board of referees for silicosis cases has been set up by the WCB on the recommendation of a Toronto specialist who was called in by the government last year.

The board will be headed by a professor of the University of B.C. faculty of medicine and two other physicians.

Mr. Wicks read a letter from WCB chairman J. Edwin Eades stating that the Zucco case will be given "immediate" attention by the board of referees.

CCF Leader Robert Strachan noted that there had been during the present session "concerted protests from both sides of the House that the Workmen's Compensation Board change its approach and methods."

"In too many cases in the last few years the board has been leaning over backwards to protect itself and its funds," Mr. Strachan said.

tion to be determined as to the effect of tolerances which have been developed under this law because of the change of times and conditions since the passing of this act more than 50 years ago," he added.

"In view of this," he said, "I have felt that it was in the interests of all that this matter should be placed before the courts in a way in which these problems would be satisfactorily determined.

Roberts said no date has been set for the court test of the case.

The Toronto Telegram Sunday became the first newspaper in Canada to publish seven days a week by launching its Sunday edition. Prior to the publication of the first Sunday edition, Telegram publisher John Basset said the Telegram contended that publishing a Sunday paper was an act of necessity, and as such, a matter over which the Lord's Day Act has no control.

Neither the Toronto Globe and Mail nor the Toronto Star publish Sunday editions. However, the Monday edition of the Globe and Mail is printed and sold on Sundays and the Toronto Star employs reporters and other staff members to gather and edit news on Sundays in preparation for Monday's editions.

League-Trailers In Series Lead

Courtenay Glaciers dropped the first game of a best-of-three final for the Suburban Hockey League championship to hind-running Nanaimo-Ladysmith Combines, 5-4, Sunday night at Nanaimo.

Combines, last place finishers in the four-team loop, came from behind four times before Stu Johnson notched the winner at 3.57 of the overtime period while his team was playing a man short.

He beat Glacier goalie, Roy Frazier after stick handling the puck through the Courtenay defence.

Denny Plansky scored twice for Combines while Mel Gordeau got a goal and an assist and Earl Robinson gained two assists.

Dr. Adams Jaunty as Defence Hammers at Key Crown Witness

LONDON (Reuters)—A key Crown witness in the murder trial of Dr. John Bodkin Adams swayed and nearly fainted today under 2½ hours of relentless cross-examination.

Helen Stronach was one of the four nurses employed by wealthy widow, Mrs. Edith Alice Morrell, whom Adams is accused of murdering. She testified in the second day of the trial at Old Bailey, London's central criminal court.

Defence counsel Geoffrey Lawrence went through the nurses' records of the case entry by entry. Twice he accused Miss Stronach's memory of "playing tricks" and persuaded her to change some of her testimony.

Lawrence questioned her entry on Nov. 2, 1950—11 days before the elderly widow's death—saying Mrs. Morrell was "semi-conscious and rambling." He made Miss Stronach read from her own notes what the widow had eaten for lunch that day.

There was a stir in the court as she read out: "Partridge, celery, pudding and brandy and soda."

"Having looked at these notes, it is quite clear it was wrong to say she was semi-conscious and rambling," Lawrence said.

Miss Stronach replied: "Apparently so."

The defence also gained her admission that there was not a single entry showing she gave any morphine to the patient. He challenged as "quite inaccurate" the statement that Mrs. Morrell was "doped and half asleep" when the 58-year-old doctor paid night visits.

Winnipeg Man Heads Glass Firm

H. R. Hawkins, formerly of Winnipeg, has been appointed manager of Canadian Pittsburgh Industries Ltd., 977 Fort, succeeding J. A. Finlayson, who has been moved to Vancouver.

Mr. Hawkins was with the company 10 years in Winnipeg before transfer here March 1.

Canadian Pittsburgh manufactures and distributes glass and paint throughout the country.

2 RCN Ships Limp Into Halifax; Collided While Seeking Lost Plane

HALIFAX (BUP) — Two Royal Canadian Navy ships limped into Halifax harbor today after colliding while searching for a missing Avenger aircraft.

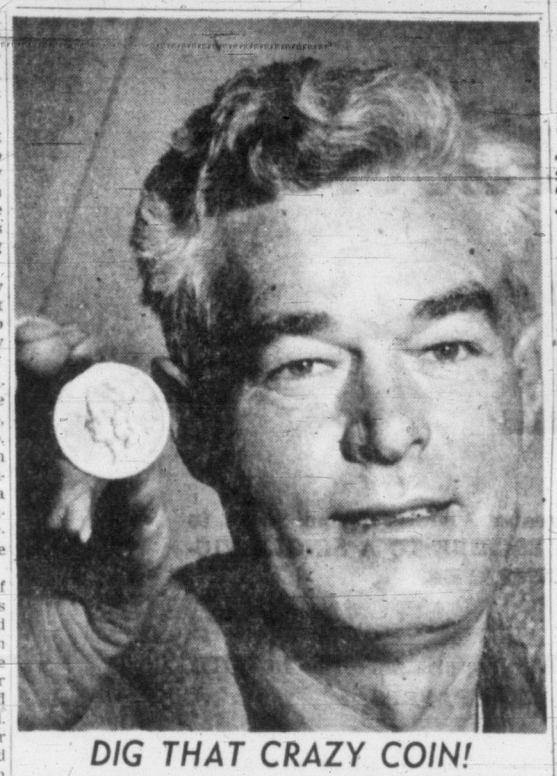
The 1,300-ton coastal escort vessel Portage was the first to make port, arriving shortly after noon under her own steam. The 2,360-ton frigate Lauzon followed 30 minutes later under tow from the tug St. John.

The collision took place early today about 50 miles southeast of Halifax. The ships were two of seven called out Monday night to help in the search.

Reports from the scene indicated that the Portage, the smaller of the two ships, rammed the Lauzon in the side. No one was seriously injured in the collision though an able seaman on the Lauzon suffered a bruised hand. Weather conditions at the time were favorable, with visibility good, the wind light and the sea calm.

A preliminary inspection of both ships was carried out this afternoon at HMCS dockyard in Halifax. A naval spokesman said the Portage received severe damage to her stem while her forepeak was broken open and several compartments flooded. The Lauzon was holed on her starboard side about one-third of the way from her stern with a number of compartments aft flooded.

The skipper of the Lauzon is Lieut.-Cmdr. James C. Carter of Montreal and the commander of the Portage is Lieut.-Cmdr. Kenneth R. Crombie of West Vancouver.



DIG THAT CRAZY COIN!

United States "double eagle"—a $20 gold piece stamped in 1858—was unexpected bonus for bulldozer contractor William H. Williams on Esquimalt Road job. Coin was turned up by tractor blade. Mr. Williams said one catalogue consulted estimated value of coin at $300. It was found at depth of three feet. (Times Photo.)

. . . RACKETS

This came from records of a motel Kennedy said was two miles from Tanforan race track and four miles from Bay Meadows track.

Brewster said while McNulty was paid as a union organizer, he wasn't working on union time when he exercised Brewster's horses during dawn hours.

Kennedy asked why the union paid for McNulty's expenses while staying at a motel, so close to the tracks.

"Well, it was close to a big highway, where he could check up on trucks, see if they were organized," Brewster said, adding: "It's a natural place for an organizer to stay in rather than in the heart of a city."

Some of the union people, Brewster added, had to check about labor conditions of gate men, parking lot employees and others around the tracks.

TWO AIR TRIPS

Among other documents Kennedy produced were two he said indicated that Bobby Eisen, identified by Brewster as the son of his former horse trainer, made two air trips, one costing $46.09 and the other $55.22, at union expense.

Brewster's comment was "I can't remember." He has more or less conceded that he has got his personal funds and teamsters' funds mixed up.

Chairman John McClellan (Dem., Ark.) told Brewster the inquiry had been handicapped by the destruction of union records he had sought to subpoena, making it necessary to go to bank records and other sources for information.

"It raises some very strong suspicions as to what the records would show if we had them," McClellan said. "Would you agree to that?"

"It isn't good," Brewster replied.

The testimony marked the start of the fourth week and 13th day of public hearings by the committee.

In advance of the session, Kennedy told reporters the questioning of Brewster might have a "vital" bearing on a later inquiry involving Dave Beck, president of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters.

Beck said in a television interview Sunday that he had borrowed $300,000 to $400,000 of union funds some years ago without interest, and paid back "every cent" of it.

Kennedy said he plans to check income tax returns of both Beck and Brewster.

TCA Grounds Viscount Planes

MONTREAL (BUP) — Trans-Canada Airlines today grounded most of its Viscount turbo-prop airplanes for the second time in order to replace the bolts in the flap mechanism, president Gordon McGregor disclosed.

The move followed "further consultations" with the manufacturers, Vickers - Armstrong Ltd., who suggested the complete change as an "ultra-ultra safety measure."

The new survey will be conducted on Douglas Street only while Ald. Mooney's survey will take in Government Street property-owners.

Question being asked by the merchants is: "Do you favor at this time the making of any part of Douglas Street a one-way street for north-bound traffic, anywhere south of the round about?"

Firms sponsoring the survey are Eddy's Ltd., Hudson's Bay Company, Victoria City Motels Ltd., Paul's Drive-In, Angus Marine and Stewart-Warner. All oppose the one-way plan.

DANGER TO WAY OF LIFE

Steel Executive Hits At Current Taxation

TORONTO (CP)—Current levels of taxation constitute "a very great danger" to continuance of the Canadian way of life, Stuart Armour, economic adviser to the president of the Steel Company of Canada, said Monday night in an address to the Toronto Board of Trade Club.

There is, said Mr. Armour, "far too much weakness, lethargy and ignorance with respect to taxation, even on the part of businessmen and other members of society who should know better.

"Every time we ask the state to do something for us which we can and should do ourselves—or ask the state for something which we can do without—we are inevitably surrendering to the state a little more of our hard-bought personal freedom. We are also making inevitable a higher level of taxes.

"What we badly need in Canada is agitation against taxes as violent as that which now is causing United States politicians to stop, look and listen . . .

"Marx and Engels, the parents of communism, called for the elimination of capitalism which they said could be effected by means of high taxation alone. Are we in Canada out to prove them right?"

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Thou, my Lord, silent before Thy traducers like a sheep that is dumb before its shearer, I would learn of Thee. Let my honest and open life still the wagging tongue. Help me extract from every knock a boost and to rejoice in my critics as the unpaid guardians of my soul; in Christ's name. Amen.

Announce New Way To Shrink Painful Piles
Science Finds Healing Substance That Does Both—Relieves Pain—Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Toronto, Ont. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain. Thousands have been relieved—without resort to surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne*)—the discovery of a famous scientific institute. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H* Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.
